PRESIDENT GIVES M'NUTT NEW JOB; CAPITAL BUZZES

Move Seen as Part of 3d Term Drive.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 10.—Disclosure today that President Roosevelt has selected former Gov. Paul V. McNutt of Indiana for head of the newly created Federal Security administration and that McNutt has accepted loosed a flood of political speculation.

Paul V. McNutt.

The prevailing inference drawn by the politicians from the incident is that the President has snuffed out the McNutt boom for the Democratic nomination for President and annexed McNutt and the Indiana organization to the Roosevelt bandwagon. The politically minded saw in the appointment additional evidence that the President is a candidate for a third term, is already taking steps to remove rivals and take over their following, and is giving thought to the selection of his running mate.

Discuss McNutt for Ticket.

As a result of this speculation the capital before nightfall was alive with discussion of the possibility that the Democratic ticket will be Roosevelt and McNutt.

Many Democrats believe such a ticket would be the strongest their party could name. McNutt, while governor of Indiana, gave his state a New Deal administration. However, he classes himself as a middle of the roader who would attract the support of the Democratic right wingers.

McNutt now gets a salary of $18,000 a year as United States high commissioner to the Philippines. The security administration post will pay $12,000 a year.

Interest Centers on Stark.

With McNutt annexed by the President, interest now centers on Gov. Lloyd C. Stark of Missouri, who looms large as his state's favorite son in the Democratic national convention next year. If the President should appoint Stark secretary of the navy to fill the vacancy created by the death of Secretary Claud A. Swanson the move would be interpreted by the politicians as a Roosevelt maneuver to take Missouri away from conservative Senator Bennett Champ Clark, friend of Vice President John N. Garner, and deliver it to the New Deal.

Although Assistant Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison is the logical successor of Swanson, Gov. Stark, who is a graduate of the naval academy, has been mentioned by administration officials as a likely choice.

President's Anxiety Sensed.

Indications have not been wanting for several weeks that the President is concerned by the strength of the conservative opposition in his party which would militate against the choice of a New Deal candidate, whether himself or another.

Also giving reason for Mr. Roosevelt's anxiety is the rift being created in the administration itself by the third term movement.

The rift between the President and Postmaster General James A. Farley, who organized the nomination and two elections of Mr. Roosevelt, has been caused by Farley's ambition for the presidency and by Farley's coolness toward the third term for his chief.

Expect Stand by Farley.

Gossip has it that when Farley returned from his coast to coast political survey Mr. Roosevelt never asked him for a report on his findings. Farley, according to well founded report, has ceased to be the President's political adviser. The postmaster general is in constant touch with Garner, however, and is counted upon to come out in due time against a third term for Mr. Roosevelt.

It was learned Mr. Roosevelt offered McNutt the security administration post when the latter called at the White House last Thursday. The President gave him until today to decide. With McNutt's acceptance, the nomination will go to the senate tomorrow.

Council Group Rejects Transit Plan

PROPOSES SUIT TO FORECLOSE ON PROPERTIES

Decide Tomorrow on City's Course.

The city council's local transportation committee voted yesterday to reject all traction unification plans proposed by the transit lines and to ask court foreclosure sales of the surface lines and the elevated lines to the highest bidders. The companies are under jurisdiction of the federal court.

This action, if approved by the council at its meeting tomorrow, will throw into the discard the whole proposal for a unified franchise made by representatives of the transit lines after two months of negotiations with the city.

The lines asked for an 8 cent street car fare and proposed a valuation of $220,000,000, which the aldermen claim is excessive, for the properties of the surface lines and elevated lines.

Merger Delay Likely.

Yesterday's move also may delay plans for the financial reorganization and merger of the elevated and surface lines. These plans were prepared in the many years the companies have been under court jurisdiction.

They include the plan of modernization and unification recommended to the court last September by Walter A. Shaw, court traction adviser, and a plan for distribution of new securities of a unified company to present securities holders.

Agreement on the distribution plan finally was reached in February, three years after it had been presented, by committees representing surface and elevated lines' securities holders.

Court Authorization Required.

If the committee's action is approved by the council, these steps will follow:

1. William H. Sexton, special traction attorney for the city, will take the proposal before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson. Sexton will ask the court to discharge the three man committee appointed by the court to negotiate for a unified franchise and to authorize foreclosure sales of the properties. Shaw is chairman of the negotiating committee. The other members are Guy A. Richardson, president of the Chicago Surface Lines, and Col. A. A. Sprague, trustee for the elevated lines.

2. The council committee will receive from the city's engineering staf a proposed valuation for the properties of the surface and elevated lines. Engineers have reported to the committee that this valuation will be ready next Monday.

Would Draft Own Ordinance.

3. The transportation committee, under a motion passed yesterday, then will proceed to draft its own ordinance for a unified transportation system. The system would include the surface and elevated lines and the Chicago Motor Coach company [bus company].

4. The unified ordinance then will be put up to the companies or individuals acquiring the properties at foreclosure sales, assuming the court authorizes the sales.

5. If the committee and those controling the properties agree on an ordinance, approval of the ordinance and the foreclosure sales will be sought at a public referendum.

Negotiations Would Start Anew.

Foreclosure sales of the properties, traction experts said yesterday, probably would mean that present securities holders would bid in their properties and the problem of issuing new securities and negotiating with the city would begin all over again. The city's motive in asking the sale of the properties, experts added, is the hope either of drafting a more favorable unified grant with the purchasers or of forcing the parties who now control the lines to back down on the 8 cent street car fare and lower their suggested valuation.

Yesterday's move by the city, it was learned, was planned last Friday at a closed meeting of the transportation committee, headed by Ald. James R. Quinn [50th], with Mayor Kelly, Philip Harrington, commissioner of subways and traction, and Sexton.

Insists Bridges Paid His Dues to Communists

San Francisco, Cal., July 10.—(AP)—A government witness testified today at the deportation hearing of Harry Bridges that he had accompanied the west coast C. I. O. labor leader to communist meetings, but Bridges flatly denied he is or was a communist party member.

Where deportation hearing is held.

The hearing is being conducted on Angel Island, immigration station in San Francisco bay, by the labor department. James M. Landis, dean of Harvard law school, is the presiding trial examiner.

The denial by the 39 year old labor leader was followed by testimony of Maj. Laurence A. Milner of Oregon, that the Australian born longshoremen's union official was "a very able member of the communist party."

Milner, World War Veteran.

Milner, who said he was a world war veteran, identified an affidavit made at Portland, Ore., Sept. 22, 1937, in which he named Bridges as a communist. He asserted he associated with communists for more than four years while confidential agent for the Oregon National Guard. He said he accompanied Bridges to communist party meetings.

Milner said Bridges paid communist party dues of $2.50 in his presence on one occasion but refused a receipt.

At the defense table were Miss Carol King, attorney of New York, and Richard Gladstein and Aubrey Grossman, C. I. O. attorneys, all of whom smiled with Bridges at Milner's testimony.

Charge They Hate Bridges.

Landis told defense counsel the government specifically charges Bridges, who came to this country from Australia in 1920, with being a member of the communist party of America. The complaint accused him of belonging to an organization which "advocates the overthrow by force and violence of the government of the United States."

"Those who really prepared the case against Bridges hate Bridges, the C. I. O. and most of all unions," the defense charged in an opening statement, which also accused Raphael P. Bonham, district immigration service director at Seattle, and his assistant, Roy J. Norene, stationed at Portland, Ore., with "conspiring to make false charges."

Bridges was questioned by Thomas Shoemaker, chief deputy United States commissioner of immigration.

STARTS ONE STOP HOP TO LONDON IN 15 TON BOAT FOR DINNER DATE

San Diego, Cal., July 10.—(AP)—Pilot Russell Rogers today lifted a 15 ton flying boat off San Diego harbor waters and headed across the continent on a projected one stop flight to Felixstowe, England.

Rogers was determined to keep a dinner engagement Wednesday at a London hotel, despite a 24 hour delay in getting away from California.

The only scheduled stop for the huge consolidated model 28-5 craft, built for the British air ministry, was Botwood, Bay of Exploits, Newfoundland, 3,300 miles from San Diego. Cruising speed of the twin engined ship is 115 miles an hour. Rogers and his three crewmen hoped to reach Botwood in 22 hours. The takeoff was at 11:23 a. m. Chicago time.

Landslide Razes Bedroom; Family Sleeping in Kitchen

Knoxville, Tenn., July 10.—(AP)—A landslide caused by a rainstorm wrecked the J. V. Kimbrough residence early today, smashing the bedroom of the small frame dwelling. The Kimbroughs didn't sleep in the bedroom last night. Because of the heat they made a pallet on the kitchen floor and were unscathed in the 30 foot landslide.

Realtor Walks 24 Miles to Mark 70th Birthday

Springfield, Ill., July 10.—(AP)—John H. Keest celebrated his 70th birthday anniversary today by walking twenty-four miles, from his home town of Middletown to Springfield. Keest, a real estate and insurance man, began his hike at 1:45 a. m. and arrived here seven hours later. He said he attributed his hardiness to frequent long walks.

The Law Raids Indiana Beach Party; 56 Jailed

East Chicago's jail was bulging yesterday and last night. Confined in it were fifty-six men, all of whom were arrested late Sunday on a barren beach near the Indiana town after numerous complaints had been received that children were being annoyed. Through the day the prisoners were questioned by Chief of Police Walter Conroy and Capt. Martin Zarkovich.

Early today the chief announced that forty-eight of the men had been charged with public indecency and that the others had been released. Thirty-eight of the accused are residents of Chicago.

Little Frequented Beach.

He described the beach as waste land, almost a jungle. It is little frequented by the general public.

"A few of the men," he said, "were without clothing. Most of them wore trunks. We picked up some women's clothing on the beach, but no women were found."

Arrangements for the raid were carefully made. Seven men, led by Zarkovich, approached the beach in extended formation. As they closed in there was an attempt of the gamboling bathers to break through the line. It was estimated that from fifty to seventy-five escaped.

All Taken to Cells.

All were loaded into police wagons at the nearest road—the beach is northeast of East Chicago—and taken a once to cells. A dozen or more had no clothing other than their trunks and in this scanty garb they had to spend the day.

The lobby of the jail was filled last night with attorneys and relatives of the prisoners, all seeking to have them released.

Grass 48 Feet Long Found; Offers Aid Against Erosion

New York, July 10.—(AP)—Discovery of the Leviathan of all grasses, a single strand that grew forty-eight feet along the earth's surface, is announced in Nature, Britain's official science journal. This strand sent down roots every few inches and from them grew blades up to three feet tall. Nature says this grass offers a new aid to stopping soil erosion. The grass was found in East Africa and is a cousin of Bermuda grass, grown in the southern states.

Police Routed as C. I. O. Auto Strike Grows

Detroit, Mich., July 10.—[Special.]—The C. I. O. extended its strike of automobile workers to Pontiac, Cleveland, and Saginaw today in an effort to tie up work on all the new 1940 model automobiles of the General Motors corporation.

In Pontiac about 450 pickets surrounded the Fisher Body plant and pushed policemen and city officials off the sidewalks. City Manager William P. Edmonson told union officials they would not be allowed to barricade the plant gates. The union's answer was a solid line of pickets across all entrances.

Six times the pickets repulsed the efforts of fifty policemen and ten deputy sheriffs to open a way into the plant. Authorities finally gave up and 1,100 production workers were unable to go to work. Police Chief Charles S. Rhodes said the city lacks sufficient officers to control such situations.

Agree to Curb Violence.

City Manager Edmonson said a dozen Fisher employés visited his office following this morning's picketing to demand police protection so they could go to work. He conferred with C. I. O. representatives who later announced a verbal agreement to prevent violence, which they said will not limit or eliminate picketing.

R. J. Thomas, president of the C. I. O.-U. A. W. A., said "the corporation will find larger and just as solid picket lines both in Pontiac and Detroit tomorrow morning."

In Cleveland pickets were ordered on duty at the big Fisher Body plant there following a strike vote by workers in the tool and die and maintenance departments.

Although company officials at Cleveland would not comment, there was no indication they planned to close the departments involved. It was said only 700 workers would be affected immediately by the strike.

Factional Fight Real Issue.

The strike was called July 5. Aimed at crippling General Motors' preparations for 1940 production, it has made more than 6,000 workers idle. The C. I. O.-U. A. W. A. presented demands for wages, hours, and working condition adjustments, but deeply involved in the dispute is the C. I. O. union's battle with Homer Martin's A. F. of L. United Auto Workers.

The present U. A. W. A. contract with General Motors was written before the union split into two groups. The corporation has declined to negotiate any contract matter with either group until final determination of which union is entitled to contract rights.

COL. LINDBERGH BACKS AVIATION RESEARCH BILL

Washington, D. C., July 10.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh urged congress today to authorize expenditure of $10,000,000 for an aeronautics research station at Sunnyvale, Cal., to help develop military and commercial airplanes of increased size, speed, and range. He appeared before a house appropriations subcommittee which previously had turned down the proposal. Committee members said he endorsed the budget bureau's recommendation that congress appropriate $4,000,000 for the project outright and authorize contracts involving an additional $6,000,000.

1,000 MOBSTERS FIGHT WOMEN ON SEWING PROJECT

Thousands Mass for March on City Hall.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 10.—[Special.]—A policeman died today as the result of a riot in which 1,000 WPA strikers defied the authorities.

After the policeman's death, the strikers gathered 6,000 strong at a massmeeting tonight and made plans to march on the city hall tomorrow. They talked of forcing their way into the council chambers.

Patrolman John B. Gearty, 46 years old, died after being injured when he was rescuing a non-striking WPA worker from a flying picket squad. The strikers turned on the officer and slugged him, a half a dozen of them beating him on his head and shoulders.

Coroner's Finding Disputed.

After a post mortem examination, Deputy Coroner G. W. Callerstrom said the policeman's death was due to coronary sclerosis. He said the excitement of the beating placed a strain on the officer's heart and if it were not for the heart trouble the injuries would not have been sufficient to cause death.

On the other hand, Mrs. Gearty, widow of the policeman, said that her husband never had asked for sick leave and that if he had had coronary sclerosis it had not troubled him.

[Chicago doctors said there was little likelihood that Gearty had coronary sclerosis at his age and expressed the belief his death was caused directly by the blows he received. Details of their assertions will be found at the end of this story.]

The crowd was comprised of about 1,000 persons who had quit their WPA jobs in protest over the 130 hour work month ordered by congress. Their ire had been aroused by the desire of sewing workers to continue with their relief project.

About thirty trafic policemen were escorting more than 100 women and several men from a sewing project conducted in a large building in the wholesale district.

Police Lines Broken.

The crowd hissed and booed the workers and the officers. Catcalls became louder as the workers passed between the lines of policemen. The leaders of the mob moved threateningly toward the nonstrikers.

With a surge, the strikers broke police lines. They surrounded the workers and herded them to a nearby parking lot. There they pelted their victims with sand, pebbles, sticks, and broken glass. Police charged the crowd and rounded up the sewing project workers.

Much of the pickets' animosity was centered on Frank Fischer, 45 years old, a nonstriking WPA employé said to have brandished a screwdriver when police conducted him and others to work through picket lines this morning.

Demonstrators gathered around Fischer and knocked him down. Police tried to put him on a street car in front of the Great Northern railroad depot so he could go home. Strikers formed a human chain in front of the car. Some one broke a street car window.

Fight Way to Squad Car.

Patrolman Paul Larson and a companion then started to walk Fischer to a police station eight blocks away. About fifteen pickets overtook the three men and began beating them.

Gearty ran to the assistance of Fischer. Gearty pulled away one of the pickets and held him. The other strikers instantly turned on Gearty and slugged him. A police squad car came by and the beleaguered officers used their night sticks to force their way to it.

They drove to the city hall to house Fischer in jail for safekeeping. About 200 demonstrators followed, booing and shouting insults. On the city hall steps there was more scuffling before police cleared a way and darted inside.

Gearty, complaining of a severe headache, was taken to the General hospital about 15 minutes after he had been beaten. He lapsed into unconsciousness a few minutes after his arrival and died less than an hour later.

X-rayed for Head Injuries.

Fischer was X-rayed for possible head injuries and then released from

UNION DISPUTES FLAT OWNERSHIP IN PICKET SUIT

Denies 'Janitor's' Mother Owns Building.

An argument over ownership of the nineteen flat building at 7600 Aberdeen street yesterday caused the continuance until today of a suit seeking to restrain the Chicago Flat Janitors' union, local No. 1, from picketing it.

The suit was brought by Dal I. Kephart, whose mother has an equity in the building. Kephart and his father have been doing the janitor work since 1931. There was no trouble, however, until last April 8 when stench bombs were tossed into hallways and tenants were warned that the incident would be repeated unless a union janitor were hired.

Challenge Mother's Ownership.

The union argued before Judge Donald S. McKinlay that the building is owned by the Trust Company of Chicago, not by Mrs. Kephart. Attorney Julius Ruben, representing Kephart, said Mrs. Kephart owned most of the beneficial certificates issued when the trust company was named trustee and that her interests are paramount.

The suit was filed on the basis of a recent State Supreme court ruling which bars picketing by nonemployés.

An offer to complete interior decorating, which was interrupted when picketing began May 22, was made to Mrs. Kephart yesterday by Steven Shrader, superintendent of the Batdorf company, 4154 Cottage Grove avenue.

Picketed Company Sues.

Another attempt to prevent "stranger picketing" was made yesterday when an injunction suit was filed against the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union by Charles Ferdinand, proprietor of the F. & S. Garment company, 1514 Milwaukee avenue.

The suit charges that none of the firm's fifteen employés is on strike and that all have refused to join the I. L. G. W. U.

On two occasions, the suit says, the pickets carried signs accusing the firm of being unfair to organized labor. It also charges that the pickets blocked the entrance to the company's plant, caused disturbances and on one occasion struck a woman employé. The suit was filed by Attorney Samuel S. Siegel. A hearing will be held before Judge McKinlay today.

SIKORA SEEKS DIVORCE AS LOVE SLAYING SEQUEL

Rudolph Sikora yesterday filed a divorce suit against his wife, Margaret, for whose love he shot and killed Edward Solomon. The suit, prepared by Attorney Otto Baer, charged desertion.

Mrs. Margaret Sikora.

The Sikoras were married Aug. 17, 1935, and separated July 9, 1938. Sikora killed Solomon six weeks later. He surrendered and was acquitted of a murder charge. His wife, who had planned to marry Solomon after divorcing Sikora, testified against him at the trial.

Sikora, who is 32 years old, lives at 5733 West 22d place, Cicero. Mrs. Sikora is 23 years old.

MISLED BY FALSE CLAIM, SHE SAYS; GETS ANNULMENT

Mrs. Doris Reissenweber O'Brien, 18 years old, was granted an annulment yesterday from Robert Quinn O'Brien, 19, by Judge Philip Finnegan. Her attorney, John R. Davis, told Judge Finnegan that the couple were married Jan. 10, 1938, in Hattiesburg, Miss., when both were under age, and separated April 15 of the same year. Davis said that O'Brien represented himself as a brother of Ann Sheridan of the movies, said he had a movie job, and was an aviator. None of these things, which dazzled Miss Reissenweber, was true, Davis said. Mrs. O'Brien lives at 1537 East Marquette road. O'Brien lives in Maryland.

BARR IS CHOSEN AS LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL HEAD

Senator Richard J. Barr [R., Joliet] was elected chairman of the Illinois legislative council yesterday at its first meeting to prepare measures for the next general assembly in 1941. J. F. Isakoff was appointed research director. He has been assistant director under Dr. Charles M. Kneier, who resigned to return to the University of Illinois.

Twelve subjects were proposed for scientific study to form the basis for future legislation. The council will meet again July 24 in the Palmer House to decide which of the subjects shall be turned over to the research staff.

Congressman T. V. Smith, who as a state senator fathered the "little legislature" plan, explained the program to new members of the council. The purpose is to modernize the general assembly by presenting it with impartial date on proposed legislation, gathered before bills are introduced.

ORDERS FEDERAL INQUIRY INTO JOB TIEUP AT SCHOOL

Prosecutor Interested in Curb on Commerce.

United States Attorney William J. Campbell said yesterday he would order an investigation of an undeclared strike on the $3,000,000 vocational school building project at 87th street and Chappel avenue. The prosecutor wants to know if there has been any interference with interstate commerce. Stone to be used in the building has been purchased in Indiana, but delivery has been delayed for more than three weeks.

Campbell said Public Works administration officials had not asked him to intervene. The PWA has given the school board a grant of 45 per cent of the cost of the school building. John C. Christensen, architect for the board of education, said the grant might be revoked if the delay continues.

Refers to Washington Inquiry.

"I have taken notice of complaints concerning the situation," Campbell said. "It would seem to be a short-sighted policy for persons in the building industry to be involved in practices which in fact hamper building—if that is so."

He referred to testimony given in Washington, D. C., before a monopoly investigating committee by Gen. Robert E. Wood, chairman of the board of directors of Sears-Roebuck and company, and to the announcement by Oscar W. Rosenthal, president of the Builders' Association of Chicago, that the builders would conduct an inquiry of their own. Gen. Wood charged Chicago building trades unions with placing costly restrictions on building.

One of Campbell's first witnesses may be William R. Goss, contractor, whose dispute with the stone cutters' union has been held responsible for tying up the $3,000,000 school job.

Buys Stone in Indiana.

Goss, who has had considerable experience in school board contracts, undertook to buy the stone for the school building in Indiana and have it cut and trimmed there. He was advised that the Chicago Building Trades council had passed a resolution protesting against the use here of any material produced or fabricated elsewhere if it could be produced or fabricated here.

After it is delivered here Goss' men would set the stone and lay the brick for the school building. The unions insisted that all cutting and trimming be done here by members of the stone cutters' union. For three weeks there has been a standstill on the project, but no strike has been actually called.

WPA PICKET MOB KILLS POLICEMAN IN STRIKE RIOTING

Meet to Plan March on City Hall.

the hospital. Patrolman Larson had been struck across his neck, but was not hurt seriously.

WPA men were on a rampage throughout the city. Earlier a band of 75 to 100 roving pickets stopped at a schoolhouse where 180 persons were working on a historical research project. Some invaded the corridors of the building and shouted: "Close up! Close up!"

Military police at Fort Snelling were asked to stand by following reports that disorders were planned at a WPA repair project on the United States Veterans' hospital, adjacent to the army reservation. Twenty city policemen also were sent to the scene. Although some of the employés on the project went on strike, there was no disturbance.

Vow to Halt All Projects.

The Workers' alliance has called a mass meeting of all WPA strikers for 5 o'clock tomorrow morning. Alliance officials proclaim they will shut down all Minneapolis and Hennepin county projects and then march on the city hall.

All available policemen, detectives, and trafic patrolmen were ordered to report for duty at 8 a. m. in the expectation of further disorders.

Gearty's death was the first police fatality here from street fighting since the bloody truck strikes of 1934, when two special deputies were slain.

BLAMES BLOW FOR DEATH

Dr. Irving S. Cutter, dean of the Northwestern university medical school, expressed the opinion last night that the death of Policeman Gearty in a WPA riot in Minneapolis was due directly to the blows he received in the street fighting.

"There is about one chance in fifty," Dr. Cutter said, "that a man as young as Gearty [46 years old] would have had coronary sclerosis. But even if he did, it is reasonable to assume that he probably would have lived many more years if he had not been beaten.

"Coronary sclerosis is caused by lime filling and narrowing the two main vessels that feed the heart muscle. When they become so small they cannot carry sufficient blood to nourish the muscle, the patient dies a painful death. He usually lives several hours, however, after the attack.

"One type of the disease is fatal when a clot of blood comes from another part of the body, possibly dislodged by a blow, and suddenly plugs the vessel.

"It is very unlikely that coronary sclerosis in itself could have caused the death of Gearty."

MINISTER IS CHARGED WITH MURDER IN GUN DEATH OF HIS WIFE

Flint, Mich., July 10.—(AP)—A warant charging the Rev. James Wilson Lane, 61 years old, with murder in connection with the fatal shooting of his partially blind wife, Mrs. Nancy Virginia Lane, was issued today.

Prosecutor John Roach said there were discrepancies in Lane's story that his wife was killed accidentally while Lane was trying to dislodge a shell jammed in his .22 caliber rifle. Mrs. Helen Anderson, the Lanes' 41 year old housekeeper, who was divorced from her husband two months ago, is held as a material witness.

Lane, ordained by the International Holiness Assembly of Michigan, has been preaching at Sunday services near Frankenmuth, Mich., and working in a Flint automobile factory during the week.

7 Union Members Indicted in Elgin Labor Disorder

Indictments charging seven members of labor unions in Aurora and Elgin with conspiracy and riot were returned yesterday by the Kane County Circuit court in Geneva. The disorders on which the true bills were based occured May 22 during a clash of non-union men and unionists at the residence of Harry Demler in Elgin. Those indicted are Fred Dusell, Roland Buckner, William Eastman, and Ralph P. Wagner, of Aurora, and Arthur Switzer, Howard A. Floyd, and John Wendt of Elgin.

BULLET VICTIM RELEASED.

Louis Caponigro, 28 years old, 336 West 30th street, who was arrested when he sought treatment for a gunshot wound, was dismissed in the State Street court yesterday. He said he had been struck by a stray bullet.

743 PARK POLICE TO BARE CRIME FANGS FOR CROWD

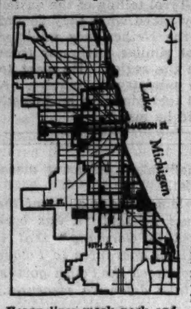
BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

One of the nation's most highly specialized police departments—that of the Chicago park district—will have a leading part in the second annual Police and Fire Thrill show next Sunday afternoon in Soldiers' field.



Heavy lines mark park and boulevard system.

The 743 men of the park force have the mighty task of protecting Chicagoans in 5,437 acres of recreation grounds. It is their duty to patrol and keep safe 110 miles of busy streets and boulevards that are connected with the park system, and fifty-two miles of drives in the parks themselves.

Catch Many Criminals, Too.

And if you think this means they are merely trafic cops you have another think coming. These park policemen are versatile. Each year their record for capturing criminals is an enviable one.

These men are highly trained in the use of firearms. They are deadly shots with pistols. They can fire from lurching cars in heavy trafic without endangering any one but the object of their chase. Their cars are especially equipped for such chases and for the gun battles that sometimes result.

In the bullet proof glass of the windshield are set steel rimmed portholes, through which pistols and machine guns can be thrust. Thus the policeman avoids exposing himself as he fires on his quarry.

Fifteen Equipped as Ambulances.

Besides being rolling fortresses, these stout little cars have many remarkable features. Of the fleet of fifty-eight fifteen are equipped as ambulances. The cars also carry red flares to be set out around wrecked automobiles or other trafic obstructions.

All the squad cars are equipped with radio, and fifteen of them have two way radio sets, enabling the men to talk with the central dispatcher in the park administration building, just east of Soldiers' field. Thus they can keep him informed as they pursue other machines. Knowing which way the quarry is heading, the dispatcher can summon other squads to head off the fleeing criminals.

Gang Dragnet to Be Shown.

Just how this is done will be demonstrated at the thrill show. In pursuit of a hijacker gang park squads and squads from the cartage detail of the detective bureau—in two-way radio cars of the city police—will cooperate in hemming in the gang.

A radio equipped airplane will direct the cars as it hovers over Soldiers' field. Voices of the squad members, of the aerial police and of their dispatcher will be carried to the crowd by amplifiers. The plane is being provided by Dr. Sidney Walker. The radio in it will be operated by Park Policeman George Snyder, who also is a pilot.

In the hijacker chase Chief James B. Kerr of the park district will be associating with men of his old command from the detective bureau. He was a member of the cartage detail for 23 years before his appointment as chief of the park police last Nov. 1. At that time he was a lieutenant in charge of the detail. He has been in police work since 1907.

Admission to the two hour thrill show of crime and fire warfare will be 25 cents for adults and 10 cents for children. The event is sponsored by the fire and police departments, the park district and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Deputy Chief Fire Marshal Anthony J. Mullaney, speaking over radio station W-G-N yesterday on the June Baker home management program, described thrilling fires he has fought. He also told of thrill show plans for Sunday.

PLAN NEW PUBLIC ENEMY LIST IN LABOR VIOLENCE

The Chicago Crime commission in a special bulletin yesterday announced its intention to publish a new list of public enemies unless lawless activities by men identified with labor organizations are stopped.

"Only during the heyday of prohibition, when gansters entered the field of illicit liquor distribution, were there as many killings as have been laid at the door of organized labor," the bulletin said.

It said that George Henneman, a business agent of the painters' union, local 191, has been arrested several times for carrying concealed weapons but always has been freed in court. Henneman is to be arraigned on this charge Friday before Municipal Judge Joseph B. Hermes.

WPA STRIKERS CHOOSE TODAY: JOBS OR OUSTER

Officials Expect Most of Them to Return.

Officials of the Work Projects administration predicted yesterday that most of the strikers against the new working hours requirement will return to work today to save their jobs. Five consecutive days' absence from duty is cause for dismissal under WPA rules.

Meanwhile, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, called for more strikes in a New York speech. He said A. F. of L. leaders would meet in Washington tomorrow to ask congressional action to restore the old wage-hour requirements. A bill to accomplish this purpose was introduced in the house yesterday by Representative Adolph J. Sabath [D., Ill.].

Strikes in Many States.

Unionized WPA workers formerly worked from 48 to 120 hours a month, at prevailing union wage scales. Congress recently revised the rules, requiring a minimum of 130 hours of work a month for all WPA workers. Strikes in protest against this revision have been spreading through many states.

A one day strike of 4,800 women on Cook county sewing projects will be staged tomorrow, according to the Illinois Workers alliance, which is coöperating with the International Ladies Garment Workers union in promoting the demonstration.

This strike is similar to the walkout in Minneapolis, Minn., which yesterday resulted in a riot that caused the death of a policeman. The Chicago demonstration will be timed to coincide with the opening of a national conference of WPA administrators in the Stevens hotel.

May Settle Relief Question.

The question of whether local relief will be given to strikers may hinge on the position taken by WPA at this conference. A meeting of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, scheduled to consider the matter today, was postponed until Friday.

Roving bands of strikers, many of them in motorcades, boosted walkouts of WPA workers in Illinois yesterday. State headquarters in Chicago compiled figures showing that 8,790 men walked out last Wednesday, the first day of the strike. Incomplete official information from all parts of the state indicated the strikers totaled 12,000 yesterday.

Bloomington nonstrikers who had vowed to work yesterday even if they had to carry shotguns went home when the found several hundred strikers on the project. The twenty-three nonstrikers had been warned that Sheriff Walter G. Nierstheimer would arrest any one who was armed.

Later in the day the sheriff promised another group of nonstrikers from nearby Danvers that he will give them protection today.

WRIGHT QUITS IERC.

Belvidere, Ill., July 10.—[Special.]—Omar H. Wright, vice chairman of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, said today that Gov. Horner has accepted his resignation from the commission. He was the last of the original seven members appointed to the IERC by Gov. Louis Emmerson early in 1932. His resignation, which he said was offered because of frail health, leaves one vacancy on the commission.

MRS. SCHREIN GIVEN 2 TO 4 YEARS; THEFTS SET AT HALF MILLION

Mrs. Lillian Schrein.

New York, July 10.—(AP)—As Mrs. Lillian Schrein was sentenced today to serve from 2 to 4 years for grand larceny and forgery, a probation report was made public disclosing that she stole more than half a million dollars from Martin Beck, theatrical producer, and in three years lost $190,000 gambling on horses.

Although Mrs. Schrein was tried for thefts of $60,000, she was convicted on only three counts of the 44 count indictment, two of forgery and one of grand larceny involving only a few thousands.

"This is a tragic case," said Judge Charles C. Nott Jr., as Mrs. Schrein, 38 years old and the mother of three children, faced him tearfully.

Case Proceeds Unless Order Is Reversed.

Portland, Ore., July 10.—[Special.]—Assistant Attorney General Ralph E. Moody said today that Jack Estabrook, former secretary of the American Federation of Labor's warehousemen's union in Portland, will be tried for a fourth time in connection with the Memorial day bombing in 1935 of a country store in Washington county unless the State Supreme court reverses its order for a new trial on a rehearing.

Estabrook, one of the kingpins in Oregon's long labor war, was an associate of Albert Earl Rosser, former secretary of the Oregon A. F. of L. teamsters' union. Rosser now is serving a twelve year sentence in the Oregon penitentiary on a charge of arson, as a result of the burning of the West Salem box factory.

Two Jury Disagreements.

In Estabrook's first two trials the juries failed to agree and on the third trial he was convicted. The Circuit court sentenced him to serve eighteen months in the penitentiary, imposed a fine of $500 and assessed trial costs.

Last June the Oregon Supreme court, reviewing the case on appeal, reversed Circuit Judge R. Frank Peters of Washington county and ordered a new trial for the defendant.

Sale of Beer Involved.

The Washington county store was bombed, it was brought out at the trial, because William Fuggy, proprietor, had been selling beer manufactured by a brewery at which a strike had been called.

The Estabrook case was the last of the three major terrorism cases to be decided by the State Supreme court. The court recently affirmed the arson conviction of Rosser, but the high court reversed the conviction of Hugh Reynolds, former secretary of Eugene teamsters, accused of hiring men to break windows of a barber shop.

M. S. Szymczak, Former City Controler, Divorced

Mrs. Helen Szymczak, 1124 Washington boulevard, Oak Park, was granted a divorce yesterday by Judge Rudolph Desort from M. S. Szymczak, a member of the federal reserve board and former city controler. They were married June 15, 1916, and separated Aug. 10, 1935. The suit charged desertion. A daughter, Mary, 17 years old, is the only minor child. An out of court financial settlement has been made.

presents here each day observations intended to be of value to those it seeks to serve.

TUNEFULLY PUT

By CALEB

"I WONDER," said the scholarly-looking gentleman, "that you don't write, sometime, of the 'overtones' prevalent in your establishment." Seeing our uncertainty, he explained. . . .

"I happen," he said, "to be a musician. One of the phenomena we encounter in our medium is that of the overtone. A fairly good dictionary definition might be: 'An upper tone accompanying a fundamental tone.' In short, you might think of overtones as the sound-values set up by vibration of a string's separate parts—giving the tone fuller and richer expression as a whole."

He saw that we had caught his meaning, and continued. "This analogy has occurred to me many times in the course of my visits to Field's. Your fundamental tone, for example, is that of merchandising. You gather merchandise of every sort from every land; give it attractive display and proper price—primarily to supply prospective buyers. But in that very function you also create innumerable 'overtones' that have nothing to do with merchandising terms of buying and selling, at all.

"As a typical instance: study of the sparkling creations in your Swedish glassware prompted me to read up on glass in general. And I found the subject fascinating beyond words! Similar promptings—implicit educative and cultural 'vibrations,' so to speak—project themselves into the customer's interests from every phase of your activities. Take your Mexican Market, your Pageant of Peking, your Pilgrim Shop, your Collectors' Room, your Antique Galleries, your Wedgwood Room, your Rainbow Room, your Interior Decorating department, and any number of other sections. All these, through their thousands of varied wares and appeals, provide a liberal education, to be picked up by any mind accustomed to inquiry and open to instruction. . . . You see my point?"

We did; and it seemed well taken. Modern merchandising requires that every known source of good merchandise be geared to the gamut of public need. That in turn means that, in geographic representation alone, the roster of Field displays resembles the index to a gazetteer.

For this happy simile of "overtones," therefore, we are deeply indebted to our scholarly friend. Candor compels the further admission that if these artistic, factual, aesthetic and informative shopping-values add much to our customers' satisfaction, they also add much to our own . . . by assuring more harmonious and resultful service.

BRITAIN WARNS IT WILL RESIST COUP IN DANZIG

Door Is Left Open for Peaceful Solution.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 10.—Prime Minister Chamberlain tonight indicated that Great Britain would not object to a peaceful change in the status of Danzig but would resist any sudden coup by Germany to bring the free Baltic port back into the German empire.

In a statement in the nouse of commons on the government's policy, he declared twice that the Danzig situation "may be capable of improvement."

Invitation to Parley Seen.

After the second declaration he added what appeared to be an invitation to Adolf Hitler to sit down and talk things over by saying: "It may be that in a clearer atmosphere possible improvement could be discussed."

Chamberlain then recalled that Col. Josef Beck, Polish foreign minister, in a speech on May 5 had said that if Germany is guided by peaceful intentions and peaceful methods of procedure "all conversations are possible."

At the same time Chamberlain reiterated previous statements that Britain has given a guarantee to Poland to assist her "in case of a clear threat to her independence which she considers it vital to resist with her national forces." He added that "we are firmly resolved to carry out this undertaking."

Suspect Appeasement Deal.

Despite this renewal of the pledge to protect Poland the feeling was expressed in some circles that some kind of appeasement deal is on, designed on the Munich model for settlement of the Danzig affair.

[A dispatch from Warsaw said Poland is willing to consider a settlement, based on a common Polish-German guarantee of Danzig's independence. Under the suggested plan, league of nations control over the city would be abolished. Danzig would continue to be a part of Poland's customs area and Polish citizens would be granted equal rights with Danzigers. Poland, the dispatch said, would insist upon excluding the possibility of Danzig's militarization by Nazi rulers.]

Sees Danzig Depencent on Poland.

"Racially Danzig is almost wholly a German city, but the prosperity of its inhabitants depends to a very large extent upon Polish trade," Chamberlain said.

"The Vistula river is Poland's only waterway to the Baltic and the port at its mouth [Danzig] is therefore of vital strategic and economic importance to her.

"Another power established in Danzig could, if it so desired, block Poland's access to the sea and so exert an economic and military strangle hold upon her.

No Oppression of Nazis.

"Those who were responsible for framing the present statute of the free city were fully conscious of these facts and did their best to make provisions accordingly.

"Moreover, there is no question of any oppression of the German population in Danzig. . . .

"The present settlement, though it may be capable of improvement, cannot in itself be regarded as basically unjust or illogical.

"The maintenance of the status quo had in fact been guaranteed by the German chancellor [Hitler] himself up to 1944 by the ten year treaty which he had concluded with Marshal Pilsudski.

"Up till last March Germany seemed to have felt that, while the position of Danzig might ultimately require revision, the question was neither urgent nor likely to lead to serious dispute.

"But in March, when the German government put forward an offer in the form of certain desiderata accompanied by a press campaign, the Polish government realized they might presently be faced with an unilateral solution which they would have to resist with all their forces.

"They had before them events which had taken place in Austria, Czecho-Slovakia, and Memmelland.

"Accordingly they refused to accept the German point of view and themselves made suggestions for possible solution of the problems in which Germany was interested.

Tells of Defense Measures.

"Certain defensive measures were taken by Poland on March 23 and a reply was sent to Berlin on March 26.

"It has been freely stated in Germany that it was his majesty's guarantee which encouraged the Polish government to take the action which I have described but it will be observed that our guarantee was not given until March 31.

"By March 26 no mention of it even had been made to the Polish government.

"Recent occurences in Danzig have inevitably given rise to fears that it is intended to settle her future status by unilateral action organized by surreptitious methods, thus presenting Poland and other powers with a fait accompli [a completed fact.]

Refers to Aggression.

"In such circumstances any action taken by Poland to restore the situation would, it is suggested, be represented as an act of aggression on her part and, if her action were supported by other powers, they would be accused of aiding and abetting her in the use of force.

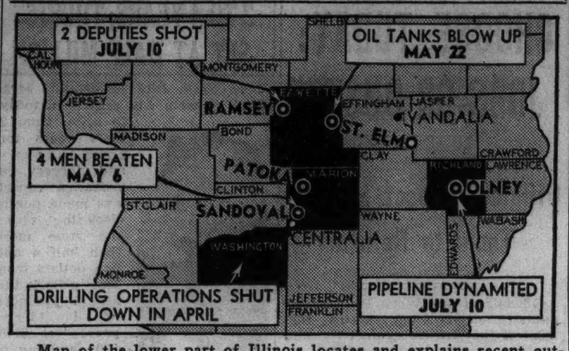
"If the sequence of events should be such as is contemplated on this hypothesis, the honorable members will realize from what I have said earlier that the issue could not be considered as purely a local matter involving the rights and liberties of Danzigers, which incidentally are in no way threatened, but would at once raise graver issues affecting Polish national existence and independence.

"We have guaranteed to give our assistance to Poland in case of a clear threat to her independence which she considers is vital to resist with her national forces and we are firmly resolved to carry out this undertaking.

"I have said that while the present settlement is neither basically unjust nor illogical, it may be capable of improvement.

"It may be that in a clearer atmosphere possible improvements could be discussed. . . ."

Scenes of Violence in Illinois Oil Field



Map of the lower part of Illinois locates and explains recent outbreaks of violence there attributed to attempts to organize workers in the oil field.

Two Deputies Shot

Vandalia, Ill., July 10.—[Special.]—Authorities today blamed efforts to unionize oil field employés for the ambush shooting of two deputy sheriffs and the dynamiting of a pipeline. The attacks were the latest in a series of disorders in the Illinois oil fields.

Walter Bartimus of St. Elmo and Ross Kitsinger of Vandalia were shot. Although they are deputies, they were working as guards and watchmen for the Williams Brothers Construction company. They were guarding tractors at a construction camp near Ramsey, in Fayette county, when two men leaped from bushes and opened fire with shotguns. Bartimus was taken to a hospital with thirty-seven pellets in his back. His companion was wounded less seriously.

The pipeline dynamited belongs to the Central Pipeline company, a subsidiary of the Texas Oil company. The blast was two miles south of Olney. Authorities said American Federation of Labor unions are trying to organize the oil workers.

GERMANS ASSERT BRITISH ATTITUDE CHANGES NOTHING

Argue London Encourages Polish Chauvinism.

BERLIN, July 10.—(AP)—German political circles, reacting sharply to Prime Minister Chamberlain's declaration of the British position on Danzig, tonight asserted his statement "changes absolutely nothing."

They charged Great Britain with "encouraging Polish chauvinism." They said that, although a "reasonable solution" still could be found for the Danzig problem, "from Berlin the right atmosphere for such a solution cannot be perceived."

"It is particularly deplorable," it was said in these quarters, "that Chamberlain did not mention the wishes of the Danzig citizens.

[Ninety-six per cent of Danzig's population is German.]

Take Dig at Britain.

"Of course it is realized here that Britain never was particularly strong for self-determination of peoples. Otherwise the British empire would not stand as it does today.

"It was noteworthy that Chamberlain admitted that Poland had mobilized first—on March 23—and only thereafter answered Germany's proposals with a refusal. The prime minister's argument that the British guarantee was not given to Poland until March 31, or eight days after the Poles had taken defensive measures, falls flat."

[Chamberlain made a point of the dates because he said "it has been freely stated in Germany" that it was the British guarantee to Poland "which encouraged the Polish government" to take defensive measures.]

Answer Premier's Statement.

It was said in these quarters: "The British guarantee at that time was called the most noteworthy change in British foreign policy in a long time. Such changes are not made overnight without long deliberations. Hence, the decision to make the change must have been taken much earlier."

Answering Chamberlain's statement that in a clearer atmosphere an improvement in the Danzig situation might be found, Germans said:

"We have done our share to keep the atmosphere clear by playing down the brutality practiced against Germans in Poland. We have been reluctant to publish these stories."

POLAND TICKLED; PRAISES BRITISH STAND ON DANZIG

WARSAW, Poland, July 10.—(AP)—Poles tonight expressed the belief that Prime Minister Chamberlain's promise to support Poland in opposing German absorption of Danzig should do much toward easing the situation in eastern Europe by showing that Poland has the support of western powers.

The statement in the British house of commons today came as welcome reassurance to a nation which has been heavily mobilized for almost four months and under severe nervous and financial strain. While official sources expressed satisfaction at Chamberlain's words, popular opinion went further and greeted his statement with enthusiasm.

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

ROME, July 10.—Foreign residents of the Italian Tyrol have received orders from the police to leave the region within forty-eight hours, it was disclosed tonight. So far twelve Britons, fifteen Frenchmen, and fifty Netherlands citizens are known to be involved. No Americans are affected as yet.

The former Austrian minority has just been told to choose between going to Germany or becoming Italian fascists.

The British consul at Milan informed his embassy here that he had received telegrams from British subjects in the Tyrol telling of the ouster order. They asked what they should do. Later the Netherlands minister in Rome got similar telegrams from nationals in the region. He went to the foreign ministry to inquire. A high official told him that an investigation would be made.

18 Killed in Fires Which Sweep Spanish Morocco

CASABLANCA, Morocco, July 10.—(AP)—Military authorities said today that eighteen persons had died in week-end fires which ravaged thousands of acres of crops in Spanish Morocco.

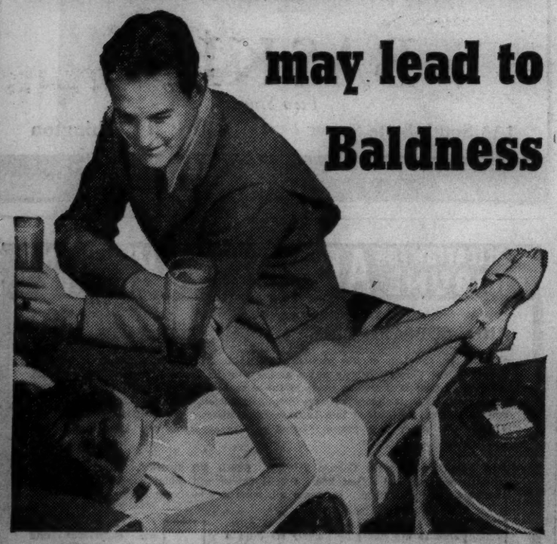
SUMMER SUN may lead to Baldness



Call for Free Scalp Examination

● Before you go on your vacation, play golf without a hat, or go to the beach—you should learn how to expose your scalp to the sun so benefit, not damage, will result. Over-exposure to the hot summer sun increases hair-loss, aggravates dandruff, and starts your scalp on the road to baldness. Call today at a Thomas office for free consultation and learn the proper way to give your scalp a beneficial "sun bath."

The Thomas' will gladly advise you—without charge—on all matters of hair health. Call for a complete scalp examination and learn for yourself how Thomas treatment ends dandruff, stops abnormal hair-loss and actually re-grows hair on thin and bald spots. Remember—no charge is made for advice or for scalp examination.

15,000 miles in less than 15,000 minutes!

Two Official A.A.A. Records Now Held by This Beautiful, New Studebaker Champion

Across America and back for new gas-saving record! This Studebaker Champion's official A.A.A. record of 27¼ miles per gallon in a round trip coast-to-coast run has never been equalled by any 6 or 8 cylinder car.

Day and night for 15,000 miles on Indianapolis Speedway! Never, since two Studebaker Presidents set the original A.A.A. record for the distance, have stock cars ever been given such a merciless test.

YOU know this new Studebaker Champion is good looking, the instant you see it. You know it's luxuriously roomy, the moment you relax in its wide, deep-cushioned seats.

And now with the authority of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association to back up your judgment, you know that a new Studebaker Champion offers you economy and ruggedness which no other leading lowest price car can match!

Officially leads its field in economy and endurance!

Under strict A.A.A. supervision, a stock Studebaker Champion sedan was driven 6,144 miles from San Francisco to New York and back to San Francisco at an average speed of 40.8 miles per hour to set a new coast-to-coast record of 27¼ miles per gallon.

And then, right after that, this same Champion and another just like it were run 15,000 continuous miles night and day on the Indianapolis Speedway in less than 15,000 minutes. They did better than 18 and 19 miles per gallon respectively even at that pace!

PROTEST TO JAPS: BOMBS ENDANGER AMERICAN LIVES

Mission Church Damaged in Chungking Raids.

Washington, D. C., July 10.—(AP)—The United States of America protested to Japan today against "indiscriminate bombings" at Chungking, provisional capital of China, "which seriously endangered American life and property."

Under instructions from Secretary Hull, the American chargé d'affaires at Tokio, Eugene H. Dooman, made what the state department termed "emphatic representations" to the Japanese minister of foreign affairs.

He protested specifically against bombings of Chungking by Japanese airplanes on July 6 and 7 when the Lewis memorial church, an American Methodist institution, was damaged and bombs fell near the homes of Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson and Embassy Counsellor Willys R. Peck. At the same time, Hull called the bombings at Chungking to the attention of Japanese Ambassador Kensuke Horinouchi when the envoy called on him today and discussed the far eastern situation.

Japs Back Wang's Party.

SHANGHAI, July 10.—(AP)—Japanese military authorities announced formation of a new Chinese political party tonight led by Wang Ching-wei, former premier who was expelled from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's regime last Jan. 1.

Since his expulsion from all official government and party positions for deserting his post and suing for peace with Japan, Wang has been conferring with the Japanese and leaders of the Peking and Nanking puppet régimes.

Lieut. Col. Itsuo Mabuchi, director of the Japanese army press bureau in Shanghai, made today's announcement. He said "the Japanese army approves and pledges support to Wang upon his emergence as leader of the real Kuomintang [Chinese nationalist party]." Mabuchi said the new party was "in reality an orthodox Chinese nationalist party in opposition to the nationalist government at Chungking."

May Head New Régime.

Lieut. Col. Mabuchi said it was "likely that Wang soon will be the senior Chinese leading the new order in East Asia." The phrase "new order in East Asia" is used by the Japanese to describe what they seek to establish in China.

Wang's expulsion from the Chungking régime was the latest of several historic breaks with Chiang. The men were favorite disciples of Sun Yat-sen, founder of the Chinese republic, and their paths have crossed stormily several times since 1925, when Chiang won out over Wang in the race for Sun's mantle.

Fire on British Boats.

TIENTSIN, July 10.—(AP)—Three Chinese rivermen were injured today, one critically, when Japanese soldiers on the shore of the Hai river fired on two vessels of the Taku Tug and Lighter company, a British concern.

British reports stated the company's tug Saxon and the lighter Chinlung were proceeding upstream alongside the British bund when a Chinese sampan attempted to catch a free ride against the current. The Japanese then opened fire from the opposite shore, wounding the Saxon's steersman.

27th Arrest Leaves Erving Deep in a Mire of Charges

After Erving H. Ryan's auto collided with a taxicab early yesterday in Waukegan police charged him with: driving while intoxicated, driving without a state license, driving without a city vehicle license, driving without a driver's license, driving with faulty brakes, and having a bottle of liquor in his car with the seal broken—a violation, they say, of the dram shop act. Ryan has been arrested twenty-six times by police since 1927. He lives at 218 North County street, Waukegan.

GIRL, 18, STABS SELF.

Miss Virginia Macudzinski, 18 years old, 9000 Commercial avenue, stabbed herself yesterday. She apparently was despondent because her mother had rebuked her for staying out late. She was arrested after being given hospital treatment.

Farm Twin Wounded

Berenice (left) and Eunice Williams of Sparta, Wis., whose father died defending them. Berenice was shot by their attacker.

Sparta, Wis., July 10.—[Special.]—Mrs. Robert Williams and her daughter, Bernice, were battling for their lives at St. Mary's hospital today. They were wounded with a shotgun by Henry Stark, a farm hand, after Stark had clubbed Mrs. Williams' husband, Robert, to death early Sunday morning.

Stark, employed on the Williams farm for thirteen years, came home after a drinking party and invaded the room in which Berenice and her twin sister, Eunice, were sleeping. The twins, who are 19 years old, screamed for their father. He was killed when he came to their assistance. The girls and their mother then shut themselves in a room, but Stark shot them through the door. He ended his own life with another blast of the shotgun.

LOYALIST CHIEF WHO GAVE MADRID TO FRANCO JAILED

Besteiro to Serve 30 Yrs. for Aiding Rebellion.

MADRID, July 10.—(AP)—Prof. Julian Besteiro, who was convicted by a military tribunal of helping prolong the Spanish civil war, was sentenced today to thirty years imprisonment. He was the last head of the Spanish republican régime.

Besteiro, a socialist leader and a professor of philosophy, headed the Madrid defense council which surrendered the city to the Nationalists last March 28, after which Generalissimo Francisco Franco's forces entered the city without firing a shot.

He was tried on Saturday by a military tribunal of four generals and two lieutenant colonels on charges of aiding rebellion. The government prosecutor, Acedo Colunga, a former student of the defendant, demanded the death penalty.

Count Ciano Arrives.

BARCELONA, July 10.—(AP)—Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister and Premier Mussolini's son-in-law, arrived here today aboard the cruiser Eugenio di Savoia for a seven day state visit in Nationalist Spain.

Streets were decorated with arches and flags and emblems of Spain and Italy and of the Fascist party and the Falange [Spanish Fascists].

Delay Union with Axis.

In connection with his departure yesterday from Gaeta, Ciano's newspaper, Il Telegrafo of Leghorn, predicted great results toward cementing and fixing more vigorous and intimate coöperation between Italy and Spain.

The visit will afford full opportunity for discussion of economic, political and military coöperation of the two governments. Fascists, however, have indicated that any effort to bring Gen. Franco into the Rome-Berlin military alliance would be delayed until Franco visits Mussolini in September.

Canada Would Offer Haven to British Royal Princesses

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., July 10.—A Canadian newspaper proposal that in the event of a European war Canada should provide a haven for the two royal princesses and thousands of British children, was adopted in principle today by Premier Hepburn of Ontario, who said he would recommend it to his cabinet. The idea is to create a dominion-wide organization to place the children in homes here, far from destructive air raids.

Fireworks Victim

RUTH ANN REXWINKLE.

Ruth Ann Rexwinkle, 8 years old, died yesterday in St. Catherine's hospital, East Chicago, of burns suffered July 5 when a fireworks powder snake she was igniting set fire to her clothing. The accident occurred near her home at 1816 Central street, Whiting. Her death was the first fatality from fireworks in the Chicago area during the Fourth of July celebration period. The child's father, George Rexwinkle, is general superintendent of the Whiting refinery of the Standard Oil company.

2 HELD TO JURY IN ROBBERY ATTEMPT.

Judge Lambert K. Hayes in Boys' court yesterday ordered Vincent Baffa, 19 years old, 1118 South Western avenue, and Anthony Costello, 20, of 428 South Leavitt street, held to the grand jury for the attempted robbery a week ago of a candy store at 176 North State street.

ECUADOR TROOPS REVOLT AND SEIZE RADICAL LEADERS

QUITO, Ecuador, July 10.—(AP)—A number of socialist and revolutionary vanguard [leftists] politicians were arrested today after the Andinos Cayambe army battalion engaged in a short-lived revolt against officers.

The revolt began last midnight and ended without bloodshed as the troops withdrew demands for removal of their commander, and normal conditions were restored.

Arrow locates scene of Ecuador revolt.

Reports were current that the uprising was part of a projected revolution, but the government said it was directed solely against officers of the battalion.

Politicians arrested included Dr. Calderon, brother-in-law of former Dictator Alberto Enriquez; Ezequiel Padilla Coz, leader of the Socialist party, and Norberto Lazo, secretary of the revolutionary vanguard.

Frustrate Chilean Revolt.

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 10.—(AP)—An alleged plot to seize government buildings yesterday while Chilean armed forces were taking an oath to the flag at Cousino park was reported today to have been frustrated with the arrest of eight persons.

Forest Fire in Colorado Blazes Across 1,500 Acres

Fort Collins, Colo., July 10.—(AP)—Loggers at several camps evacuated as fire tonight ravaged 1,500 acres of dense timber in the Roosevelt national forest. The flames spread to within half a mile of the camps fifty miles northwest of Fort Collins. The fire was within five miles of several ranches. The fate of about 500 cattle in the fire zone was not known.

Japs Claim 59 Red Planes Downed; Lose One of Own

TOKIO, July 10.—(AP)—Domei, the Japanese news agency, said today Japanese had reported fifty-nine soviet Russian airplanes shot down and the loss of one of their own in a new battle over the Khalka river, along the disputed border between Outer Mongolia and Manchukuo.

Fishing Village to Become New Lithuanian Seaport

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

KAUNAS, Lithuania, July 10.—Gen. Kazys Skucas, Lithuanian minister of interior, arrived at the fishing village of Shvental today to inaugurate the work of converting the town into Lithuania's seaport for overseas trade.

DANZIG CHARGES POLISH SOLDIERS VIOLATE BORDER

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, July 10.—(AP)—Free City authorities drafted a protest to Poland today against an alleged violation of the frontier by three Polish soldiers.

Police charged that shortly before dawn two Polish privates and a noncommissioned officer crossed the frontier bridge over the Vistula river at Liessau and menaced Danzig customs officials with a rifle. The customs officials, they said, held their ground and the Poles were persuaded to return to Poland.

Vorposten, Danzig Nazi newspaper, described the incident as "Polish provocation."

DEMANDS HOUSE QUIZ ON PLAYING POLITICS IN AAA

Accuses County Agents of Putting on Pressure.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 10.—An investigation of the activities of county agents under the Agricultural Adjustment administration was asked of the house today by Representative Walter G. Andrews [R., N. Y.].

Walter G. Andrews.

Andrews introduced a resolution for the appointment of a special committee of five members to investigate the political and other extraneous activities of AAA officials and employés.

The New York representative told members that the inquiry is necessary because of evidence that county agents in some instances have been engaging in extra-official activities, such as membership campaigns for specific farm organizations.

Gives Example in Alabama.

"In Perry county, Alabama, a county farm agent through whose office some $254,000 in benefit payments is currently being distributed," Andrews said, "mailed to the farmers in his county, in franked envelopes of the United States agricultural department, letters pointing out that since 1933 a total of $1,523,780 in AAA payments had been distributed in Perry county. The letter added:

"'There is only one way to continue to receive these payments; it is through membership in an organization which is strong enough to tell congress what you want.'

"There followed in this letter aggressive and pointed suggestions that each of those receiving farm benefits join a particular farm organization.

Charges Pressure Campaign.

"There can be but one meaning attached to the paragraph I have just quoted from this letter and that is to build up a pressure group by means of funds voted by this congress for the benefit of the farmers, a pressure group sufficiently strong to bring additional pressure to bear on this congress to exact still further funds."

A similar letter was sent out in Mississippi by a county agent, Andrews continued.

"It is reasonable to presume," Andrews told the house, "that these specific instances are merely indicative of what may be a widespread condition and activity."

In Cook County

Allen Bode, 9 years old, measuring corn on farm in southern Cook county.

Cook county is not usually thought of as one of those rural centers where the tall corn grows, but this year it, like many another community in the central west, is boasting of its fine stands of corn. On one farm in southern Cook county yesterday corn was measured that stood seven feet in height. The excellent growth at this time of year is attributed to unusually perfect weather conditions.

NAVY NAMES TWO BATTLESHIPS FOR IOWA AND JERSEY

Washington, D. C., July 10.—(AP)—Two 45,000 ton battleships were named the Iowa and the New Jersey today.

The Iowa, hitherto known only as "battleship No. 61," is building at the navy yard, New York. It is the fourth naval vessel to be named after the state of Iowa.

The New Jersey is building at the Philadelphia navy yard and is the second naval vessel to be so called.

Charles Edison, acting secretary of the navy, announced the assignment of names to twenty-three other naval vessels of the 1939 building program. Contracts for building nineteen of them were awarded June 2.

BAR HEAD FLAYS SUPREME COURT SHIFT IN POLICY

Recent Change Is Viewed as Threat to Liberty.

San Francisco, Cal., July 10.—(AP)—The United States Supreme court was accused today of "replacing stability with instability" in national government in an address before the American Bar association by the barristers' president, Frank J. Hogan of Washington, D. C.

At the opening session of the bar association's sixty-second annual meeting Hogan said "recent far-reaching decisions [of the Supreme court] compel the conclusion that the American people must look to the legislature rather than the judiciary for the preservation of liberties."

Cites Recent Reversals.

"What were frankly termed important shifts in constitutional doctrines," he said, "were in fact the most devastating destruction of constitutional limitations in the existence of the United States."

Hogan cited recent decisions of the Supreme court reversing previous interpretations of such items as powers to tax judges' incomes and regulate business and farming.

"The plain result of all this is that no lawyer can safely advise his client what the law is," he said. "What was a constitutional principle yesterday may be a discarded doctrine tomorrow.

"The new concept seems to be that it would be useless labor to seek to amend the constitution in the method provided in the constitution. Why amend when by adopting new interpretations the same end can be accomplished?"

Refers to AAA Decision.

In pointing to the Supreme court's outlawing of the agricultural adjustment act of 1936, Hogan said:

"Congress in the [second AAA] act of 1938 reënacted portions of the invalidated act and adopted the simple expedient of saying that the thing to be controled was marketing, although the undisguised intent was patently to control production. In other words, once again the pretext of the exertion of powers which are constitutionally granted was resorted to as the means to an unconstitutional end."

Hogan cited the Supreme court's subsequent sustaining of marketing quotas for tobacco [Mulford vs. Smith] as establishing "a new principle of constitutional law."

Gives His Interpretation.

"The outstanding point is," Hogan said, "that recent judicial construction has brought within the ambit of federal control most if not all activities of the nation."

Stressing that "the views I express are my own and should not be attributed to the [bar] association," Hogan asked: "Can a government which may arbitrarily control the individual's economic freedom be relied on permanently to keep safe his civil and political liberties?"

Thurman W. Arnold, assistant United States attorney general, told the bar association that "unreasonable restraints of trade are the most conspicuous reasons for high construction costs." He said that a reduction of building prices in some cities is expected to result from prosecutions.

Solicitor Jackson Disagrees.

A third speaker, Robert H. Jackson, United States solicitor general, took a view opposed to that of Hogan, describing developments of the last few years as a "constitutional renaissance."

The three speakers highlighted the day's program for 3,000 attorneys participating in the bar association's convention.

Among resolutions presented to the house of delegates, action on which will be taken later in the week, was one asking a "study of the advisability of the immediate abrogation of the parole system throughout the country" in favor of "determinate sentence laws," and a "uniform juvenile delinquency law."

SENATE COMMITTEE WILL ACT TODAY ON ARMS EMBARGO BILL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 10.—After five weeks of postponements the senate foreign relations committee is expected to take action tomorrow on the administration's war policy program. The administration desires primarily to repeal the arms embargo provision of the neutrality act, which prohibits shipments of munitions to nations at war.

If the committee should vote to postpone the subject of neutrality act revision until the next session, congress probably would adjourn within a fortnight. If it should vote to report a bill favorable to the administration, the senate would be occupied for weeks by a foreign affairs debate.

Opponents of the legislation conceded tonight that the committee is not likely to vote to postpone consideration of the subject until the next session. The committee is divided 10 to 11 in the administration's favor, with Senators Guy M. Gillette [D., Ia.] and Walter F. George [D., Ga.] still refusing to commit themselves. Both doubtful senators are survivors of President Roosevelt's ill-fated party purge of 1938.

ATTORNEYS FIGHT JURY DEMAND FOR ANNENBERG FILES

Records Are Privileged, Asserts Kirkland.

Attorneys for Moses L. Annenberg, wealthy Philadelphia newspaper publisher and New Deal critic, denied in federal court yesterday that the special grand jury investigating Annenberg's income tax affairs is entitled to scrutinize certain documents which the jury has demanded. The defense contended that the documents are privileged.

This argument was advanced before Judge James H. Wilkerson by Attorney Weymouth Kirkland of the law firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green, Martin, and Ellis, which represents Annenberg in the tax matter. Kirkland presented oral arguments and a ninety-four page brief.

He was joined on the brief by Attorneys Herbert Jacoby, Charles C. Cullen, and James A. Hamilton Jr., successors to the business of two New York law firms which had handled other Annenberg affairs.

Attorneys Accused by Jury.

The grand jury last week accused the four attorneys of being contumacious witnesses in refusing to submit the records.

Kirkland declared that the lawyers have presented to the court certain of the documents requested by the jury. These were separation agreements involving three of Mr. and Mrs. Annenberg's daughters who parted from their husbands, and some contractual agreements relating to the Daily Racing Rorm, an Annenberg enterprise which disseminates racing news.

Documents still withheld are account books kept by present and past Annenberg lawyers, copies of the wills of Annenberg and his wife, Sadie, trust agreements regarding the distribution of his holding firm, the Cecelia company, after his death, and attorneys' memoranda on these matters.

Subpenas Termed Invalid.

Kirkland said that when the grand jury investigation started fifty persons from an accounting firm were employed to index the thousands of records subpenaed by the jury.

"Mr. Annenberg was advised," Kirkland said in his brief, "that these subpenas beyond question constituted an unreasonable search and seizure and that the attempt to obtain his personal books and records by subpenaing them from employés was a subterfuge that would not stand up if protest were made in court.

"Nevertheless, in order to avoid any implication that anything effecting the tax investigation was being withheld, we complied with all of the subpenas. But when the subpenas now before the court were issued and their content disclosed to us, it appeared that the time had come to call a halt to what obviously is a most comprehensive fishing expedition, being conducted in the hope of discovering evidence of wrongdoing without the slightest regard or respect for the established rights and privileges of the parties involved."

Denies Waiver of Rights.

Kirkland declared that a Washington, D. C., conference last spring of Annenberg, his attorneys, and Attorney General Frank Murphy did not constitute a waiver of Annenberg's claim of attorney-client privileges with respect to the documents. United States Attorney William J. Campbell had asserted it did.

"Mr. Annenberg and his associates," Kirkland said in the brief, "voluntarily submitted themselves to unlimited cross-examination by the government representatives, and the government men had the opportunity, if they cared to exercise it, of asking any questions or eliciting any information that they desired.

"However, with the calling of the grand jury, Mr. Annenberg must refuse to be placed in the position, by virtue of the fact that prior to the grand jury being called he was willing to reveal anything and everything that the government might desire to know, of having thereby waived for all time all of his constitutional and common law rights."

Kirkland said the fact that Annenberg went to the Washington conference showed that he had not willfully violated any law.

Judge Wilkerson said he would give his decision July 18. In the meantime Campbell will file a memorandum citing the legal authorities on which he bases his stand.

St. Charles Graduates Convicted

Probation Denied

Three young parolees from the unwalled training school for boys at St. Charles were found guilty yesterday by Judge John Sbarbaro, in a bench trial in Criminal court, of burglarizing a Chicago home. The judge said their youth was no excuse for wrongdoing and denied their pleas for probation.

The three young hoodlums, who face a prison sentence of one year to life, are Raymond Schroeder, 16 years old, 1017 Montana street; William Koss Jr., 17, of 1419 North Laramie avenue, and Alfred Giovenco, 17, or 840 George street.

Judge Sbarbaro said he would impose sentence July 22. At that time he will hear a motion for probation in behalf of a fourth defendant, Alex Quattrocchi, 16, of 1047 Webster avenue, who also was found guilty. Quattrocchi has no previous record and police said he aided them after the capture of the gang.

MOTHER BLOWS LIFE BACK INTO A DROWNING BABY

Mrs. Doris Buchholz, 6422 North Richmond avenue, saved her twin son, Gary, 9 months old, from drowning yesterday morning by breathing into his mouth after she discovered him submerged in the bathtub. The baby was revived before the arrival of the fire department squad, summoned by neighbors who heard the mother's cry for help. Mrs. Buchholz told them later that while she was bathing her twin sons, Gary and Kent, she left them for several minutes to get clean clothing. When she returned, she said, Gary was lying on his face in the water. She seized him and shook him, patted his back, and breathed into his mouth. In a moment he had recovered his breath.

RIVER TRAFIC JAM KEEPS BRIDGE UP TWELVE MINUTES

The near collision of a freighter and two barges held the Michigan avenue bridge open for twelve minutes yesterday and stopped trafic for several blocks north and south of the river.

The freighter, John A. Kling, 438 feet long and with a 56 foot beam, was being towed west in the river. At the bridge it swung to one side to permit two east-bound oil barges, also towed, to pass. The last barge touched the freighter as it slipped by.

Bridgetender William Meyers told Loran D. Gayton, city engineer, that he was forced to keep the bridge open to permit the vessels to maneuver, from 1:48 to 2 p. m.

TORSO SLAYER'S TWO ATTEMPTS AT SUICIDE FAIL

Cleveland, O., July 10.—[Special.]—Frank Dolezal, confessed killer of one of Cleveland's dozen torso victims, was guarded closely tonight after two attempts to commit suicide.

The prisoner, a former butcher, 52 years old, tried to hang himself with his shirt which tore. Later he tried to hang himself with his shoestrings. They wouldn't hold his weight.

Sherif Martin L. O'Donnell announced he is searching for two missing persons, whose relatives fear they may be among the torso victims. Only three of the twelve men and women slain and dismembered have been identified.

One is Kenneth D. Richardson, a division sales manager for an industrial concern. His mother, Mrs. Irma Richardson Adams of Inglewood, Cal., said he last was seen in Cleveland on Nov. 24, 1937.

Thomas M. Smith, 23 years old, a sailor with a tattooed wrist, is the second man being sought. His mother, Mrs. Emma Woods of Sharpsville, Ind., last heard from him in the spring of 1937.

QUASH CHARGES IN WILL COUNTY FUND SHORTAGE

Ex-Judge Wilson Assailed; Jury Ruled Illegal.

Judge George W. Bristow of Paris, Ill., sitting in the Circuit court in Joliet, yesterday quashed forgery indictments against Herbert R. Jones and his uncle, Ben D. Jones, former Will county treasurers. An additional indictment accusing Herbert Jones of perjury also was dismissed.

The indictments were voted last spring by a special grand jury called by former Judge Edwin L. Wilson to investigate an alleged shortage of $600,000 in Will county funds. State's Attorney James E. Burke said the regular grand jury, now in session, would make another investigation of the alleged shortage.

Judge Bristow ruled with defense attorneys that the indictments were void because the jury called by Wilson had been impaneled illegally. The attorneys charged that Wilson had summoned the jury to further his unsuccessful campaign for reelection last June 5.

Judge Criticizes Wilson.

Defense attorneys said the jury had not been chosen by the sherif, as required by law, and that all the jurors were residents of Joliet and not from the county as a whole.

It also was brought out that one of the jurors had been adjudged incompetent and was under the care of a conservator while serving on the jury.

"Judge Wilson either was ignorant or dishonest in the selection of the jury," Judge Bristow said. "There is no question that the jury was illegal and had no standing in law. It would be useless to go to trial on these indictments, as any convictions obtained would only be reversed."

Cassidy Ruling Unheeded.

State's Attorney Burke said he had informed Wilson that Attorney General John E. Cassidy had ruled that the grand jury was illegal but that Wilson paid no attention to the opinion.

Ben Jones was treasurer from 1918 to 1922 and Herbert Jones held the office from 1930 to 1934. In an answer to a suit filed by the county to collect on the shortage, Herbert Jones said that his uncle and his father, Frank R. Jones, now deceased, had appropriated $163,000 for their own use. Most of the rest of the shortage, he said, was on deposit in Will county banks that have closed.

The statute of limitations barred prosecution on charges of larceny and embezzlement. Charges of forgery, for which there is no statute of limitations, consequently were brought against the two Joneses. The charges were based on the issuance of a passbook in 1922 on the Manhattan State bank purporting to cover a shortage of $123,000.

Find 4 Missing Chicago Swimmers in Indiana

The Hudson avenue police were asked yesterday to search for four men, all clad in blue swimming trunks, who left their homes Sunday at 5 p. m. and had failed to return twenty-four hours later. The search was continued until 10 p. m., when one of the missing men called a relative and informed him they had been in Whiting, Ind., all night and through the day. The four are David Smith of 1354 Sedgwick street and Dr. Frederick Mackh, a dentist; Roy Williams and Russell Montgomery, all of 405 Blackhawk street.

Movie Bandit Pays Return Visit to Show; Gets $100

The dapper, soft spoken bandit who has held up several south side movie theaters in the last month paid a return visit last night to the Southtown theater, 610 West 63d street. This time he pointed a gun at Mrs. Adele Stone, cashier, and forced her to hand over $100 in receipts. On June 20 the robber got $90 at the theater.

CHAMBERLAIN AND STALIN.

Mr. Chamberlain's approaches to Mr. Stalin encounter new difficulties as fast as others are removed. A meeting of the minds is frustrated from day to day, although events in various parts of the world would seem to make the conjunction imperative.

Japan, with a sort of heroic madness, is taking on all comers, although its army of invasion in China is slugging away in the interminable task of making the Chinese love their Japanese friends. For over two years this good neighbor policy has been eating up the resources of the island and the love feast seems as far off as ever. It may be altogether too romantic an explanation of the Japanese belligerency toward the British and the Russians at this time to say that they have decided to be thoroughly licked by a combination of great powers rather than to be badly checked by the ill supplied Chinese.

There are, however, persons who think the islanders would prefer to have their imperialist ambitions ended in a grand finish of national suicide than to admit that they were unable completely to put the Chinese in their proper place. It is odd maneuvering in anybody's statesmanship for a nation which sees two powerful enemies jockeying for an alliance to give these nations additional reason for joining forces, but such is the Japanese procedure, inexplicable as it may seem.

Why, then, can't Chamberlain and Stalin get together? They are supposed to have a common enemy in Asia and a common enemy in Europe. Both Japan and Germany, with Italy on the flank, say that they regard communist Russia as not only their own but all mankind's most horrible foe and Great Britain as the biggest and most selfish imperial hog. For Japan it is, or should be, true that Russia is the most formidable enemy. Its forces are massed along the Japanese mainland frontier and there is constant irregular fighting.

But is it true that Hitler and Stalin are natural enemies? They could be called bloody as well as blood brothers. They must secretly admire each other. They could clasp hands cordially and sit down to meat and drink as well as conversation and conspiracy. But Mr. Chamberlain must shudder every time he thinks that he is asking the Georgian murderer who sits in the Kremlin, protected by his secret police, to be a comrade and pal.

The traditions of the best English countryside, where the church bells ring and the squire makes his rounds, are horrified by the necessity which requires a British prime minister to offer the hand of friendship where it must, in British conception, be defiled. Such ideas would make Mr. Chamberlain's approaches hesitant, diffident, and shrinking. It is a terrible covenant to make. Although Mr. Stalin may enjoy the obvious horror of his British applicant he also may be reluctant to deal with a man who is so chicken hearted that he won't shoot his enemies as rapidly as they stand up in parliament to bedevil him, and who will even permit that parliament to exist.

WHY THE STOCKHOLDER IS A STUCKHOLDER.

In providing the capital to buy tools, machinery, raw materials, and buildings for business, and in assuming the losses when there is miscalculation, stockholders render an indispensable service in our economic life. They are able to do so much because there are so many of them. Stockholders comprise one of the most numerous elements of the population. They number 20 million. More family dinner tables have stockholders at them than haven't. But despite their contribution to the welfare of all and despite their great numbers, stockholders have been shamefully treated. Their numbers do not give them corresponding power because they are not mobilized to protect their interests as other classes are.

Shippers are well organized, and whenever a legislative or administrative act is proposed which affects them they make their influence felt. Employés are well organized. Although the number of members of the two groups of labor unions is but a quarter of the number of stockholders, the employés have great power. They get bills passed which they want and kill legislation to which they are opposed. They obtain for themselves immunity from taxation, government regulation, and prosecution. In the present administration they even claim they elected the President and cite vast campaign contributions to prove their point. And no group is better organized to advance self-interest than the tax eaters. This group operates so smoothly in obtaining its results that it is called a machine.

The stockholder alone does not protect his interests, and since he does not he is meat for the others. A recent chart which appeared in THE TRIBUNE showed that of the profits of thirteen large rubber companies available for distribution the tax eaters got 56.1 per cent and the stockholders, in dividends, only 19.7 per cent. These heavy taxes come out of the pockets of the stockholders. The main reason why stocks are selling far below the prices at which they were purchased is because governments appropriate the lion's share of earnings. This plundering of the property of stockholders goes on without arousing the vast numbers affected. If 20 million people who have supplied the capital to American business were protecting their interests as other groups are, the stockholder would not be a stuckholder, as he now is.

BUILDING COSTS.

Gen. R. E. Wood, chairman of Sears, Roebuck & Co., has added his testimony to that of many others who have charged a conspiracy between contractors and union labor to keep building costs high. Gen. Wood told the monopoly investigating committee in Washington why his company had abandoned a plan to build low-cost houses for its employés in Chicago. The company had found that five room houses which had cost $3,100 each in Kankakee [omitting land costs] could not be erected in Chicago for less than $4,000 [also exclusive of land costs.] From the fact that Chicago plumbers would not install Sears plumbing fixtures in Chicago, Gen. Wood concluded that there was some kind of a deal between union labor, contractors, and supply houses.

Gen. Wood is not a man to make loose and unsupported charges and it may be assumed that he knows what he is talking about. Though the same story has come from many sources in many cities, the administration in Washington seems unable to make up its mind what to do about it.

It seems fair to suggest that the time has come for the New Deal to decide whether it favors price conspiracies [as it evidently does in the milk and coal industries and as it did in instituting NRA], or opposes these restraints of trade. If the situation is as bad as it is said to be, the remedy lies in obtaining convictions. There is little need for any more speeches about what is going to be done.

Years ago when building labor in Chicago refused to install millwork not fabricated in certain shops, the chief conspirators were sent to jail and for a considerable time the racket was suppressed. If the present administration is genuinely interested in restoring competition in the building industry the same procedure will be followed.

ON NOT READING "FINNEGANS WAKE."

"Unslow, malswift, pro mean, proh noblesse, Atrahore, melancolores, nears; whose glauque eves glitt bedimmed to imm; whose fingrings creep o'er skull: till quench, asterr mist calls estarr and graw, honath Jon raves homes glowcoma."

The foregoing sentence is not an explanation by Senator Pittman of the silver purchases, although it might appear to be as lucid a defense of them as could be made, nor is it a declaration of our foreign policy with regard to Danzig, although as such it might seem to clear the matter up. It is a sample from Mr. James Joyce's new book, "Finnegans Wake," selected by a scholarly reviewer to illustrate the word method of the writer esteemed by T. S. Eliot as "the greatest master of language in English since Milton."

Mr. Joyce was seventeen years in the writing of "Finnegans Wake," a monumental achievement which has been reviewed without being read, which is conceded to be the easiest way, and may have been read without being reviewed, although that is improbable. There is, it is said, a critic of such penetrating power and authentic authority that he will, if given five years for preparation, be able to satisfy every one with a comprehensible interpretation.

Out here in the corn-hog culture belt Mr. Joyce is alarming. We are willing and eager to admire what is admirable and do not like to be found asleep when some masterpiece of human genius bursts upon the world. We'd all prefer to be cognizant. Probably nowhere else in the cultured world is there a greater desire to appreciate the finer things of life.

The first impulse, even of our best citizens, is to guess that Mr. Joyce is pulling the critics' legs. If this were demonstrably true, our intelligence would be less uneasy. But the culture of this region has been laggard in other instances, to its great confusion. Only the oldsters of the present age may remember that Richard Wagner was regarded as a very clownish fellow who had orchestrated more terrible sounds than could be produced by the most exhausting efforts in a boiler factory. A delayed repentance followed that judgment and the chastening effects of it still prevail. Many of the intellectuals of about the same period resolved not to be caught again, and when Mr. Browning burst upon them they formed neighborhood clubs, devoting themselves to a soon rewarded study of the master first regarded as ambiguous.

We tried to do our duty by the Impressionists and Cubists and to this day reserve a suspended judgment regarding "The Nude Descending a Staircase." Even if we do not fully understand Gertrude Stein, we readily accept the favorable judgment regarding her genius and we hesitate to laugh at anything or be blind to its merits until it is traced to an insane asylum or to a New Dealer defending his young.

The dream of H. C. Earwicker, the Dublin pub keeper, as interpreted by Mr. Joyce may be the age's greatest production in the English language. We shall be uneasy about it until the best critics have completed their labors, which may be ten years from now. This period of troubled judgment would be less troubled if we were not at the same time trying to understand the farm program of Mr. Wallace and the economic theories of Mr. Eccles.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

[Cincinnati Enquirer.]

The trend of the times is having its effect upon the postoffices. The National Geographic society calls our attention to the fact that the new United States Postal Guide leaves out Frugality in Pennsylvania, Truth and Love in Arkansas, and Utopia in Kansas.

There isn't even any more Boiling Point in Oregon, and four postoffices named Eden have bitten the dust in Kentucky, California, Washington, and Montana.

Unquestionably it was a face saving matter for the postoffice department to see to it that there was no more Racket in West Virginia, Difficulty in Wyoming, or Troublesome in Colorado. We'll bet they planned it that way.

BACK IN THE ARMY AGAIN.

The Linemaster reports for duty after flicking 4,000 milestones over his shoulder. He has been back-trekking on the trail of his ancestors, south by east—New Salem, Ill.; Vincennes, Ind.; the Dark and Bloody Ground, the slopes of Missionary Ridge, the valley of the Shenandoah, Williamsburg, and the first landing place at Jamestown, now vacant except for its monuments. Thence, of course, to the place where all roads meet this year—the New York World's Fair.

We have seen enough to write a presidential report on the state of the nation or a season of travelogs for Burton Holmes, but we will refrain from pouring it on our readers all at once. Our detailed account of the journey may be found in the published [if ever] proceedings of the various learned organizations of which we were an unofficial representative—the Old House Detectives, the Wine and Food Society, the Funny Name Collectors, and the Veterans of the Battle of Lincoln Park.

Among the noteworthy things we have seen, however, we will mention: A roadside sign near Glasgow, Ky., reading, "The Klan Rides Again to Down Communism"; the first field of wheat grown in New York City since 1875 [at the fair], guarded by a scarecrow named Priscilla Shoo—a Fifth avenue costume designer's dummy in a tattered black gown from Paris; and an error in Latin on a label in the medical science building.

You can work out the rest of the tour from the following catalog of places where we found lodging [all one night stands except where indicated]: Lincoln, Ill.; Olney, Ill.; Madison, Ind. [2]; Danville, Ky.; Glasgow, Ky.; Nashville, Tenn.; Chattanooga, Tenn.; Maryville, Tenn. [2]; Pulaski, Va.; Charlottesville, Va.; Richmond, Va.; Williamsburg, Va.; Accomac, Va.; Atlantic City, N. "In Xanadu Did Kubla Khan."

As a Chicagoan with both the Columbian Exposition and A Century of Progress in his experience, we went to the New York World's Fair as an if-and-butter, ready to criticize its head off. After a review of our impressions, however, we are ready to call it a great exhibition—a true world's fair. It lacks some of the rollicking gayety that Chicago conjured up in the blackest years of the depression, but it is rich in fantasy and magnificent in scope. Its sculpture, fountains, and landscaping are particularly impressive.

Fashions for Men of Bronze.

The foreign nation buildings at the New York Fair contain many statues of dark, dismal, and forbidding gents in overcoats that reach to their ankles. These are the dictators. What is the relation between long overcoats and dictatorship? Cold-bloodedness, perhaps. Our costume for next winter will be a Mackinaw jacket.

THE AMERICAN DREAM.

I sailed away to Europe
One day in early June—
I watched the New York skyline fade
And hummed a cheerful tune.
I'd money in my pocket,
My clothes were crisp and new;
My heart was high, the goal was nigh,
My dreams would soon come true.

I sailed away from Europe
One calm September day—
I watched the Irish shoreline fade
My heart no longer gay.
My clothes were limp and faded,
My money all was spent,
But life can never be the same
It was before I went.

The Biggest Relief Map in the World.

If you happen to feel a twinge of homesickness at the New York Fair you will find a remedy in the Illinois building, whose central exhibit is an enormous scale model of Chicago. The guidebook claims that most of the 450,000 buildings are represented, and we believe it, for we selected a square block on the edge of town that we know like the palm of our hand and found that every detail was correct. Two years of WPA projecting went into this work. The model's final home should be a Chicago museum—either the Field or Science and Industry.

MASSAGE HAS COME INTO ITS OWN.

SOME of these days physicians and lay persons alike will revive one of our most beneficial healing agents—massage. Difficult as it is to explain, the procedure fell into disuse largely with the rise of bacteriology. It was thought, no doubt, that since "bugs" are responsible for many diseases we should counteract their influence with antiseptics, vaccines, and serums because we could not get rid of them by rubbing the muscles.

The science of medicine lost sight of the fact that keeping the system in good tone would be the ideal means of repelling the assaults of germs. We now understand that drugs and serums are essential in combating the onslaughts of microbes; but that it is far more important to prevent ailments through a program of clean living which maintains reserve at a high level.

How is massage applied? Several characteristic movements are employed. First comes the deliberate, gentle, superficial stroking which may take any direction. The skin capillaries are thus dilated and slowly bring about a sense of comfort.

If it is desired to remove sluggish blood from the muscles the motion is toward the body, never away. This presses the contents of the veins and lymphatic vessels backward toward the heart. In addition, room is made for a supply of fresh, vital fluid—which enters the area and enhances nutrition. This may be kept up for ten minutes or longer and it is well to use cocoa butter or some bland ointment as a lubricant.

Second comes kneading or compression. This varies in vigor, depending upon the depth of the tissues and the purpose to be accomplished. The operation resembles the working of dough and promotes emptying of the submerged lymphatic channels as well as stretching tendons and loosening adhesions.

Third, circular or rolling stimulation is achieved by the use of one or more fingers. This is helpful in freeing scars and fibrous bands, some of which may lie buried within the parts. At the same time it will assist in the absorption of fluid beneath the skin.

Vibratory blows may be carried out by the operator or a similar effect may be produced with an electric, rubber tipped device. This plan is far from quieting and if continued too long may occasion muscle and nerve exhaustion. On the other hand, it is indispensable if the period is not prolonged.

Above all, during the treatment the patient must be relaxed and warm—not hot—and every maneuver must be begun moderately, gradually increasing in intensity as circumstances demand.

It should be pointed out that there are several contraindications to massage. Inflammatory processes, particularly those between muscles, may be spread. In acute infections where there is fever nothing is gained. If a swelling about a joint is the result of a tumor, the measure will aggravate its growth. Caution must be exercised not to touch or rub veins which are inflamed [phlebitis] or plugged [thrombosis], as a clot may be dislodged and pushed backward into the heart or lungs. While pain in contracting fibers—myositis—is frequently relieved, we must be certain that abdominal manipulation is not practiced in the presence of gastric ulcer, appendicitis, or any involvement of the peritoneum. Tuberculosis is not improved. Far from wanting to quicken the circulation, we wish to subdue it.

Of all branches of physiotherapy—electricity, hot and cold water, and massage—the latter offers by far the greatest possibilities. Utilized in connection with other forces, it may restore functionless joints. In the aftercare of sprains and fractures—when long confinement in firm bandages has impaired flexibility—it may work incalculable good. In arthritis, especially, we can use it in association with heat and simple exercises just so long as distress does not follow. Only when inactivity is persistent will we observe firm, immovable joints in our older patients.

SENSITIVE TO SUN.

V. Z. writes: Every time I go swimming or fishing my lips break out in fever sores. I grease them before going near the water but I am bothered nevertheless.

REPLY.

You are numbered among those who are overly sensitive to sunlight. Cut down the length of exposure to Old Sol. True herpes is due to a virus infection. This should be thought of in your case. Overfatigue predisposes to cold sores.

LOSS OF SALT, PERHAPS.

W. K. writes: What causes a very weak feeling when the weather is extremely hot?

REPLY.

Some persons are sensitive to marked elevations in temperature. Others may suffer from heat exhaustion. The most common cause is the loss of salt from the body because of excessive perspiration. Tablets containing ten grains of sodium chloride and five grains of glucose may be taken with a glass of water as needed.

AVOID DIRECT SUN.

E. W. G. writes: Is a sun tan good for any one who has trouble with the lungs and runs a little temperature? I always have heard that the sun and fresh air were enemies of tuberculosis. Is it true?

REPLY.

Those with pulmonary tuberculosis should avoid direct sunlight. Fresh air is a friend, not an enemy.

MOON-SHINE.

L. B. writes: Do you believe in the moon affecting people?

REPLY.

Yes, decidedly. Under the influence of moonshine otherwise perfectly normal individuals have been known to lose their heads and hearts. The reactions vary according to whether it is liquid or comes through the ether.

NEVER!

MRS. T. M. writes: Are anti-rabic vaccine injections ever used for the cure of venereal disease?

REPLY.

Never. This procedure would be about as sensible as traveling due south in an effort to reach the north pole.

HORSEBACK RIDING.

MRS. V. J. writes: I had an abdominal operation six months ago. Is horseback riding now permissible?

REPLY.

Yes, provided healing and recovery have been normal. It is well to wear a firm binder for several months.

AN AMERICAN INVENTION.

Chicago, July 7.—I am compelled to disagree with THE TRIBUNE'S editorial in today's paper, "An Instrument of Tyranny." Everything stated as to the baneful effect of "party discipline" is true, and the editorial only touches its evil effects; but it did not have its origin in Russia. It is an American invention, started in New York City by De Witt Clinton when it was divided into districts, with a jobholder in each district responsible for the vote. Thereafter it spread to every community in the United States. Tammany continued its baleful influence in New York, but every jobholder, federal and state, is a part of the "organization," and largely subject to its orders. It spread from the New York start to Russia, Germany, and Italy. In America it reëlected Roosevelt [the destroyer of American freedom] in 1936; it has put the congress out of business as an independent branch of government, enabled the President to control the Supreme court, destroyed the independence of the states, made the Supreme court of each state dependent upon the executive voice of the President, and the "organization" is today the most destructive force in our national and local life.

The plurality direct primary has greatly increased its influence, and its result is slowly but surely destroying America as a land of liberty and opportunity. The organization is the "patronage system." Every WPA and PWA worker is a part of it, as is every one on relief and every public contractor. It cannot be broken up so long as any man who draws public money by way of salary or gratuity is permitted to vote. WALTER E. BEEBE.

GARBAGE SHAMES CITY.

Chicago, July 7.—Where are the taxes that are collected in the city of Chicago going? Not for the collection of the rubbish and garbage. Our garbage has not been collected in three weeks. It is disgraceful for the visitors to Chicago to view such a dirty city.

My daughter has just returned from a trip to New York, and says that the eight days she was there she didn't see a fly. The doors and windows are without screens. Try that in Chicago. She didn't see a tin can or a bag of garbage in the whole city.

We have two garbage cans, both overflowing, and after a rain the wrapping papers break and the rubbish goes all over everything.

Why not have Clean Up week every week instead of once a year?

A SHAMED CHICAGOAN.

THAT 5-CENT FARE IN NEW YORK.

Chicago, July 8.—With reference to the letter you recently published from the ten disgusted car riders:

It is evident they have never been fifty miles outside of Chicago. They said New York has a 5-cent fare. A recent statement before the transportation committee revealed that last year the New York Street Car company was several millions of dollars in debt, and that this debt was placed on the taxpayers' bills. When figured out, the car fare in New York last year was ten and a half cents. Boston, Washington, St. Louis, Philadelphia, Detroit, and nearly every city in the country have a ten cent fare, and they do not get the car ride or the transfer privileges that are afforded in Chicago for seven cents.

Why not get the facts before making a statement? M. J. COLBERT.

WHILE 2 A. M. LAW IS PASSED.

Chicago, July 7.—Thrill and uproar in the council chamber as tavern curfew is extended to 2 a. m. I wonder if that group realizes what a price it exacted from a smaller group for this victory. THE TRIBUNE neglected to report that in the council chamber at that time was a group of about seventy-five girls employed by the Chicago public library as junior library assistants taking a promotional library examination for which they had waited seven years!

To them passing this examination is vital, yet without warning they were shooed out of the council chambers with their writing half done.

Librarians are poorly paid at best and for the municipal government's "forgotten women" to squander their only chance of promotion and better pay is to them tragic. Perhaps a little "impatience or uproariousness" on their part would have enabled them to retain their seats, since they had squatter's rights, having been notified three days previously that the examination was to be held in council chambers.

A second group, taking the same examination, but in another public building, was given all the time required in which to finish their examination. Because of this unfair treatment the whole examination should be considered null and void. A JUNIOR LIBRARY ASST.

IMPUDENCE NOT THE RULE.

Chicago, July 6.—I see that a reader signing the name "Marian" writes to your column saying: "But it seems that only ill-mannered and impudent women are eligible for jobs in the 'L' ticket stations, particularly in the loop."

That statement is as unfair as it is absurd. Inasmuch as it is difficult to obtain a position of this kind, or any kind, for that matter, it is fatuous to assume that the characteristics mentioned would be considered as qualifications. Because some employés of a given organization display undesirable traits is it logical to suppose that those traits were set up by that organization as norms of eligibility?

It is good to know that "all things are not what they seem."

PROMISSORY NOTE.

Chicago, July 7.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. In a few months it will be ten years since I loaned a man $1,000 and [2] got a judgment from him in return. He has never had any money to pay back. About a year ago his father died leaving some property, which I suppose will go to said man and two other survivors.

3. Recently the man I loaned the money to took the bankruptcy law and I received a notice. I can't understand why he did this for he never had anything unless he is coming into some money and [4] I wonder if I can collect the note from his inheritance and how to go about it. O. K.

1. The limitation period on promissory notes is ten years from the maturity date.

2. It is not clear whether you mean that you got a judgment note from him, or that after obtaining a note from him you took judgment on the note. If the latter, then the limitation period is twenty years.

3. In general, his share of his father's estate should go to his creditors in the course of the bankruptcy, and we suggest that you examine the bankruptcy schedules and see if this share has been listed.

4. If the inheritance share has been listed as an asset in the bankruptcy proceedings, then presumably you will take the same dividend as other creditors.

LEGALITY OF WILL.

Chicago, July 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. I live in Chicago and own property in Iowa. I had my will drawn in Iowa. Is that will legal?

2. One witness to my signature has died. Does that matter?

3. My will was placed in vault in court house. Is that all right?

4. I wish some changes and want another will drawn. Will it be necessary to go to Iowa to do so?

5. Would it be legal to have my will drawn in Chicago if properly signed?

6. Would attorney and witnesses be required in Iowa where my will will be probated?

7. I want to be sure that my last will cannot be broken. M. V.

1. Yes as far as the facts stated are concerned.

2. No in the sense that proof of the witness' handwriting would be sufficient.

3. Yes.

4. No. You can execute a codicil here or execute a new will expressly revoking prior wills.

5. Yes.

6. We do not understand the question.

7. The best way to be sure on this would be to employ an attorney for the drafting and execution of the will.

CHICAGO-EUROPE AIR ROUTE GAINS CLEVELAND AID

Mayor and Airport Chief Favor Kelly Plan.

Cleveland, O., July 10.—[Special.]—Mayor Harold H. Burton of Cleveland and Maj. Jack Berry, commissioner of Cleveland airport, joined today with Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago in endorsing a direct air route from midwestern cities to Shediac, New Brunswick, and Botwood, Newfoundland, where the Pan American Clippers take off for Ireland.

The proposed route from Chicago to Botwood, via Detroit, Toronto, Montreal, and Shediac, would be a continuation of the great circle route over the Atlantic and would save more than 450 miles and three hours travel compared with the circuitous European routing by way of New York City.

Called "Distinct Advantage."

Maj. Berry said the proposed route is an excellent suggestion and represents an advance in aviation. "Any great saving of mileage is an advance in transportation," he said. "It is a distinct advantage to fly direct."

Mayor Burton agreed with Maj. Berry regarding the proposal.

"I am not as familiar with the situation as I might be," he said, "but from a hasty observation I am inclined to agree with our airport commissioner.

"I intend to give the problem more serious study before I take any action, however."

Favored by Air Race Chief.

Louis W. Greve, president of the National Air Races and a member of the aviation committee of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, said he endorses the proposed direct route because "it not only represents a saving in mileage, but represents a speedier trans-Atlantic mail service."

"Anything that represents a saving in mail time is to be commended," he declared.

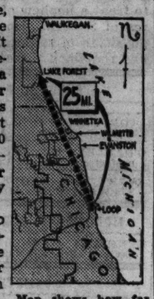
Gains Backers in Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., July 10.—[Special.]—Echoing statements made yesterday by Mayor Richard W. Reading and other Detroit officials, Allen Dean, manager of the transportation bureau of the Detroit Board of Commerce, today indorsed a direct air route from the lakes area to Europe.

"Direct transportation to eastern Canadian cities and a connection with the Clipper service to Europe is what Detroit needs most in the field of air transport," he said. "A connection with the Clipper service would be supported by Detroit."

SEVERSKY TO BUILD 600 MILES AN HOUR PLANE FOR AMERICA

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—Having studied the best fighting planes in Europe, Col. Alexander de Seversky, aircraft designer, has resolved to build a pursuit ship for the United States government which will fly 600 miles an hour—125 miles an hour faster than any present plane.



Map shows how far proposed plane could fly in 2½ minutes.

Seversky, who arrived here today aboard the Normandie after a seven month survey of European aviation, said the plane he has in mind will have a device for changing the shape of the wing edges as the ship reaches higher speeds. The craft will have a single engine, he said.

In discussing the military aviation situation in Europe, Seversky predicted England will match German production in a few months.

TWO BOYS RESCUED FROM LAKE.

Robert Burkhardt, 4043 Grenview avenue, and Ben Snellman, 937 Cornelia avenue, both 16 years old, were picked up by a coast guard cutter crew yesterday when they were found swimming near a capsized sailing dinghy 350 feet off the Belmont avenue shore.

OLD TIME FLYER TO BE HONORED IN WICHITA TODAY

Walter Beech.

Wichita, Kas., July 10.—[Special.]—Old time aviators will join with the Wichita Chamber of Commerce tomorrow in honoring Walter H. Beech, Wichita flyer and airplane manufacturer, on the twenty-fifth anniversary of his first airplane flight.

Beech's first flight was on July 11, 1914, taking off from a field near Minneapolis, Minn. He was in the air service during the world war and in 1926 won the Ford reliability tour. He organized the Travel Air company, once the largest producer of aircraft in this country, and is now president of the Beech Aircraft corporation.

C. S. [Casey] Jones, world war flyer and racing pilot, will be the principal speaker at a dinner to be given in Beech's honor tomorrow night.

Kankakee Man Is Killed When Crossing Highway

Kankakee, Ill., July 10.—[Special.]—George Bertrand was struck and killed by an auto when crossing U. S. highway 45 here today. The driver was Verl Baughman of Kankakee. Bertrand's mother was killed a year ago in the same manner. He was 50 years old.

Paris midseason collections say:

"hustle into bustles"

The rebirth of the bustle . . . not the old one, draped over a wire birdcage, as they did it in the eighties, but the very new swoosh to the rear, dangerously like the old in its femme fatale quality, but exceedingly young and witty, giving you a new inclination to walk beautifully. The 1939 bustle, from the Paris midseasons, inspires elegant shoes, forward-careening hats to balance the bustle's backward movement, even bustle-bangs for your serene forehead. The bustle is more than a fashion, it's a mood. Get into it now, and glory in it from this day forward.

Balenciaga spotlights your hips, and we've copied his jacket dress exactly. Rayon-and-silk velvet Polonaise jacket, with short-sleeved rayon crepe dress. Black only. 10 to 14. $69.75

The Salon
Sixth Floor, South, Wabash

Alix smooths your tiny waist, and oops-in-back goes the bustle, 1939 version! Silk crepe adaptation with Mauboussin-type clip at the front neckline. Black only. 10 to 18. $39.75

The Salon
Sixth Floor, South, Wabash

Shoe Salon
Fifth Floor, Middle, Wabash

These new Fall hats tilt forward in coquettish fashion to balance the flare and ripple of your bustle dresses. Black velvet with swirled coq feather and minute veil, $15.75. Tiny brimmed felt with satin-lined belting bow, $16.75. Both Jay Thorpe originals from our brilliant midseason collection.

CHILDREN LEAVE HOME TO WADE; GIRL, 2½, DROWNS

Brother, 5, Sticks in Mud Trying to Save Her.

Donna Jean Gerresten, 2½ years old, was drowned while wading in Nippersink lake, in the village of Fox Lake. Her brother, Leo, 5, became mired in the muddy bottom as he ran to her aid. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gerresten of Fox Lake.

Miss Noreen O'Donnell, 16, of 7831 Essex avenue, who is vacationing in the neighborhood, heard Leo sobbing for help. She extricated him from the mud and, at his direction, rushed back in for Donna Jean. The girl's body was recovered but four hours of resuscitation efforts failed to revive her.

TWO GIRLS DROWN WADING.

Watseka, Ill., July 10.—[Special.]—Two girls drowned in Sugar creek, two miles south of here, late today when they stepped into a ten foot hole while wading with two boys. The victims were Alice Meyer, 16 years old, and Doris Taylor, 15, both of Sheldon, ten miles east of here in Iroquois county. The boys, Jess Wilson, 16, and Robert Martin, 18, both of Watseka, ran into town for help. None of the four could swim.

21 See Brothers Perish.

Golconda, Ill., July 10.—(AP)—Two Pope county farm youths, Cloe Sharp, 22 years old, and his brother, Fred, 20, drowned in the presence of twenty other persons during a swimming party in the Ohio river near New Liberty yesterday afternoon. Their bodies were recovered late last night.

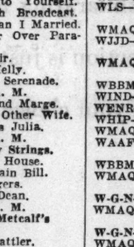
Crawling Baby Drowns.

Kenosha, Wis., July 10.—[Special.]—A 13 months old baby crept into Paddocks lake, 15 miles west of Kenosha, this afternoon and drowned. The baby was Sonya Ann Giddings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Giddings, 6254 Cuyler avenue, Chicago. The child was found floating near the shoreline by two little girls.

HAVELOCK ELLIS, CHAMPION OF SEX EDUCATION, DIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 10.—Henry Havelock Ellis, scientist, philosopher, doctor and author of a long series of volumes on the psychology of sex, is dead. The white bearded scholar was 80 years old. Death came on Saturday, it was announced today, at the little village of Hintlesham, near Ipswich in Suffolk, to which he had retired a year ago.



Henry Havelock Ellis.

The aged author had been in ill health for some time but had not given up his prolific writings, all in longhand, until two months ago. He was in the midst of revising his "Sex in Relation to Society," when he was stricken.

Ellis began his battle for sex education in the midst of the prim Victorian era while teaching in Australia.

In all his works he struck at sex taboos and preached a doctrin of frank discussion in the interests of mental and physical health.

Americans were the first to recognize and publish his works. In more recent years his volumes gained widespread acceptance here. His "Studies in the Psychology of Sex" was banned in 1898 by a jury which decided the six volumes were obscene.

He married Edith Lees, an author, in 1891. She died in 1916. They had no children.

LEAP TESTS LOVE; GWENDOLYN NOW WANTS TO LIVE

Critical injuries added complications yesterday to the love problem of Mrs. Gwendolyn Moore Schulz, 18 years old, who leaped out of a fourth floor window of the Parmentor hotel, 5012 Winthrop avenue, Sunday night. At that moment she wanted to die. Yesterday she wanted to live. It was a tossup whether she would live or die, interns at the Marine hospital said.

A year ago Gwendolyn wanted to test the love of her sweetheart, Walter Schulz, a 22 year old coast guardsman. So she cut herself 110 times with a razor and told him a maniac attacked her. Summerdale police reported. Schulz married her three weeks later—on June 25, 1938, and they went to live at Grand Haven, Mich., where he was employed.

Three months ago she left him. She wanted to be sure he still loved her, the husband told police yesterday. He found her and told her he wanted her to return to him. He said he thought he had convinced her. But as soon as he left her alone in the room she jumped, he added.

"She loves him and wants to live for him," said Dr. E. I. Sloane, who is in charge. "Perhaps she may."

NAVY AIRPLANE DAMAGED; HITS BOX AT AIRPORT

A navy scouting plane was damaged yesterday in landing at Chicago airport. One wheel was wrenched off and the propeller was bent. Neither of the two men in the plane was injured. Naval authorities refused to divulge their names.

The ship was one of four scouting planes which landed at the same time. Authorities declined to tell what happened. Persons at the field said the plane landed and then ran off the runway, striking a switch box that is a part of the field lighting system. This box, which protrudes a little more than a foot above the ground, is some ten feet from the runway.

It was understood that the planes had just been built. They were said to have been inspected at Washington, D. C., and then dispatched to the naval air base at San Diego, Cal.

EX-AMBASSADOR DODD UNDERGOES AN OPERATION

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—William E. Dodd, former ambassador to Germany, who has been in Mount Sinai hospital for ten days, underwent an abdominal operation tonight. Although he required two blood transfusions, he was reported to be doing well. His temperature was normal, attending physicians said. Mr. Dodd entered the hospital for treatment for bulbar palsy and later developed bronchial pneumonia. He improved sufficiently to permit the operation. The transfusions were given by his son, William E. Dodd Jr., and a son-in-law, Alfred K. Stern.

ESCAPED CONVICT GETS SENTENCE OF LIFE IN PRISON

Frank Haines, 37 years old, an escaped convict from Ohio, was sentenced yesterday to life imprisonment in the Joliet penitentiary as an habitual criminal. Sentence was pronounced by Judge James F. Fardy of the Criminal court after Haines had been convicted by a jury which deliberated fifteen minutes.

Haines and four other desperadoes escaped Jan. 1 from the Lima, O., hospital for the criminal insane. Haines vowed to kill his wife and two Chicago policemen who were responsible for his first prison sentence in 1931. He was captured here May 27 after shooting two men in a West Madison street tavern.

He was found sane by a jury Friday and was indicted the same day as an habitual criminal and on a charge of burglary.

Why Eagles Nest in Sand a Puzzle to Naturalists

Grayling, Mich., July 10.—[Special.]—Naturalists are puzzled by an eagle's nest found on a sand plain east of Grayling by CCC workers, because bald eagles ordinarily nest in the top of tall trees. Two eaglets were found in the six foot nest, which is being guarded until they are able to fly. In the meantime, the Michigan department of conservation is making a motion picture record of the life history of the family.

STABBED IN FRONT OF HOME.

Herman Hauschild, 52 years old, 435 South Clark street, was taken to county hospital in a serious condition yesterday after being stabbed by a man he knew only as Bill in front of his home.

SECRETARY SWANSON PAID FINAL TRIBUTE IN SENATE CHAMBER

Washington, D. C., July 10.—(AP)—Congress, President Roosevelt, and the Supreme court joined today in final tribute to Claude A. Swanson, secretary of the navy who died Friday, with a state funeral in the senate chamber.

Members of the Swanson family sat at one side of the flower-heaped rostrum, while Mr. Roosevelt took his seat directly in front, the members of his cabinet on his left. Places of honor were filled also by high officials of the navy, army, and marine corps, and foreign diplomats.

An honor guard of one marine and one sailor stood at attention at the casket which was placed before the Vice President's rostrum. The house recessed so its members could attend with the senate. Swanson had served in both branches.

The navy honored his memory today by naming its destroyer No. 443 the U. S. S. Swanson. Construction on the vessel has just been started.

OBITUARIES

Charles E. Barker.

Funeral services for Charles E. Barker, 74 years old, a commercial photographer in Chicago for more than forty years, will be conducted at 4 p. m. today in the chapel at 523 Lake street, Oak Park. Mr. Barker died Sunday in his home at 520 South Cuyler avenue, Oak Park. The son of New England parents who moved to Delavan, Wis., he came to Chicago in 1884. Surviving are his widow, Agnes, and a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Burnet.

August Kamradt.

Funeral services for August Kamradt, police magistrate of Calumet City, will be held tomorrow morning in St. Andrew's church, Calumet City. Mr. Kamradt, who lived at 766 State Line street in the suburb, died Sunday at the age of 52 in St. Margaret's hospital, Hammond. He was treasurer of Calumet City from 1912 to 1914, and had been police magistrate for six years. Surviving is a brother, Paul, a former mayor of Calumet City.

Mrs. Nonnie King.

Mrs. Nonnie King, 72 years old, 5347 Crystal street, died yesterday in the West Suburban hospital. She was the widow of John King. A son and a daughter survive. Funeral services will be held at 318 North Central avenue at 1:30 p. m. Thursday.

Perry Yancey.

Funeral services for Perry Yancey, 47 years old, a mechanical expert in the Chicago office of the Westinghouse Air Brake company for eight years, will be conducted today in Albuquerque, N. M. He died there Saturday after a long illness. Mr. Yancey lived at 1051 Thorndale avenue. His widow, Josephine, survives.

Jacob Seibert.

Jacob Seibert, president of the Seibert Paper company, died yesterday in the Albert Merritt Billings hospital. He lived at 3000 Sheridan road. Surviving are his widow, Wilma, and a daughter, Zara. Funeral services will be, at 10 a. m. Thursday in the chapel at 2701 North Clark street.

CHIEF F. W. LICHT OF FOREST PARK OUSTED BY BOARD

Chief Fred W. Licht, who has been head of the Forest Park police for thirty years, found himself without a job last night. The village board by a vote of 3 to 2 abolished his office.

Mayor Tom Collis Jr. said the action was taken in the interest of economy. He would not comment on reports that Licht's ouster was caused by politics. The mayor said he would take over the duties of chief.

"This talk of economy is the bunk," said August J. Calcagno, one of the dissenting board members. "If it were true then we have lost money for thirty years because we have had a good chief."

Robert Brunton.

Funeral services for Robert Brunton, 63 years old, a tobacco dealer, will be conducted at 2 p. m. today in the chapel at 1732 Wilson avenue. Burial will be in Rosehill cemetery. Mr. Brunton died Saturday of a heart attack in his room in the Sheridan Plaza hotel, 4607 Sheridan road. He had been connected with the tobacco industry for thirty-five years. He was Chicago representative of the Christian Peper Tobacco company of St. Louis, Mo. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Helen M. Allen and Mrs. Edith Delvin.

Capt. Michael F. Morgan.

The funeral of Capt. Michael F. Morgan will be held at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow from the chapel at 4708 North Western avenue to St. Ita church. Capt. Morgan, a Great Lakes sailing master for 40 years, died Sunday at the age of 71. He was for many years in command of the passenger steamer City of Grand Rapids. Capt. Morgan lived at 2115 Summerdale avenue. Surviving are his widow, Elizabeth; three sons, Frank, Stanley, and Robert; and two daughters, Mrs. Genevieve Spencer and Mrs. Betty Hurst.

Mrs. Lydia Thomas Raley.

Mrs. Lydia Thomas Raley, resident hostess of the Illinois building at the New York World's Fair, died yesterday in New York. Mrs. Raley was 58 years old. She was well known in Chicago club circles, and served as hostess at the Illinois building during A Century of Progress. Her husband, Howard B. Raley, who was in Los Angeles on a business trip, will return to Chicago tomorrow morning. Funeral service will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow in Dodgeville, Wis.

Mrs. Nellie Carlson.

Funeral services for Mrs. Nellie Carlson, 84 years old, 12033 Eggleston avenue, will be conducted at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel of her son, Albert E. Carlson, at 304 West 119th street. Mrs. Carlson died Sunday in her home. She came to West Pullman in 1893 with her husband. Surviving are one other son, Carl, three daughters, Mrs. Abbie Adler, Mrs. Zada Newton, and Mrs. Hilda Lloyd, eight grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren.

John E. Johnson.

The funeral of John E. Johnson, president of the Johnson Smoked Fish company, which he founded fifty years ago, will be conducted at 2 p. m. today in his home at 2217 Burling street. Burial will be in Graceland cemetery. Mr. Johnson died Saturday at the age of 79. Surviving are six children, ten grandchildren, and one great-grandchild.

J. H. Patterson.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow in Marengo, McHenry county, for J. H. Patterson, 78 years old, owner of a chain of lumber and coal yards in seven northern Illinois cities. Mr. Patterson died in his home in Marengo Saturday night. He was a member of the first city council and was mayor of Marengo from 1905 to 1915.

Two Daughters of Rogers Hills Will Be Brides

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE friends who went to a garden party given last Saturday by the Rogers Hills at their farm in Bull Valley near Woodstock, Ill., were surprised to find that the party was to announce the engagements of the Hills' two daughters, Joanne and Elizabeth. Miss Joanne is to be married to Hascy Tarbox of Chicago and the younger girl, Elizabeth, is engaged to Alexander McNeil Smith, also of Chicago.

Both girls attended the University School for Girls in Chicago and later Miss Joanne went to the National College of Education in Evanston and the University of Wisconsin. Miss Elizabeth attended the latter and also Barnard college in New York. The sisters and their parents have many friends in Chicago and often are here.

Mr. Hill, known as Skipper, is the headmaster of the Todd school at Woodstock. Both of his future sons-in-law attended the school and later Mr. Smith went to Northwestern university. Known to football fans and fellow yachtsmen as Sandy, Mr. Smith now is in newspaper work in Chicago. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Smith of this city. Mr. Tarbox, an artist, is in the advertising business here. He is the son of Frederic H. Tarbox of Minneapolis.

Painted Sets for Early Orson Welles Productions.

Mr. Tarbox and Orson Welles were students at Todd at the same time and the former used to paint the sets for young Orson's stage productions. Neither Mr. Welles nor his wife, the former Virginia Nicolson of Chicago, was here for the announcement party. Both were in Woodstock recently, however.

Mrs. Welles is sailing this week from New York for Ireland to visit the Edward William Lindsay-Hoggs. Mrs. Lindsay-Hogg is Geraldine Fitzgerald, the lovely young Irish girl whom Mr. Welles brought to this country to play in "Heartbreak House" and who since has made good in the movies, supporting Merle Oberon in "Wuthering Heights" and Bette Davis in "Dark Victory."

Mr. Lindsay-Hogg's brother, Sir Anthony, was in Chicago during the spring and early summer, but he now is in New York. Mr. Welles is going to Hollywood this week to spend the rest of the summer.

Reveal Engagement of Margaret Reiss.

Another engagement announcement of interest to Chicagoans was made known on Sunday at Elkhart Lake, Wis. Mr. and Mrs. William A. Reiss of Sheboygan told of the engagement at a party for the families and close friends on Sunday night at their summer home. Their daughter, Margaret Rietow Reiss, is to marry Robert Louis Testuwide, son of Mr. and Mrs. Konrad Testwuide, also of Sheboygan and Elkhart Lake.

Both young people have many Chicago friends. Miss Reiss is a graduate of St. Mary's-of-the-Woods college and is a member of the Service club in Sheboygan. Mr. Testwuide was graduated from Swarthmore college, where he was known in football circles, having been captain one year. The wedding is planned for Oct. 25.

The newly-wed junior Jack Vilases left for their wedding trip Friday night. They did not go far, however, for on Saturday they were back at Lake Geneva, sailing young Mr. Vilas' A boat to win a third in the weekly race. Even her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Gartz Jr., were surprised.

After the race young Mr. and Mrs. Vilas started off again and, according to last reports, they were motoring east, not to be back until Aug. 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Linn are giving a dinner party tonight at their home in Lake Bluff for the Wayne Chatfield Taylors, who are spending the summer in Lake Forest. Later in the summer the Linns will go to Charlevoix, Mich., to avoid the hay fever season.

Second Daughter Born to Junior Kellogg Fairbanks.

Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank came to Chicago from her summer home in Lake Geneva to hear her daughter, Miss Janet Fairbank, sing in Grant park on Sunday night. She stayed in her town house that night and did not drive back to the lake until yesterday afternoon. So she was one of the first to see her new granddaughter, born yesterday morning at the Chicago Lying-In hospital. The baby's parents are the junior Kellogg Fairbanks.

The new baby has a sister, Peggy, who will celebrate her third birthday in September. The babies' maternal grandmother is Mrs. John Francis Cornell of New York, who is visiting the Fairbanks and her other son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Harvey. Mrs. Cornell will remain in Chicago for at least another month.

Mrs. Kenneth Templeton of Lake Forest was among the first to congratulate her daughter and son-in-law, the Sidney D. Johnsons of Cincinnati, on the birth of their first child, Fredericka Elizabeth, yesterday morning. Mr. Templeton received a wire from Mrs. Templeton telling him of the birth of his first grandchild shortly after her arrival.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O. Watkins are planning to take a trip in August to Long Lake, Mich., where they will visit Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, at her home, The Timbers. Mrs. Armour canceled plans at the last moment for a trip to California this month and still is in her Lake Forest house. She will go north shortly.

Charles B. Goodspeed Returns from East.

Charles B. Goodspeed returned yesterday from a two week vacation in Osterville, Cape Cod, Mass. Mrs. Goodspeed, who has been there since the latter part of June, will return about Oct. 1 for the opening of the Arts club.

Mr. and Mrs. Minor Bennett of San Antonio, Tex., are visiting Mr. Bennett's sister, Mrs. John Harrington, in Evanston. Mrs. Bennett is a cousin of Mrs. Arthur Meeker. The Meekers are at their summer home in Santa Barbara, Cal. The Bennetts will be here until the end of this week.

Mrs. Arthur Bissell and Miss Florence D. Bartlett left Saturday for Murray Bay, Canada, where they plan to stay until after Labor day.

Their Winnetka neighbors regretfully have said good-by for two years to the Frederick W. Copelands and their three children. Mr. and Mrs. Copeland have moved to Michigan City, Ind., where they have leased a house for the next twenty-four months. Mr. Copeland's business has taken him there.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

[Posed by Virginia Grey.]

This is the great American gesture on hot days. You'll find you won't have to wield that powder puff so frequently if you makeup carefully in the morning and renew your makeup completely and quickly at least twice during the day. Even with foundations as good as they are you can't expect miracles.

It's a job, on humid days, to keep the face looking fresh for even a few hours. But if you master the trick of keeping the bandbox look you'll really stand out in the parade.

Your foundation is important, but we've just about decided that frequent quick cleansings and generous patting with tonic are even more so.

Make up more carefully than usually in the morning. Use your favorite base, by all means, but remember, especially if your pet happens to be a cream, that a little goes a very long way. Did you ever notice, when you had a professional makeup, how sparingly the operator used foundation? If it's cream she usually doesn't use as much as would cover your small finger nail.

Put a tiny dab on chin, forehead, and each cheek and draw a thin film down the center of your nose. Blend it, lightly and quickly, and be sure it isn't heavy in any spot. One very light coat is far better than heavy patches. Use cream rouge, also deftly blended, and you'll find your cheek color will last longer. Then powder, and allow yourself some time. Pat it on, let it "set," then brush it off. You'll have a smooth makeup and one that will stand up longer than a slap-dash one you've donned in a hurry.

But if the day is hot and you're perspiring, don't expect miracles. Renew your makeup at noon, using a liquid cleanser or a light cream and follow this up with tonic that refreshes and cuts the oil as well. Do the same thing before you set out for the evening. You'll find that your pauses to replace your heat bedraggled makeup will insure a well groomed face no matter what the thermometer showms.

By Mae Tinee.

Good Morning!

I wouldn't know how to write this review if I couldn't start it with a eulogy of May Robson.

Because this very, very YOUNG, very, very OLD lady is the motive power that lifts a most mediocre production from the ranks of just plain ordinary to a niche among the almost great, a place to which it is entitled ONLY by reason of Miss Robson's magnificent performance.

What a pity to spend her so! When her remaining years of activity must necessarily be so few! Instead of wasting her on the sort of tripe that "The Kid from Kokomo" primarily is, they should be starring her in richly worth while productions. You have never seen anything finer than her scene before a night court judge in this movie and throughout the action it is May Robson's art that holds the dumb yarn together in any semblance of shape.

It took the movie makers a long time to "discover" Marie Drssler. . . . Well, they still have May Robson. It's a thought.

Her rôle in this piece is on the order of that she played in "Lady for a Day." A gin loving old witch—who had once been an actress—she is pressed into service as a dear old mother. For the hero of the yarn, a mighty muscled farm lad who as a babe had been left on a rustic doorstep, and through the years has acquired a terrific mother complex, will not become a prize fighter unless he has a mamma to fight for.

So Fight Promoter Billy Murphy provides the supposedly long lost parent in the person of the unlovely old drink-sodden shoplifter, Maggie Martin. . . . Before the film ends Heavyweight Homer also has a poppa—but ho hum as to that, and, in fact everything but May Robson's performance.

To be fair, however, I must say that the film's liabilities do not lie in players or director.

The unspeakably stupid narrative nests them all.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Howell Glover of Rogers Park announce the engagement of their daughter, Gwyneth, to Robert J. Harper, son of Mrs. Malcolm C. Harper of Evanston. Miss Glover attended Lewis institute and the Evanston Academy of Fine Arts. Mr. Harper was graduated from Northwestern university. The wedding is planned for the fall.

Call Federation to Defense of Working Wife

BY BETTY BROWNING.

Kansas City, Mo., July 10.—[Special.]—The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs opened its biennial convention here today with a glance backward at women's achievements during the last century, and with a long look at present and future obstacles to further achievement.

More than 1,000 delegates from all parts of the country were told that opposition to married women workers is the greatest menace to business and professional women today.

Nine out of ten married women who work have dependents to support, Miss Earlene White of Washington, D. C., national president, stressed in her report. She described the fight made by the federation and other coöperating women's organizations to defeat bills restricting working wives in almost a score of states during recent months.

"Defend the married woman. You may marry yourself some time," Mrs. Carried Chapman Catt advised in an address broadcast to the convention from her home in New Rochelle, N. Y.

It was at the suggestion of this 80 year old pioneer campaigner for woman's suffrage that the federation made "one hundred years of women's progress in the United States" the theme of this convention.

After describing the difficulties overcome by women in the past, Mrs. Catt termed today's obstacles by comparison "only the irritations of belated surrender" by a minority opposition.

Mrs. Catt called attention to a Swedish law, recently enacted, forbidding the dismissal of a woman from any type of work on account of marriage or maternity. "Let us catch up with Sweden," she concluded.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

And Their Hearts Stood Still.

Hollywood, Cal., July 10.—The train to Seattle was hot and sticky. It was in July of 1930. To the tall youngster who had just learned that the star as well as the director didn't want him in the company going on location the day was miserable. On a sudden impulse, he went to the door of the compartment in which the star was quartered: "You're a famous star," said the kid. "With a little help from you I could learn to play the part." The star looked up sourly. "Come on in, you big lunkhead," he told the kid, and from there to Seattle he taught him how to read lines. . . . The star, Louis Wolheim . . . the picture, "The Silver Horde" . . . the kid actor, Joel McCrea.

"Sweetheart, I'll call your bluff," Al Woods told the young actress. . . . "I'll let you read the part of Poppy in 'Shanghai Gesture' to Mrs. Leslie Carter." Mrs. Carter didn't even let her read it. "You're too tall, three inches too tall," protested the star. "The scene where I kill you would be preposterous, a midget killing an amazon." . . . The girl who was three inches too tall, Kay Francis.

A group of children in a New England boarding school was standing close to the Christmas tree, exclaiming delightedly at the gay colors of the decorations. A spark from the fire in the room leaped out, propelled by a sudden draught, and the dry tree blazed up. In the scramble one girl was thrown into the blazing, crackling mass. For days they kept her wrapped in oiled cloths while she moaned and tossed. "If she recovers her eyes will be abnormal," the doctor told the other, gravely. The doctor was right. The staring, pop eyes of Bette Davis are abnormal, but they've been a factor in her screen success.

The young stock company actor sitting on the stage of the Hudson theater had his fingers crossed. He had just been married and the entire bank roll was $14.76, with a board bill coming due. The short, dapper figure coming down the center aisle to select a cast for "Yellow" was George M. Cohan. The young actor could hardly get to his feet when Cohan called him down to the footlights. "You're just the type we want," said Cohan. "What's your name?" The young actor, now grinning widely, said: "Spencer Tracy."

It was the seventh day of the rehearsals of Edgar Selwyn's "The Proud Woman," at the Selwyn theater. To the young actor from a Denver stock company the day was of extreme importance, as all clauses carried a seven day provisional clause. If the manager didn't release him before he left the theater, it meant that the part was his. Rehearsal ended. The stock company player edged cautiously to the stage door, figuring that if he could get out of the theater, he'd assist lady luck. He had his hand on the stage door when the company manager grabbed him. "I'm sorry, but Mr. Selwyn won't be able to use you." The actor, Frederic March.

AN INDIVIDUAL TELEPHONE LINE COSTS ONLY A FEW CENTS MORE A DAY

WHEN time is important, you need a single-party telephone. Then you are sure of the line when you want to make a call in a hurry. And when others call you, they won't be delayed or discouraged by busy signals when the "other party" is using your line.

Even when you are not in a hurry, you will appreciate the extra convenience and privacy of an individual telephone line. The additional cost is surprisingly small. To have the change made, just call the Telephone Business Office.

Good-bye To Vienna

SYNOPSIS.

An American girl and her Viennese sweetheart, Franz Gruenwald, in a café in Vienna, hear a radio announcement of Hitler's entry into Austria. The girl, Marian Taylor, has been staying in Franz's home, studying voice. Franz fears for his foster-father, Prof. Josef von Plasy, author of a recent anti-Nazi book. He refuses to flee the country and leave his wife, Gisela, and son Johann, who has the mind of a child. Leopoldine, a pro-Nazi woman surgeon, in love with Franz, warns him to send the American girl home. Her brother, Karl, is a Storm Trooper. Von Plasy is taken off to jail to die from shock. In order to take Gisela's money out of the country to deliver to her friend, Emil Wiedermann, in Riga, Marian invests it in rare stamps. Herr Speyer, the stamp merchant, guesses her purpose, but is sympathetic and asks her to deliver a picture to a friend of his in Riga, a Mme. Lonska. Franz loses his job. When Leopoldine secures one for him he accepts it for the sake of his dependents. In Riga Marian learns Herr Wiedermann is in love with Gisela and wants to arrange for her and Johann to come there. Mme. Lonska insists that Marian stay with her. Marian realizes that Mme. Lonska is a spy and that she thinks Marian also is one and that the picture from Herr Speyer was a message in code. Marian returns to Vienna.

INSTALMENT XXVI.

A DETERMINED WOMAN.

They followed Gisela into the living room, and Marian told Franz as much as she could about the passport business without exciting Johann while they sat at the table. Franz thanked her for leaving his passport and said he would go along on his motorcycle to see the official on the morrow.

The three of them discussed the problem of Johann while the boy himself alternately leaned out of the kitchen window to talk to the sleepy pigeons in their nest and made a long slow job of washing the dishes. His intermittent bursts of Tyrolean yodeling indicated that he was in a specially happy frame of mind. Gisela hearing him faintly through the double doors smiled sadly. "That's the first time since he lost his father."

Franz brought her firmly back to the point. "Which is liebchen, that you should be sensible and take advantage of Herr Wiedermann's offer."

"I've told you why I can't," she said obstinately. "It wouldn't be fair. He loves me."

"That's the reason why you should take it," countered Franz. "What is love for? To own, possess, and dominate or to serve and work for? You're mean, unworthy, and small minded not to give this great hearted fellow the happiness of serving you."

"Why, Franz!"

"Yes, that's straight talking Gisela, but I mean it. That's love the way I see it. And I know it's the way he sees it." He turned to Marian, his face alight. "Isn't that the impression he gave you?"

"You don't understand——" began Gisela desperately, tearing at her little handkerchief.

"O, but I do——" began the other two in unison. Marian continued as Franz gave way to her, "perhaps it's hard to take, dear, but it's true. You're putting your pride above everything. Emil's happiness in being useful to you, Johann's fate——"

"But it isn't definite anyhow that he'll ever get a passport."

"Nevertheless, what Emil writes makes sense. If you go while you can he'll be in a stronger position to help. You may, even yourself, have some influence with the men he will introduce to you. You must go first—then Johann can escape. Don't you trust Franz? Don't you think he's capable of taking care of him?"

"Yes, dear, yes. Naturally I do."

"That's settled then. You will take your passport and Emil's letters and go to the Latvian consulate tomorrow."

She went in the morning because she had promised to go. She said to Marian as she was leaving the apartment, "fate will take care of this. Perhaps I will not get the visa. I feel selfish to go before my boy's future is certain. I wish I could be sure that what I'm doing is right."

But fate pushed her onwards. Herr Wiedermann's friends were men of substance. The visa was promptly given without question. Also the necessary visas for transit on the short route through Czecho-Slovakia and Poland. Even the official permission to leave Austria was given.

Marian helped Gisela to pack her clothes and her more portable treasures. Three officials came and sat around the room smoking and examining everything in detail while they packed, finally drilling holes in the trunks and making great play with lead seals and coils of wire. Gisela left at last, looking very young and forlorn, on the night train. Franz and Marian saw her off.

Leopoldine had some mysterious way of knowing everything that was going on. She knew, for instance, that Gisela had left Vienna, that now the old woman, Trudie, who had nursed Hilde and Johann in their infancy was at the Reichsratstrasse apartment to keep house for Franz and Johann, and that Marian like the foolish American prude she was had taken a room in a neighboring house.

The last fact encouraged Leopoldine in more ways than one. "For, of course, a girl who would behave like that is one of these frigid females who make marriage the price of what they call virtue, or she doesn't love Franz. Not as I love him. I don't want marriage in order to give him all I have. In fact," she thought, slightly startled, "I don't want marriage at all."

She wanted Franz so that she felt ill if she did not see him—she wanted him so that he loomed so large that he shut out every other consideration in her personal world—but she did not want to submit herself even in theory to any man who could call her wife. "Too much like my father," she concluded.

Franz and Marian spent all their spare time together. Leopoldine soon discovered that unless she could get him to come out to see her at the Turkenschantz Park on some pretext, she would have to call on him late at night. Café conversations were of no value, and any attempt to develop their precarious intimacy at the hospital was doomed to failure from the start. She decided to call at the Reichsratstrasse before he came in one evening and wait there till he came home. Franz could not be influenced by threats. But perhaps he would be moved by reason. A surgical triumph in the operating theater which had astounded and thrilled the entire medical faculty of the hospital had produced in her a triumphant mood in which failure in any venture was an idea impossible to entertain.

Ironically, her prowess was the most formidable factor in the scales against her. Franz had heard the story of her feat in the general enthusiasm. She was her father over again, some of the men were saying, having the combination of brutality and genius necessary to do this deed. She had taken a course in which the slightest hesitation, the slightest tremor of her hand would unnecessarily have cost a life. A course in which, had she failed, she would have been severely censured for trying. She had shown clearly as her father had shown, that no human body under her knife had personality for her. It was raw material for her cruel cleverness—another case. She worked to exercise her blazing skill. She saved life to glorify herself.

There was both criticism and praise. Envy and admiration. Franz knew that the husband of the woman who was the case loved her deeply and was in transports of gratitude and happiness that she lived, unaware that in order to serve the purpose of an ego she had narrowly missed being heartlessly deprived of her life.

She would, of course, become stronger and healthier than if she had been conservatively operated on in order to run no risk, but neither she nor her husband had had any choice in the matter.

"It was criminally selfish," Franz commented to the American student who described the situation.

So while Leopoldine's mind surged with power and confidence, Franz's surged with dislike bordering on hate. And as before he tried to reason himself out of it. He talked about it to Marian in the café where they had taken to meeting for supper.

Marian shuddered. "I'm unreasonable, I know, but it's almost as if one feels Leopoldine likes the exercise of her skill, not for its healing power, but for its own sake."

"How odd you should get that feeling, too."

"We're not being fair, are we?"

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"What a monotonous world this would be if every woman we saw were a perfect fourteen," exclaims Monty Macievy, figure consultant and director of a chain of slenderizing salons that help shape and reshape thousands of women.

"Modern life is becoming standardized enough, without also regimenting figures into die-stamped patterns. Yet it is toward this unglamorous uniformity that a great deal of present day advice is leading women. How often do we hear about the dimensions of a perfect twentieth century woman or the modern Venus or the figure of tomorrow—as if there could be any such thing!"

From observing the figure faults of thousands of people, Mr. Macievy has learned that figure conditioning is an individual matter, with the problem differing for each person.

"There is no such thing as an arbitrary standard of perfection," he continues. "Yet many women try to fit themselves into some idealized set of proportions, those of a popular movie star, or a 'perfect figure' cut out of cardboard, for example. Such attempts usually end in disappointment, for they fail to take into account the fact that every woman's bone structure differs from that of the next. If a girl is long-waisted, low-chested, or long-legged, she can't do anything about changing those things just because some one might decide they're not stylish. What she can do is to attain maximum figure effectiveness by reducing or building those parts that can be altered to harmonize with the rest of her figure. What if she hasn't a 33½ inch bust, 36½ inch hips, 14 inch calf? That doesn't mean she cannot be attractive with her own figure proportions.

"There are ideals of bodily beauty, of course, but they are personal, not general standards. Each individual should analyze herself, her structure, features, occupations, general well-being and the essentials of her personality, all of which are factors determining the ideal figure for her. Then she should consult competent advisers, usually including conference with a physician, to learn what methods might best overcome her remediable figure faults."

GASOLINE ALLEY—BY THE SILVERY MOON

NINA, I'M STARTIN OUT IN THE MORNING. I WANTED TO SEE YOU THE LAST THING.
I'M GLAD YOU CAME, SKEEZIX.
IT'S ALL BEEN WONDERFUL AN' I'LL BE THINKIN' ABOUT IT ALL THE TIME I'M GONE.
IF YOU WILL, I WILL, SKEEZIX.
AN' MY GOIN' AWAY WON'T CHANGE THINGS A BIT.
I'M GLAD YOU FEEL THAT WAY ABOUT IT—TONIGHT, ANYWAY.
AND NO MATTER HOW LONG I STAY AWAY, I'LL THINK ABOUT YOU THE SAME WAY.
WHATEVER HAPPENS, IT'S GRAND TO KNOW YOU FEEL LIKE THAT RIGHT NOW.
Reg. U. S. Pat. Off. Copyright, 1939, by The Chicago Tribune.

BUT THIS IS MY DRESSING ROOM—I'M OPENING HERE TONIGHT AS DANCING PARTNER TO MR. HARLOW NIXON!
I KNOW NOTHING ABOUT THAT—BUT I'D ADVISE YOU TO SEE MR. GURMAND FIRST!!
OF ALL THE NERVE! I WILL GO SEE MR. GURMAND—AND RIGHT NOW!
I'M AWFULLY SORRY ABOUT THE WHOLE THING, MISS WINKLE, BUT IT CERTAINLY WAS NOT MY IDEA—HARLOW NIXON GOT HIS OLD DANCING PARTNER, EDYTHE DE KIRK, TO LEAVE HER SHOW AND COME BACK TO DANCE WITH HIM.
OH, BILL—

Newest Clothes Make Traveler Cool and Smart

BY RHEA SEEGER.

With more than half the population on the move, no shopper is greatly surprised by the grand collection of travel clothes available. Prices easy on any travel strained budget, colors that are not only visible for blocks but easy on the eye, materials that are air conditioned, featherweight and tub fast—every hazard has been removed.

Dark colors that look fresh and cool on the warmest days, thin prints that combine for both dress and matching long coats, precise checks, tiny plaids, and cross stripes make a most comprehensive assortment of what it takes to travel in smart, cool comfort and serenity.

The best of the loot is the stuff for sleeping comfort—travel sets of long pullman robe and matching pajamas. These are slick finds, especially the colorful prints. Dark backgrounds, dubonnet, cornflower blue, forest green, copper, and navy, have such appropriate designs as millions of travel tags in color to contrast or geometrical squares and quaint curlicues while the snappy white dotted prints go on forever, never losing their cool, crisp eye appeal and travel worthiness.

New arrivals taking the money are the masculine cut duets made of effective cravat silk patterns in a novelty material. Pipings along the edges of the cuffs, color, pocket flaps on the long belted robe are repeated in the two piece pajamas, making a travel duet of unusual trimness.

Want to Join Sally's Party? Rush a Letter

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Where are those letters, boys and girls?

If you want to come to our Chicago theater party on Thursday, July 20, to see "Second Fiddle," don't wait too long to write that letter which might win an invitation for you.

It's going to be a grand party, and the film's just the type of entertainment every one likes. Sonja Henie swims and dances in addition to doing several beautiful skating routines, Rudy Vallee introduces several new songs by Irving Berlin as well as a new dance, and, believe it or not, Edna Mae Oliver turns jitterbug briefly in this new film. She's funny enough when she's her usual self—so I know how much you'll laugh when you see her latest stunt.

If you'd like to come to this party you'll have to write a letter and tell me so, because I'm anxious to select as my guests 100 boys and girls who'll have a scrumptious time if they win invitations. When you write tell me why you'd like to be included in this treat, and don't, whatever you do, forget to give your full name, your address, and your age. If you forget any one of those three items you'll never get to the Chicago theater on the twentieth!

Any boy or girl is eligible to try for an invitation, but all letters, if they're to be judged, must be on my desk no later than next Thursday morning. I'll read all the mail that morning and select fifty boys and fifty girls who seem to me to be the most enthusiastic about coming to my party.

Thursday isn't far away, so get busy with your pencil and paper and send your bid for an invitation to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

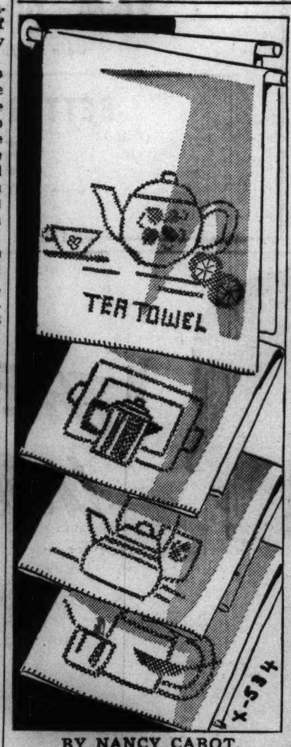
Transfer Pattern in Cross-Stitch Has Eight Motifs



BY NANCY CABOT.

Colorful cross-stitch motifs do much to create a gay and colorful kitchen. The teapots, kettles, and pans in cross-stitch are simple items which any beginner may undertake to embroider. Eight motifs comprise this hot iron transfer pattern, since there are two of each illustrated design.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of the cross-stitch towels in pot and kettle design, No. X-534, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 230 Fifth avenue, New York City.

FINE FOR KIDNEY AND BLADDER WEAKNESS

STOP GETTING UP NIGHTS AND FEEL YOUNGER

Keep your blood more free from waste matter, poisons and acid by putting more activity into kidneys and bladder, and you should live a healthier, happier and longer life.

One efficient, safe and harmless way to do this is to get from your druggist a 35 cent box of Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules and take them as directed—the swift results should delight you.

Besides getting up nights, some symptoms of kidney trouble may be backache, shifting pains, puffy eyes.

Don't be an EASY MARK and accept a substitute—Ask for Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules—right from Haarlem in Holland. GET GOLD MEDAL—the original—the genuine. Look for the Gold Medal on the box—35 cents.

When housewives call this office for a chicken salad recipe, as they frequently do, we usually give them a basic recipe and suggest variations. Chicken salad may be very simple or very complex. It has at least as many changes as does potato salad.

If you have a good dressing, you need nothing but chicken, celery, and mayonnaise for your salad. But most women prefer to add a few other ingredients, especially when the salad is intended for company.

BASIC CHICKEN SALAD.
[Serves four.]
2 cups diced cooked chicken
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup sliced celery
Mayonnaise or boiled dressing
Lettuce

Sprinkle chicken with salt, add celery and enough salad dressing to moisten. Chill thoroughly and serve on lettuce.

When there are other ingredients, the salad usually will make more servings. The amount of chicken can be reduced when vegetables are added, if desired.

VARIATIONS OF BASIC CHICKEN SALAD.

1. Add two diced hard cooked eggs and 2 tablespoons chopped pickle.
2. Add 1 tablespoon chopped pimiento and 2 tablespoons diced green pepper.
3. Add 1 tablespoon capers and 2 diced, hard cooked eggs.
4. Add ½ cup diced cucumber and ½ cup sliced tomato. More salt will be necessary.
5. Add ¼ cup chopped almonds and ½ cup button mushrooms.
6. Add 1 cup diced artichoke hearts which have been marinated for an hour in French dressing, and 1 tablespoon chopped pimiento.
7. Add ½ cup cooked peas, 1 small onion, minced, ¼ cup diced carrots, and salt to season.
8. Add 1 cup diced cooked potatoes, 2 hard cooked eggs, 2 tablespoons chopped pickle, and more salt.
9. Add thousand island dressing instead of mayonnaise.
10. Fill peeled and hollowed tomatoes with the salad, and serve on lettuce garnished with parsley or watercress, and additional dressing.
11. Serve the salad in cucumber boats made by splitting cucumbers lengthwise and scooping out the seeds. Add more dressing.
12. Serve in long, soft rolls, split on one side and buttered.

And there are innumerable other variations, both in composition of the salad itself, and in the dressing. Diced cooked veal or pork often is added to "stretch" chicken. Ripe or green olives may be added to any variations or to the basic salad. Sometimes the ingredients are marinated in French dressing before they are mixed with mayonnaise.

When you can get watercress, serve chicken salad on this green instead of on lettuce, for the dark color is a pleasing contrast, especially when a garnish of pimiento is used.

Chicken salad is bound to be good, no matter what you put in it, if the chicken was good in the first place, and if the salad is seasoned properly.

A frozen chicken, fish, or vegetable salad is a fine main dish for a porch supper. There are 32 recipes for refrigerator frozen salads in Mary Meade's booklet, "Freeze the Salad." It sells for 3 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower lobby, or will be mailed for 5 cents in stamps.

July 11, 1939.

Resolve today to seek out some inspiration and revive and renew your faith in mankind. This can be a strong day if the accent is on ideals.

Those born on the 11th are not particularly forceful as a rule, for they are more the mental type than the dynamic physical type. They are romantic and gentle.

Straw Hat Theater Notes.

That girl we wrote about—one of the Lake Zurich playhouse company—whom motorists see mowing the lawn in front of the inn-playhouse every day, is appearing in the back yard this week, cutting burdock.

The company is giving Thornton Wilder's Our Town this week. The play calls for the pantomiming of most of the props, including a milk wagon, horse, and farm yard fowls, but the other day a neighbor's brood of ducklings ad libbed a waddling chorus across the stage, with perfect timing. Since that incident The Duchess, part Sealyham and part poodle, has been adopted by the company and it is her duty to chase away stage-struck chickens and ducks.

A part is being written in Shakespeare's Taming of the Shrew for The Duchess. Shocking as this may be to lovers of Shakespeare, Managing Director Sidney Breese feels it will be all right in the modern version the company is putting on next week.

Forty-One Years Ago.

Dear Miss Provines:

Yes, it's hot, but that's nothing. July 11, 1898, high noon, troops out of the trenches; Spanish flag just been hauled down, Stars and Stripes run up, 21 gun salute; President McKinley's message of congratulation to Gen. Shafter read to all the troops; colored band plays "Star-Spangled Banner," Teddy Roosevelt leads his regiment in cheering, and the tropical sun beats down.

Yes, it's hot. Most of the boys are now in a sunnier land (and I hope cooler place), but the few of us who are left will never holler about the heat after that Sunday, July 11, 1898, on the top of San Juan Hill.

Youth Is Torn Between Girl and His 'Gang'

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"I wish you'd devote a column some day to the subject I have in mind. I'm sure I'm not the only fellow with a problem like it.

"I like a certain girl, but my crowd passes cutting remarks to her when I want to leave them to go with her. Talking to her about it, I find that she does like me but would rather I'd leave her alone than to be subjected to the talk they indulge in.

'What can I do? I enjoy her company immensely, but the fellows are all old pals of mine and she has just moved here recently. They have nothing against the girl. They just think they're razzing me, and, perhaps, are a bit jealous that I have the 'in' with her. Anyway, they certainly do not stop to consider the girl's feelings, and that is what I would like you to write about.

"Bob."

Well, Bob, that's pretty ghastly for the girl. And what a bunch of hoodlums she must think your pals are, and rightly, say we.

Thoughtlessness it may be, but it does seem to us to be nothing but ill mannered goofishness on your pals' part so to conduct themselves in any young woman's hearing.

We suppose that in a group such as you pal around with there is a bit of feeling when one member is threatened with being 'aken over by a girl. It threatens disruption of the "gang." Still, that does not excuse rudeness, a fact you, yourself, might convey to the young men in no uncertain terms. It's your duty to save the girl from any repetition after a first unexpected occurrence of the sort, and she will think you are a weak number if you don't come through in her defense.

You could, if necessary, arrange to meet the young lady apart from your pals. You have to break with them some time, as they will drop away from old association when the girl comes along.

Our feeling is that the boys do not need a lecture as much as you need one yourself, Bob, in the art of being a real hero to a girl.

MISSES' SPORTS OUTFIT.

All the essential wardrobe items for active or spectator sports are included in this one harmonizing costume, and may be made with the aid of just this one pattern. There are plaited, comfortable shorts; a halter with collar effect and slide fastener down the front; a blouse that buttons down the front, and may be worn either over or under the skirt, and a skirt buttoned to match.

The shorts button onto either halter or blouse. The outfit is so well fitted that all four pieces may be worn at once, to be progressively peeled off at tennis court, golf links, or beach, until one is ready for a brisk game in shorts and halter.

In tubbable summer fabrics this costume is practical, inexpensive, and superbly smart. And it's simple to make.

The sketch shows the wearer with a visor hat to shield her eyes. You can make this hat to match your costume by procuring pattern No. 2567, available for 10 cents extra. It's available in one head size only, which you can adapt to your individual needs.

Style No. 2929 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires 3⅞ yards of 39 inch material for the shirt and skirt; 1½ yards for the shorts, and ⅝ yard for the halter.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central station, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Kennedys Will Attend Fourth Court of Year

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 10.—American Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy and Mrs. Kennedy will attend the fourth court of 1939 at Buckingham palace Wednesday night accompanied by Franklin C. Gowen, second secretary of the embassy, and Mrs. Gowen.

The following American women, who are wives or daughters of officers of the embassy, will be presented: Miss Eunice Kennedy, daughter of the ambassador; Mrs. Theodore C. Achilles, wife of the third secretary; Mrs. Bradford G. Chynoweth, wife of Lieut. Col. Chynoweth, military attache, and Miss Frances E. Chynoweth daughter; Mrs. George C. McDonald, wife of Maj. McDonald, assistant military attaché; Mrs. Alan G. Kirk, wife of Capt. Kirk, naval attaché, and Misses Marian and Deborah Kirk, daughters; Mrs. Norman R. Hitchcock, wife of Lieutenant Commander Hitchcock, assistant naval attaché; Mrs. Alexander V. Dye, wife of the commercial attaché.

DINNER FOR ROYALTY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 10.—American Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy played host to British royalty again tonight, entertaining Queen Mother Mary at a dinner in the American embassy.

Following the line adopted when the Kennedys gave a dinner party for King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth on the eve of their departure for America, the official announcement of tonight's function was limited to the bare list of the names of those invited.

Kennedy's thirty guests were drawn largely from court circles and members of congress. Americans present included Joseph M. Patterson, publisher of the New York News, and Mrs. Patterson, who arrived today; Mrs. Helen Rogers Reid, Winthrop W. Aldrich, Mrs. W. R. Hearst, and Max O'Rell Truitt, member of the American maritime commission.

Music News

A gala evening of Wagner and Strauss music will be presented at Ravinia on Friday, July 28. Artur Rodzinski will conduct the Chicago Symphony orchestra. A portion of the program will be devoted to excerpts from Strauss' "Der Rosenkavalier," with the vocal parts sung by Grete Stueckgold and Susanne Fisher, Metropolitan Opera sopranos, and Suzanne Sten, a mezzo-soprano newly arrived from central Europe. In the Wagnerian half of the program Eyvind Laholm, American tenor, also will sing.

A week later, on Friday, Aug. 4, Jacques Gordon, former concert master of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, will play the first performance anywhere of Leo Sowerby's Concerto in G minor for violin and orchestra.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	1 diamond	Pass
2 hearts	Pass	3 clubs	Pass
6 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

I have recorded this bidding as it actually took place. Obviously, it was far out of the ordinary. I cannot explain or justify South's reasoning for his weird sequence, and it goes without saying that the final contract was a very shaky one. My guess is that South did not think well of his partner's playing ability. Hence, instead of reaching a reasonably legitimate six diamond contract, South took the reins in his own hand at no trump.

The first bit of luck that South encountered was when West made a bad guess on his opening lead. A spade opening, while West still had the heart control, would have taught declarer a good lesson, but West cannot be greatly blamed for feeling that South had at least two spade stoppers and that a spade lead might trap an honor in East's hand. At any rate, West chose what was apparently a safe opening, namely, the diamond ten. Declarer won with the ace and cashed his three club tricks. Here was the second bit of luck: East had four clubs, but the jack and ten were blank in West's hand and dummy's nine promptly became established. Now a low diamond was led to the queen. East had discarded the eight of spades at the first trick and now echoed with the seven. The heart four was led from dummy and declarer played the queen, losing to West's king. West returned his fourth best spade. It must have been a great temptation to declarer to put up dummy's queen as, apparently, the only chance to win two spade tricks, but after long thought declarer decided to preserve the queen for quite another purpose. Hence he ducked in dummy and took East's ten with the ace. Now the diamond jack was cashed and another diamond was led to the king. On these two rounds East had little discarding difficulty. He blanked the spade king and threw away his last club, but now the cashing of the club nine delivered a mortal blow. East could not let go the spade king without establishing dummy's queen, hence he had to discard one of his precious hearts. Now all declarer had to do was cash the heart jack and lead dummy's remaining heart to his ace—the heart seven had been promoted to winning position.

As I have said, this was the sort of a hand that, fortunately enough, does not occur very often. Declarer had needed beautiful breaks, including the opportunity and ability to execute a squeeze, to fulfill the ambitious contract.

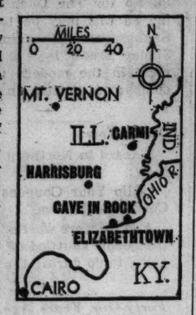
YOUTH PLEADS GUILTY OF AUTO BOMB SLAYING

Farm Hand to Be Witness Against Widow.

BY WARREN BAKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Carmi, Ill., July 10.—Ira Scott, a farm hand, appeared in the Circuit court at Elizabethtown today and pleaded guilty to a share in the dynamite murder of Earl Austin. It was announced that Scott would testify against Mrs. Alice Austin, widow of Earl, and her friend Ted Simmon, whote trial for the same murder begins tomorrow.



Towns Involved in Bombing, Arrest and Trial.

Austin was the school janitor at Cave in Rock, a river town not far from Elizabethtown [Hardin county]. On March 20 a dynamite bomb was exploded under the floor of his automobile as he rode along a lonely road at dawn. He was fatally injured and Miss Lacene McDowell, to whom he had been attentive, was permanently crippled by the blast.

Mrs. Austin Is Suspected.

Suspicion was directed at the dark haired Mrs. Austin, who had been estranged from her husband for two years, and against Simmons by relatives of the slain man. Mrs. Austin and Simmons were arrested the following day. Much feeling was aroused against them and they were moved to the Saline county jail in Harrisburg for safe keeping. They still are there.

Normally the trial of the widow and Simmons would be held in Elizabethtown, but they obtained a change of venue on the ground that they could not get a fair hearing there. Austin was a leader in American Legion activities.

Scott was arrested several weeks after the slaying. It was reported then that he had confessed that he put the dynamite in Austin's car, and that he had been paid $50 by two persons who were not named. Later the confession was withdrawn and a plea of not guilty to murder was entered in his behalf. He said he knew nothing of any plot to kill, and believed only that the truck was to be blown up so insurance on it could be collected.

Call Insurance Motive.

No evidence was presented after Scott's change to a plea of guilty. State's Attorney Clarence Soward of Hardin county said that he would be brought here tomorrow. Scott had not asked a change of venue.

The motive for the murder of Austin, according to Soward, was the collection of insurance of more than $10,000 he carried.

Mrs. Austin insists she is innocent and denies any affection for Simmons, who had lived in the Austin home.

WPA EMPLOYE GETS 90 DAYS AS ERRATIC DRIVER

John Mallek, 24 years old, a WPA employé, was sentenced in the Safety court yesterday to ninety days in the Bridewell on a charge of reckless driving. Judge Francis Borrelli also ordered the permanent revocation of his driver's license and sentenced him to work out a $200 fine at the rate of $1.50 a day.

Mallek's automobile struck the car of John R. Murray, 7369 Ridge avenue, Saturday morning at Huron street and Fairbanks court. Another motorist prevented Mallek from fleeing.

Mallek has served two previous terms in the Bridewell, one for leaving the scene of an accident. When Judge Borrelli was informed of this, he said Mallek should not be permitted to drive. He served eight months in 1936 for the trafic charge. In 1933 he served five months on a charge of malicious mischief.

BOY HIT BY AUTO OF CHICAGOAN AT GRASS LAKE DIES

Raymond Allan Rogers Jr., 6 years old, died yesterday in St. Therese hospital, Waukegan, of injuries suffered Sunday when he was struck by an automobile near his home at Grass lake, Lake county. Lake county police ordered the arrest of John Subick, the driver, when he failed to appear at the inquest last night. Subick gave his address as 142 South Kilbourn avenue, Chicago, but police said he was not known there.

An unidentified man about 55 years old was fatally injured last night when he was struck by an automobile at Kentucky and Elston avenues. He died in the County hospital. A. Thomas Lantzen, 26, of 3943 Janssen avenue, the driver, was held for the inquest.

Chris Bonson, 59 years old, died in the Highland Park hospital of injuries suffered Sunday when he was struck by an automobile on Waukegan road in Northbrook. Frederick Mumm of Forest Park, was the driver. Bonson lived in Northbrook.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 426 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 330 were killed in Chicago, where 10,885 were injured in the same period.

ARREST SCHOOL TEACHER ON TIPSY DRIVING CHARGE

Miss Lillian Herzer, a teacher in the Chicago public schools, was arrested on a charge of driving while intoxicated after her automobile collided with that of Park Policeman Frank Clay at Ashland and Ogden avenues last night. Miss Herzer is 35 years old and lives at 2123 Humboldt boulevard.

Mrs. Rosella Ritter, 42 years old, 2339 Monroe street, was charged with reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident after her car collided with another driven by Alex Pilurs, 6231 South Park avenue, in Jackson boulevard near Campbell avenue.

MAJOR LEAGUE ALL-STAR TEAMS MEET TODAY

ALL-STAR GAME BIG NIGHT FOR SWEENEY CLAN

Whole Family Saw Chuck Play.

BY CHUCK SWEENEY.
[Former Notre Dame football player and member 1938 All-Star team.]

South Bend, Ind., July 10.—Only once in the thirty-odd years my parents have been married has our house in Bloomington, Ill., been vacant. It took the All-Star game of 1938 to turn the trick.

Chuck Sweeney.

One of my sisters who is a nun had to be content with a radio account of the game, but otherwise the Sweeneys were present in full force when the All-Stars defeated the Washington Redskins, 28 to 16. And they'll probably be back in Soldiers' field Aug. 30 for this year's game.

My father, mother, five brothers, two sisters, my wife, and her family from South Bend, and a good chunk of the population of Bloomington came to cheer the college team. More specifically, they came to cheer the Notre Dame members of the cast. And still more specifically, they came to help one Chuck Sweeney, right end.

He Had to Produce.

I felt I had to produce in this game for several reasons. I couldn't let the Clan Sweeney down. The people of Bloomington arranged a testimonial dinner for me, presented me with a plaque, acquired a large share of the million and a half votes that put me on the starting team, and ran special trains to Chicago for the game. I felt my responsibility to the others who voted for me, to Notre Dame, and to Coach Alvin [Bo] McMillin of the All-Star staff.

Frankly, I didn't look so good in practice, and I don't think Bo was exactly sold on me. Whether he revised his opinion during the game I couldn't say, but I found it the most enjoyable game in which I ever played.

The spine tingling introduction to the huge crowd under the spotlights was a thrill that every football player in the land lives for. But the biggest kick I got out of the game was tackling Sammy Baugh of the Redskins on the first play from scrimmage. It was a weak side play—and a weak ankle play. Sammy's injured joint gave way under the tackle, and he lost much of his effectiveness for the rest of the night.

Admires Sammy Baugh.

I am not happy that I hurt him except that through the incident I got to know Baugh's real greatness. Far from resenting the injury, he took it as part of the game. He was very friendly to me at all times.

The following story will show you the kind of fellow Sammy is. His passes were supposed to demoralize the All-Stars. He was heralded as the greatest pitcher in football. I was surprised, then, to find his arm around my shoulders after I had helped him off the ground following a play, and to hear him say: "Tell Isbell to keep throwing because he's the best passer in football." High praise indeed from the mighty.

And let me tell you that it's no trick to catch one of Cecil Isbell's passes. Although I had caught many tosses in high school, I didn't have a pass thrown to me in three years at Notre Dame. The left ends and backs are usually the targets there. It felt good to get my hands on the ball again.

Why Baugh Was Target.

Those who saw the game may have wondered why John Kovatch at left end, and I were able to make so many tackles. The reason was, it seems to me, that the Redskins' offense did not make allowances for an injured Sammy Baugh. No one even bothered us, and we had a clear track into the back field. Under ordinary circumstances Baugh is able to get his passes away without protection. Slowed up by an injury, he was an easy target.

ARIZONA PLAYER LEADS FOOTBALL POLL WITH 71,062

Smilanich Gets Strong Backing in 3 States.

To Bronko Smilanich, University of Arizona half back, goes the honor of being the first leader in the 1939 poll to determine the collegiate football squad that will meet the New York Giants in Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 30.

Smilanich polled the greatest number of votes in the first returns of the coast to coast poll conducted by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and 330 associated newspapers and radio stations in 47 states and the District of Columbia. His total of 71,062 was reached by organized efforts in three states, Arizona, Minnesota, and Illinois. Shortly after the polls opened last Saturday votes began to pour into the Tribune contest department from Tucson, Ariz., Chisholm, Minn., Smilanich's home town, and Chicago.

Fans Pick the Best.

The nation's football fans are voting for the outstanding senior players of 1938 and the starting lineup of the squad will be determined by the number of votes the candidates receive. The game against the Giants, 1938 National Football league champions, will be the sixth annual test of football's professional champions and the graduating stars of the nation's collegiate gridirons.

Smilanich is not the only player who owes his lofty position to organized campaigns. Other players who received a huge number of votes include Jerome Holland of Cornell, Horace Bell of Minnesota, and Bernie Jefferson of Northwestern, whose supporters include thousands of south siders; and Tony Ippolito of Purdue, a former star ball carrier at St. Ignatius High school.

Downstate Illinois Busy.

Football fans of downstate Illinois did not waste any time in starting drives for their favorites. The players on their ballots included George Lenc, Augustana end; Charles Gross, Bradley guard; Ted Panish, Bradley half back, and Gail McWard, Illinois college guard. Voting booths were set up in Chicago Heights for Phil Pezzoli, University of Illinois quarter back, and in Harvey, Ill., in behalf of Ed Beinor, Notre Dame tackle.

Harold S. Clark, president of the Northwestern University Alumni association, and Kenneth L. ["Tug"] Wilson, athletic director of the university, have urged students and alumni throughout the nation to participate in the campaign to put five Wildcats on the team.

Northwestern Backs Them.

Cleo Diehl and Tom Eby, ends; Bob Voigts, tackle; Dick Wells, guard, and Jefferson, half back, are the candidates backed by Northwestern supporters.

"Interest in the All-Star game has been increasing yearly. It is an honor to any university to have the athletes whose playing ability and sportsmanship causes them to be selected for the All-Star squad," Clark said.

"The All-Star football game is one of the greatest features in sports today. Those players who participate in it bring honor to themselves and to their university. It is the game of games and I hope our vacationing students all take part in the voting," Wilson declared.

They Remember Davey O'Brien.

Players on almost every individual ballot forwarded to THE TRIBUNE include Davey O'Brien, Texas Christian forward passing star; Marshall Goldberg, Pittsburgh, and Bob MacLeod, Dartmouth, the two leading half backs in the east last season; Ki Aldrich, Texas Christian center; Earl Brown, Notre Dame end, and Howie Weiss, Wisconsin full back.

Tabulators reported the opening day's mail the heaviest since the All-Star contest was conceived five years ago. Voting will continue until midnight, July 22, after which the coaches' poll will open. All that is necessary to cast a ballot is to send in the names of the eleven college football players, one for each position, who completed their collegiate eligibility last fall, to the All-Star Game Editor, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Each ballot must bear the signature and address of the sender.

JACOBUS DEFIES HIS COMMITTEE; SHUTE TO PLAY

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Flushing, N.Y., July 10.—Ben Hogan, Ky Laffoon, Ernie Harrison, and Emerick Kocsis today tied for the medal in the qualifying round of the twenty-second national Professional Golf association tournament with thirty-six hole scores of 138, 6 under par for the Pomonok Country club.

These handsome efforts were dwarfed in comparison with the fight over a fellow who said nothing about it all, even though he is the central figure in the most unprecedented case in the history of the tournament. He is lean, taciturn Denny Shute, twice winner of the pros' main event; once winner of the British open, and a competitor in last month's playoff for the national open championship.

Hold a Stormy Session.

Shute, who caused a near strike among the tournament players yesterday, when they indicated they would not play if he were barred because of tardy payment of his association dues, will play tomorrow.

That was decided late tonight, after an hour and a half discussion, George Jacobus, president of the P. G. A., ignoring a vote of the executive committee to bar Shute from the remainder of the tournament. After Jacobus had told the press of his decision, Tom Walsh of Chicago, secretary of the P. G. A., announced:

"The executive committee voted that the constitution and by-laws of the association be upheld and therefore Denny Shute is not permitted to play."

Jacobus Comes Right Back.

Jacobus then issued this counter statement:

"I'm overriding the vote of the executive committee so that this tournament can go on and the P. G. A. won't look bad. I'm letting Shute play so the tournament won't be a flop."

Further impetus to the wrangling was furnished by the veteran Gene Sarazen when he charged that three members of the executive committee had offered Shute $300 to withdraw. He named Walsh, Jack Mackie, and Tom Boyd and threatened to demand their resignation.

The golf tournament itself, in the face of all this forensic punching, was almost out of sight this evening. The 138's shot by Hogan, the 27 year old Texan, who has been billed as a comer; the two Chicagoans, Harrison and Laffoon, and Kocsis of the famed Detroit golfing family, were only two strokes above the tournament qualifying record. It was the first tie for the tournament medal since 1933, when Jimmy Hines and Mortie Dutra ran a dead heat in Milwaukee.

Mangrum Shoots a 66.

One shot back of the leading foursome was Ray Mangrum of Oakmont Pa., popularly known as the human No. 1 Iron. The slender Raymond today fired a 66, the best of the tournamet. Next to this performace was the pair of 67's shot by Laffoon and Kocsis. Harrison smacked out a 68 to gai his tie for the lead.

One of the best nines in P. G. A. history was submitted by a fortyish man who has won the P. G. A. a mere five times. He is Walter Hagen, who used only 11 puts in his out nine of 31, one putting the first six in succession. He relaxed coming home for a 39, and the 144 which easily admitted him.

The qualifying limit proved to be 148, a figure at which eleven players tied. They went out into a playoff for the last five places in the match play bracket, which will be occupied in tomorrow's first eighteen hole battle by Defending Champion Paul Runyan and the 63 low scorers in the medal play.

Outside of that figure were such stars as Sammy Snead, runner-up to Runyan last year, who had a 149, and Jimmy Hines, a 1938 semi-finalist, who took a 151. Ed Dudley, another favorite, shot a 148, and was eliminated

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, July 10.—Gabby Hartnett is happier tonight than at any time since the 1939 major league season opened. . . . He has twenty-five able bodied men under his command for tomorrow's game with the American league All-Stars. . . . Gabby didn't believe there were that many physically sound players in baseball. . . . According to Edward Barrow, president of the Yankees, a crowd of 65,000 will see the greatest one day show the sport can offer. . . . Only a thousand unsold reserved seats remained when the ticket offices at the stadium were closed this evening. . . . Approximately 40,000 unreserved seats will go on sale at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning . . . the Yankees never sell out the stadium in advance of a game, not even for the world series. . . . They operate on the theory that the late comer deserves a break. . . . The policy also curbs the speculators. . . . Dr. Andrew Lotshaw, trainer for the National league club and the hardest working individual in baseball, volunteered to take care of the Cincinnati players' trunks between Cincinnati and New York just as a favor to the league leaders . . . with all his duties Andy found time to win $8.20 in a rummy game en route to New York, but if Mrs. Lotshaw reads this, we are kidding.

Charley Ruffing.

Paul Derringer.

Bob Grove at 39 is the oldest player in the All-Star game. . . . Any question about the starting third baseman for the National league was eliminated when Cookie Lavagetto of Brooklyn, suffering from a groin injury, departed for Johns Hopkins hospital for treatment this morning. . . . Stanley Hack of the Cubs, the peepul's choice, has drawn the assignment. . . . Tomorrow's midseason test of the playing strength of the two major leagues may turn out to be sort of a world series preview . . . six Yankees and five Reds are listed in the starting lineups. . . . C. A. [Boots] Weber and Charles Drake are representing the Cubs' front office. . . . The White Sox as usual have no business delegates. . . . It probably is just as well, because the shock of seeing a White Sox representative at league or interleague affairs would be too much for other executives to bear, what with the heat and everything.

Frank and Mrs. McCormick of Cincinnati fetched along their little white pooch . . . it will be the animal's first All-Star game and McCormick's second . . . the dog hadn't been born when McCormick, as a major league freshman, played on the team that whipped the Americans in Cincinnati last summer. . . . The Reds' first baseman, by the way, is leading the National league in runs batted in with sixty-eight . . . no Cub has driven in half that many. . . . Red Ruffing, Tommy Bridges, and Bob Feller, who are scheduled to do the pitching for the Americans, have won thirty-six and lost only eight among them. . . . Feller leads with fourteen victories. . . . Joe McCarthy, who usually is reluctant to handle the American league All-Stars, welcomes the job this year. . . . "By the time we get going again in Detroit Thursday our five straight defeats will be forgotten," he smiled. . . . The recent nose dive of the Yankees is the worst midseason slump the team has suffered since memory of man runneth not to the contrary.

Capt. Billy Herman of the Cubs, who has given way to Lonnie Frey of the Reds as the starting second baseman for the Nationals, was accompanied east by Mrs. Herman. . . . Stan Hack never has been to Atlantic City, but he expects to see the great shore resort before he plays in the night game in Philadelphia Thursday.

President William Harridge of the American league brought a party from Chicago that includes Mrs. Harridge and their son, Bill, a sophomore at Northwestern; Fred Ringley, L. C. McAvoy, Henry P. Edwards, Edward Lehman, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fisher. . . . Bill Lee of the Cubs, who probably will work the second three inning stretch for the National league tomorrow, rates Johnny Mize of the Cardinals the best hitter in the circuit. . . . Hank Greenberg, the Tigers' slugger, and Joe Gordon, Yankee second baseman, will be getting their baptism in All-Star competition tomorrow. . . . Greenberg was invited last year, but Lou Gehrig and Jimmy Foxx also were on the squad, so Hank announced that a bruised finger would keep him out of the spectacle. . . . Hartnett and Casey Stengel met at high noon in the lobby of the Commodore . . . they embraced each other with sympathetic affection. . . . Gabby's Cubs lost to the Reds Sunday, 13 to 1, while Casey's Bees dropped a double-header to the last place Phillies. . . . It is plenty hot here, but the weather man will have to go some to tie the temperatures under which the original All-Star game was played in Chicago six years ago and repeated in Washington two years ago. . . . The American league centers really know how to turn on the heat. . . . St. Louis' bid for the 1940 All-Star game was approved tonight, but must await official acceptance until the winter baseball meetings.

Carl Hubbell.

Lefty Grove.

Ruffing will be the first right hander to open for the Americans since the series was inaugurated. . . . Lefty Gomez was the starter five times and Bob Grove the other. . . . Paul Derringer will start for the National league. . . . The American league has been defeated only twice in the six year All-Star rivalry, and both times the setbacks occurred on National league diamonds. . . . Tomorrow's battle of the Stars undoubtedly will develop its heroes, but we doubt if the series ever produces another performance to match Carl Hubbell's feat of fanning five of the greatest American league sluggers in a row in the 1934 game at the Polo grounds. . . . Hubbell's individual brilliance dimmed the team victory of the American leaguers that afternoon.

Ten Years Ago Today—The second place Cubs split a double-header with the Giants and lost ground as the Pirates won again. . . . Hack Wilson hit two home runs. . . . Young Stribling won a ten round decision over Jack Demave of Jersey City in Knoxville.

Harridge, Frick, Landis Honored by Ball Writers

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—President William Harridge of the American league, President Ford Frick of the National league, Commissioner K. M. Landis and John Heydler, former president of the National league, today were given 14 carat gold honorary life membership cards in the Baseball Writers association of America.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 10.—One of the largest crowds that ever saw an All-Star baseball game between the élite of the National league and the cream of the American league—a turnout estimated at 65,000—will be in Yankee stadium tomorrow afternoon when Gabby Hartnett sends his National league stars against the stellar American league heroes, who will be directed by Gabby's one time boss, Joe McCarthy.

It will be the seventh playing of the big mid-season baseball feature since the game was conceived and originally sponsored by THE TRIBUNE. The first game was played in Comiskey park in 1933. Subsequent games have been played in the Polo Grounds here, in Cleveland, Boston, Washington, and Cincinnati. The capacity of the respective ball parks was taxed in all the games except the one in Boston.

Hartnett Follows McCarthy.

Hartnett reached New York from Cincinnati at noon today. En route here he refused to hint the identity of his starting performers until he had the opportunity to study the American battle front and confer with his vanquished rival in the Drizzle Puss Derby, Bill Terry of the New York Giants, who led the Nationals to a 4 to 1 victory in last year's All-Star game. As soon as they had seen McCarthy's choices, announced early this morning, Hartnett released his list of starters.

Thousands of those who will attend the game will make the spectacle a part of a visit to the New York world's fair. Added to these will be thousands of fans from the New York area whose interest in baseball, paradoxically enough, has been greatly stimulated in the last few days. Fears that the heat wave, which has been raging here for some days, would hold the turnout under 50,000 were dissipated today with the forecast that colder weather is certain to prevail tomorrow.

Foxx Misses Again.

The so-called experts who have flocked here in great numbers engaged in but little second guessing on the starting teams and the pitchers nominated for certain appearances. There was some wonderment at the naming of Hank Greenberg over Jimmy Foxx, who used to play out of position to make room for Lou Gehrig in All-Star games. Foxx is hitting .358 as compared with Greenberg's .286 and is a great deal more popular figure than Greenberg, who high hatted the game last year. It was believed that Greenberg was chosen over Foxx to give Detroit representation in view of the fact that Charley Gehringer will be out of the lineup for the first time in the series because of injuries. Foxx is almost certain to be in the game, however.

McCarthy named six of his Yankees, whereas Hartnett found room for only two of his Cubs. Lefty Gomez, who has started five of the All-Star games, was not among the six Yankees. Charley Ruffing will start for the American league and Paul Derringer for the Nationals.

Lee to Pitch Second.

Hartnett named Stan Hack as his lead-off man and Bill Lee as his second pitcher. Capt. Bill Herman, a fixture in past All-Star games, was not given the call. Lonnie Frey, former Cub sold to the Reds for the waiver price a year and a half ago, was named to play second base. Lonnie will have four Cincy teammates with him in the starting lineup tomorrow, the other Reds being Ival Goodman, Frank McCormick, Ernie Lombardi, and Derringer.

All the pitchers named for action, Derringer, Lee, and Wyatt for the Nationals and Ruffing, Bridges, and Feller for the American leaguers, are

But Gold Ones Are Reward of Victorious.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Gold medals, emblematic of victory in Chicagoland 100 yard free style swimming races, have been awarded to eighty-four boys and girls since inception of these events in 1930. On July 30, at Navy pier, the ten boys and girls who win the finals of the tenth annual meet sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., will be awarded gold medals and join the long list of aquatic stars so honored.

From the first 100 yard races in 1930 the annual meet has attracted contestants from all midwestern states. Annually boys and girls from Indiana, Wisconsin, Iowa and Michigan, as well as Illinois, have been entered. In 1932 Baker Bryant of Columbus, O., who later competed in the Big Ten, won the class C championship for boys 15 and 16 years of age. In more recent meets champions have come from Peoria, Bloomington, Milwaukee, Indianapolis and Kenosha. Last year five of the ten champions lived outside of Chicago and immediate suburbs.

Incentive for All.

The five age classes in The Tribune races start at 11 years of age. Actually, many youngsters under 11 enter class A. All preliminary trials are adequately guarded so that no child need fear suspected inability to complete the 100 yard swim. If you wish to swim, no matter your age, these races afford an unparalleled opportunity. You will qualify for a souvenir medal by reporting, will receive a badge if you win a preliminary race, and if you qualify for the championships at Navy pier you will be awarded a gold medal.

No meet offers as large an array of prizes. In addition to those awarded at the four sectional events, which will be held July 22 and 23, there are thirty championship awards and two team trophies. Gold, silver and bronze medals are the first, second and third place awards, respectively, in each of the ten races. The winning boys' and girls' team will receive the silver trophies.

Hurry Your Entries!

Trials in Cermak pool, 7600 Ogden avenue, Lyons, Ill., and Sherman park pool, 52d street and Racine avenue, will be held July 22 starting at 1 o'clock. On July 23, at the same hour, qualifying races will be held in Whealan pool, Milwaukee and Devon avenues, and California park pool, 3901 North California avenue.

Entries will not be accepted after midnight July 17.

CONFIDENT IRISH BOXERS GREETED BY NEW YORKERS

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—Ireland's amateur boxing champions have arrived. The Irish squad, ten strong, which will meet ten of the outstanding boxers of the Chicago C. Y. O. the night of July 19 in Soldiers' field, arrived today on the Cunard liner Samaria, which left from Cobh on July 2.

Accompanying the lads on the trip are James B. O'Connor, delegate; James Moore, manager, and Dick Hearns, trainer. Hearns will be remembered for his two appearances in Chicago in 1933 when the Golden Glove champions fought the Irish champions, and last year when Ireland's best leather tossers met the Chicago C. Y. O. boxers at the lake front stadium.

Chicagoans Meet Invaders.

At the dock to meet the sons of Erin were Tom O'Connell, boxing director of the Chicago C. Y. O.; Mike Murphy of the public relations department of the C. Y. O., a number of outstanding Irish leaders of New York, and a delegation from the New York C. Y. O.

Trainer Dick Hearns reported a pleasant trip on the ship and that the boxers are in good physical condition after the long voyage. The boys worked out every day aboard ship. He put them through two rounds of boxing each day in addition to rope skipping and shadow boxing.

Hearns is enthused over the team's chances. In fact, he believes the Irish will have the distinction of being the first squad to defeat a Chicago C. Y. O. boxing team.

They'll Arrive Tomorrow.

The Irish boxers are being kept busy during their stay in New York. They will visit the world's fair and at the Irish building will be guests of Alexander J. Connolly, Irish commissioner of the New York World Fair. They went on a sightseeing trip over New York today and later went to a movie. Tomorrow afternoon a luncheon will be given in their honor at which leading figures in the boxing game will be present.

The invaders will leave tomorrow night and will arrive in Chicago on at 1:15 o'clock Wednesday afternoon [Chicago daylight time] at the Union station. All of the Irish boxers will wear blue sport coats, white flannel trousers, and white shoes.

Derringer and Ruffing Start All-Star Game

All-Star Rosters

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

right-handers. It is the first time that an all-right-handed staff has been named. If Ruffing starts it will be the first time in seven All-Star games that a right-hander has started for the Americans. Lefty Grove was the starter in the one game the honor was not accorded Lefty Gomez.

Hartnett Drafts Miller.

The three National league pitching designates have won 28 and lost 12 games. The three American league pitching designates have won 36 and lost 8. The eight pitchers on the National league squad have won 72 and lost 41, and the eight pitchers on the American league squad have won 68 and lost 23.

Only one casualty changed the personnel of the two squads today. Cookie Lavagetto was taken to a Baltimore hospital for treatment of a leg injury, and Manager Hartnett promptly named freshman Eddie Miller of the Boston Bees to take his place. Bostonese had raised quite a howl over Miller's omission from the earlier list.

The game will get under way at 1 o'clock Chicago daylight time. If weather should make playing of the game inadvisable tomorrow, it will be started at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning.

852 SHOTS; NO ACES.

Springfield, Ill., July 10.—[Special.]—In a hole-in-one golf tournament, 852 entries took single shots at a 150 yard hole and the best of the lot wound up 3 feet 4 inches away from the cup.

JEANNE CLINE'S 86 WINS MEDAL IN JUNIOR WESTERN

Jeanne Cline, 15 year old golfer from Bloomington, Ill., shot a 45—41—86 to win medalist honors in the 18 hole qualifying round of the women's western junior championship at Exmoor yesterday. Tied for second place, two strokes back, were Phyllis Otto of Atlantic, Ia., with 44—44—88 and Frances Ann McCanna of Rockford with 42—46—88. Georgia Tainter of Fargo, N. D., and Dorothy Jane Campbell of St. Louis with 90 were tied for fourth.

Putting Bothers Miss Cline.

Others who qualified for the championship bracket were Mary Wilder of Glencoe, 46—45—91; Ruth More of Evanston, 49—43—92, and Mary Jane Gorman of East Chicago, 50—45—95.

Miss Cline, who reached the semi-finals in this year's women's western, scored birdie 4s on the fourth and tenth holes, but a trio of three-putt greens and difficulty with approach shots caused trouble elsewhere. After shooting a 45, seven over par on the first nine, she rallied strongly on the home nine. She shot even par on the first five holes, but a 6 at the 15th and a 5 at the 18th gave her a 41, two over par for an 86.

BEJMA THRILLS HOME TOWN WITH HOMER; SOX WIN

South Bend, Ind., July 10.—[Special.]—Ollie Bejma came back home today and before 5,000 fans demonstrated that he is of major league stature, as the Chicago White Sox defeated the Studebaker Athletics, 9 to 4, in an exhibition game in Lippincott park.

Bejma, playing before the home folks for the first time since he became a major leaguer, cracked out three hits, one a home run, to lead the Chicago 11-hit attack on Addie Hanyzewski. Bejma's homer cleared the left field wall, 385 feet from home plate, scoring Norman Schleuter and Bill Dietrich ahead of him.

Dietrich, who pitched the first four innings, and Jess Dobernic, who also worked four innings, blanked the Studebakers.

In the ninth Manager Jimmy Dykes, who had been playing in right field since the fifth inning defying the South Bend batters to hit one in his direction, came in to pitch.

Joe Kuhel purposely missed a grounder by Wrobleski. Thereafter each time Dykes prepared to pitch the entire infield convened at second base for a conference, and Wrobleski went from first to third unmolested to score. After Dykes had struck out two men and walked two, the outfielders also came in to join the second base conference, completely ignoring their struggling manager. Doetsch lifted a fly to the outfield and it went for a home run, despite the fact that every White Sox except Dykes chased it to the far corner of the field.

CUBS BID WITH 3 TEAMS FOR 3 MILLER PLAYERS

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—Mike Kelley, president of the Minneapolis club of the American association, today conferred with representatives of four major league clubs regarding the sale of three of his players, Pitchers Bill Butland and Herb Hash and Shortstop Jim Pofahl.

The Chicago Cubs, Brooklyn Dodgers, Pittsburgh Pirates, and the Boston Red Sox are the clubs seeking the players. Manager Gabby Hartnett spoke with Kelley in Chicago on his way to New York and resumed the meeting here today.

Hash and Butland are right handers. Butland, 21 years old, has won eleven and lost two in the association this year. Hash, who is 24 years old, has won ten and lost three. Pofahl is rated as one of the best shortstops in the association in several years. He is 21 years old.

Grauman's 144 Leads Trials in Junior Golf

Stanley Grauman, 21 years old, an art student, shot a 75—69—144 to lead the qualifiers in the Chicago District Golf association's junior closed tournament at Northmoor yesterday. Grauman, a Lake View High school graduate and club champion at Northmoor, was two strokes under par on the last eighteen, shooting the final nine in 31.

In second place, six strokes back, was Earl Wilde, captain of the Oak Park High school golf team and a son of Burt Wilde of Westward Ho. Wilde had a 73—77—150, giving away slightly in the second round after leading earlier.

Joe Krejci of Edgewood Valley and Elwood Berkley Jr., Medinah, tied for third with 74—78—152 and 76—76—152, respectively.

The record field of sixty-three was cut down to thirty-two for today's first round of match play. First round pairings with qualifying scores follow:

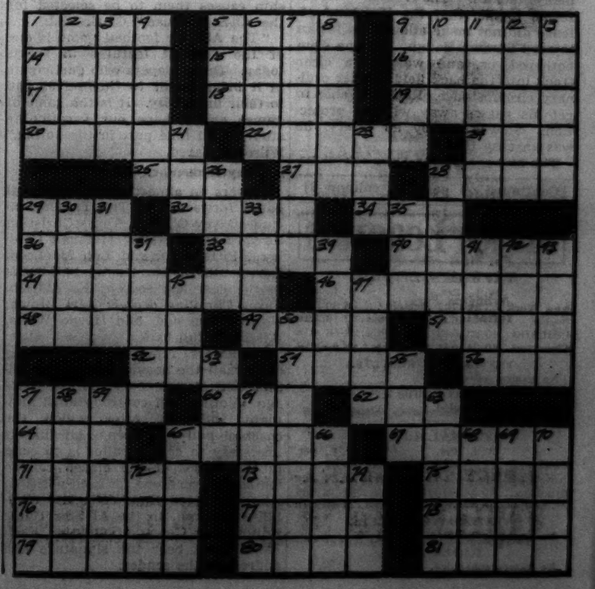
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



NESTELL KNOCKS OUT KENNEALLY IN SEVENTH ROUND

Chicago Boxer Is Leading When Right Lands.

Bob Nestell, Los Angeles heavyweight, scored a spectacular upset when he knocked out Tom Kenneally, clever Catholic Youth Organization boxer, in the seventh round of a scheduled ten round match in Marigold Gardens last night. It was Nestell's first victory in five months and puts him back among the first ten in his division.

Kenneally Ahead on Points.

Kenneally had a margin on points going into the last round and was boxing brilliantly. Shortly after the seventh opened, however, Nestell let go a right and it landed on Kenneally's chin. Tom dropped to the canvas, rolled over on his side and struggled up at the count of six.

Another right to the head sent Kenneally down for the second time, but before Referee Norman McGarrity could start a count Pat Kenneally, father and second of the boxer, entered the ring. Chairman Joe Triner of the Illinois commission ruled the second's action in entering the ring was a rules violation and gave Nestell credit for a knockout. The time was 1 minute 27 seconds.

Motisi, Seward Win.

Billy Seward, Ingamore, Mont., featherweight, knocked out Joey Ojida in the first round of a preliminary contest scheduled for four rounds. It was Seward's eighth knockout in eleven starts. Wilbur Dunn, Milwaukee middleweight, and Johnny Williams, Danville, welterweight, emerged victorious in two other contests of four, Dunn conquering Danny Buckley of Peoria and Williams beating Joey Spiegel of Milwaukee.

Amateur boxing shows will be held tonight in Northwest stadium, 4848 Irving Park boulevard, and Savoy arena, 47th street and South Parkway. Francis Smith, featherweight of Aurora, and Eddie Carson of Waukegan will meet in a five round bout. In a five round co-feature James Smyles, Northwest gymnasium middleweight, clashes with Joe Chuckro, Julius Glenn and James Radford will be opponents in a heavyweight headliner in the Savoy.

Mike Jacobs, New York promoter, yesterday informed Chairman Joe Triner of the Illinois Athletic commission that the impending heavyweight championship bout between Joe Louis and Challenger Bob Pastor is set for Detroit. The likely date is Sept. 21. Last Saturday the Chicago Association of Commerce told Jacobs Chicago is available as the site. Jacobs said he'd come to town within a week to discuss the possibilities of offering a major contest in Chicago in conjunction with the American Legion convention in September. F. M.

BARRED CHICAGO PRO PROTESTS ACTION BY P. G. A.

Bob MacDonald, Chicago professional, yesterday protested to the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers association against the ruling that failure to pay his dues on time had barred him from the P. G. A. tournament.

MacDonald, who operates a golf school, based his protest on the special ruling which permitted Denny Shute, twice P. G. A. and former British open title holder, to compete after Shute had failed to pay his dues on time.

WESTERN GOLF AMATEUR OPENS WITH 200 IN FIELD

Oklahoma City, Okla., July 10.—[Special.]—Top flight amateurs from virtually every section of the country will start play tomorrow in the fortieth tournament of the Western Golf association. The field will number 200, according to Ray Fruit, Chicago, the association's executive secretary. The first threesome will tee off at 7 a. m. over a qualifying route of 18 holes. Another 18 holes of trials will be run off on Wednesday. The sixty-three low scorers, along with Bob Babbish, Detroit, the defending champion, start match play Thursday.

Practically all have found the Oklahoma City Golf and Country club's 6,315 yard par 70 course no soft touch.

Springer Gets 73 for Medal in Public Golf

The sixteen low scorers, plus the seventeen qualifiers last Friday at Westgate Valley, will meet tomorrow in Jackson park for the three places allotted Chicago in the national public links tournament in Baltimore July 24-29. The sixteen low qualifiers yesterday follow:

M'PHAIL BLAST IS DISMISSED BY NATIONAL LEAGUE

New York, July 10.—(AP)—The National league's board of directors took no action today in the President Larry MacPhail of Brooklyn vs. the Giants case other than the issuing of a statement approving President Ford Frick's ignoring of MacPhail's charges.

MacPhail's complaint arose from a fight last week between Manager Leo Durocher of the Dodgers and Zeke Bonura, Giant first baseman. Both were fined, and the Brooklyn president scored Frick for fining Durocher and accused Bill Terry, the Giant manager, of trying to intimidate umpires and to "run the league." He said he was calling it to the attention of the board of directors.

ness of the crowd after the first couple of plays. I had played before large crowds at Notre Dame, and they never bothered me. Even so, one of the unusual impressions I carried off the field was the idea that we were just a bunch of fellows playing football in somebody's back yard. When the field lights go on, a curtain of black seems to drop all around, and there is no impression of any crowd behind it.

All of the Washington players were fine gentlemen. I played directly against Capt. Turk Edwards, Redskins' tackle, and had more contact with him than with the others. He was a real sportsman, but I suspect that he was somewhat below his mid-season form in this game.

Calls Game Splendid Idea.

The game itself is a splendid idea. It brings together fellows from all parts of the country in sort of a football commencement exercise. Most of us hadn't met before. Many of us, however, had been bitter rivals while in school. The fellows were friendly, modest, and happy-go-lucky. But they were all in dead earnest about preparing to win the game.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE ran everything with marvelous efficiency, and the treatment of players was tops from start to finish. Probably the greatest prize of all was the chance to play a game under Indiana's fine coach, gentleman, and wit, Bo McMillin.

Out of this game came an opportunity for me to play professional football, but I already had started to work for the Sinclair Refining company. I've been transferred to South Bend, and I'm sure I'll never get far away from top flight football in that town, the home of Notre Dame.

BLACK BASS ARE BITING MERRILY IN DOOR COUNTY

Late Afternoon Best Time for Big Hauls.

BY BOB BECKER.

Black bass fishermen who have been tossing their lures at the small mouths in Lake Michigan out from Door county, Wisconsin, wore smiles that extended from ear to ear last week.

After trying this bass fishing in the waters of Green Bay about a mile and a half from Fish Creek in the Door county peninsula we know why the boys were registering pleasure, for the bronze backs hit artificial lures as if they never had seen one before.

We visited Door county a few days ago in order to try the big water fishing in Green Bay just a few days after the opening day [July 1].

Although we have fished around Hat Island, Hanover reef, Bellbuoy reef, and the Strawberry islands later in the summer, this was the first time tha' we ever offered a variety of artificial lures to the small mouths early in July when they're still in fairly shallow water. We have heard how eagerly these fish strike, but the way they swatted lures the other afternoon between 4 and 5 o'clock exceeded all expectations.

We fished just one side of the Hanover reef with Clyde Helgeson and Lee Thorp, both residents of Door county. By casting into about four or five feet of water over the shoals and bringing the lure into deeper water we had the small mouths so excited that occasionally one would get up so much steam he'd miss the lure and go hurtling through the air.

It was the most exciting small mouth fishing that we've seen in many a day. It would have been possible to take several times the limit of ten bass [outlying waters only] if we had wanted stay at Hanover a little longer.

POPULAR CHICAGO GLEE CLUB AND NOTED SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA VOTED MEISTER BRÄU BEST —67 to 12

When the members of two noted musical groups in Chicago met for an evening to enjoy their love for music and renew acquaintances, they were asked to taste Meister Bräu Beer, compare it with other brands. They voted their preferences by secret ballot, and 5 out of every 6 said, "I prefer Meister Bräu to any other bottled beer."

In everyday life, these men are active in the professions and in a wide variety of businesses in Chicago. They devote a part of their leisure time to the enjoyment and study of music, with the result that both groups stand very high among Chicago's musical organizations. Both are much in demand for request performances throughout Chicagoland.

Richard Seibold invites you to try Meister Bräu Draft Beer—Made with the same care—Ask at your favorite Bar.

Independent Investigator Finds the Reasons for Public Swing to This Beer

When leading beer retailers were asked by Chicago Newspapers what brand of bottled beer is first in sales, they reported Meister Bräu. Figures ranged from 2 to 1 leadership to as high as 10 to 1. The Reuben H. Donnelley Corporation was asked to check and analyze this amazing popularity by holding taste-and-compare tests where groups of men and women gather.

The investigator finds that the true old-time flavor of Meister Bräu explains its tremendous popularity, and that Chicagoans appreciate the all-grain flavor which Richard Seibold, Meister Bräu Brewmaster, preserves by refusing to add sugars or syrups to the brew, or to change his method of bottling with natural draft-beer carbonation, only.

LIGHTSPUR WINS MORTON GROVE PURSE EASILY

Keene Filly Triumphs in First Start.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Jeanne D'Arc, a fleet filly owned by J. O. Keene of Lexington, and Lightspur, a three year old colt carrying the colors of John Marsch of Chicago, won tuneups for the Lassie and Classic stakes yesterday at Arlington Park. Johnny Longden rode both and later brought home two more winners.

The Milky Way farm's Tiger then went out to win the Morton Grove purse, main event of the day, numbering among his victims Bert Friend's Co-Sport, a candidate for another one of the meeting's major stakes, the Arlington handicap.

Two Keene Hopefuls.

Jeanne D'Arc's excellent performance in the first start of her career gives Keene two strong candidates for next Saturday's stake for juvenile fillies. Last week Keene's trainer, J. W. Murphy, introduced War Beauty to the Arlington crowd. Running brilliantly, she had no difficulty beating her field.

Looking up her recent workouts and breeding, the fans yesterday had a hunch that Jeanne D'Arc would repeat War Beauty's performance. This filly, which is by Man o' War out of a Luke McLuke mare, Jeanne Bowdre, had recently moved a half mile in 45 1-5 seconds during the morning drills. So the crowd made her the 8 to 5 favorite in the field of eleven starters, many of which were experienced racers.

She Starts Fast.

Right from the start Jeanne D'Arc ran as though she meant business. Breaking from the No. 2 post position, she went out along the rail while Town Silver came over from the outside to run beside her. Jeanne D'Arc drew out nicely in the stretch and led by three lengths at the eighth pole. Though she tired near the end, she finished more than a length ahead of the fast closing Blue Harmony. Colosseum was third.

In addition to Lightspur, two other Classic candidates went to the post in the Englewood purse. These were Warren Wright's Easy Mon and the Walmac farm's Olney. After being established as the favorite at a little more than 3 to 2, Easy Mon finished second, four lengths behind Lightspur. Olney, which was second choice at a shade less than 2 to 1, eliminated himself by stumbling and throwing his rider, Ira Hanford, soon after the start. Third place went to the Milky Way farm's Up the Creek.

Lightspur Pays $16.80.

Lightspur, which hadn't won since the Churchill Downs meeting, paid the handsome price of $16.80, $6.00, and $4.20. His time for the six furlongs was 1:11.

A. G. Tarn's Whichaway set a new track record of 1:59 3-5 for the mile and three-sixteenths turf course in winning the seventh race. Longden, riding his third winner of the day, brought Whichaway up in the stretch to beat Mrs. John Marsch's Miss Baker by a head. O. B. Farrell's Russia was third. Whichaway paid $6.80, $4.20, and $3.00.

EDISON COMPANY DENIES SCHOOLS' RATES ARE HIGH

Files Answer to Suit on Old Contract.

The Commonwealth Edison company filed an answer with the Illinois Commerce commission yesterday to the petition of the Chicago board of education seeking a reduction in school electric rates. The answer claims the rates are not excessive and asserts that service is being supplied the schools at a comparatively lower rate than the average paid by commercial customers.

The school board petition, filed June 22, stated that 385 of the board's 410 schools were still paying the company the rate of 3.5 cents a kilowatt hour, established by contract in 1909. An argument for a reduction was that the cost to the company of generating and distributing current had decreased greatly since the contract was made.

BILLS OFFERED FOR 3.4 BILLION TO SPEND, LEND

Program Attacked in Congress.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 10.—Companion bills to carry out President Roosevelt's 3 billion 460 million dollar spending-lending program were introduced today by Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.] in the senate and Representative Henry B. Steagall [D., Ala.] in the house.

The President's program originally called for an aggregate outlay of 3 billion 860 million dollars, but his recommendation for $500,000,000 in loans to foreign governments was dropped from the bills because of overwhelming congressional opposition to that proposal. Instead, the bills would increase the lending authorization of the Export-Import bank from $100,000,000 to $200,000,000, with a provision limiting the use of the additional $100,000,000 to the facilitation of American exports.

Program Draws New Attacks.

Widespread opposition in congress to the whole spending-lending program has been apparent since the President proposed it June 22, and there were new attacks when the bills were introduced today. Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.], chairman of the interstate commerce committee, which handles all railroad legislation, said he would oppose the provision authorizing the Reconstruction Finance corporation to acquire $500,000,000 worth of rolling stock and shop equipment for lease to the railroads.

Senator Tom Connally [D., Tex.] came out against the provision for $750,000,000 in loans for express roads and highway improvements. He said there wasn't a place in the country, except possibly between Washington and New York, where a self liquidating toll road could be constructed.

McKellar Opposes Toll Plan.

Senator Kenneth McKellar [D., Tenn.], chairman of the post roads committee, and Senator Carl Hayden [D., Ariz.], foremost advocate of federal highways, also oppose the toll roads proposal.

Whether any part of the President's program will be enacted into law at the present session depends upon the time before congress adjourns, which in turn depends upon the fate of the President's proposal to revise the neutrality act. If that measure is disposed of by postponement or otherwise in the senate, congress will adjourn within a fortnight, leaders believe.

Some members of the house banking and currency committee which has charge of the legislation said there was some doubt that the bill ever would be reported to the house. Anyway, they said, the committee will require several weeks to consider it.

Would be Financed by RFC.

Under the bills introduced today, the spending-lending program would not call for any additional federal agencies. The various programs would be financed by the RFC, the lending authority of which would be increased by 2 billion 800 million dollars.

This authorization would cover the 2 billion 660 million dollars to be made available by new legislation, plus $100,000,000 of funds already appropriated for farm tenancy loans and $40,000,000 already appropriated for rural electrification advances.

In addition to the proposed authorizations of 2 billion 660 million dollars, the President's program calls for an increase in the lending limit of the United States Housing authority from $800,000,000 to 1 billion 600 million dollars. A bill carrying out this part of the program has passed the senate and is pending in the house.

Permits 40 Year Maturities.

The RFC would be authorized to issue obligations having maturities up to 40 years for sale to the public "so that the securities issued to finance the program may bear a proper relation to the life and amortization period of the improvements being financed," according to a statement by Barkley and Steagall. At present the RFC cannot issue obligations having maturities of more than five years.

The maximum interest rate which the RFC could charge for loans under the various programs would be limited to the highest yield on the longest term direct or indirect obligation of the United States then outstanding. At present, this would be approximately 2.3 per cent.

The whole program would be financed outside the federal budget; the obligations of the RFC, although wholly guaranteed by the government, would not be included in the treasury deficits nor reflected in the national debt.

Although the RFC would do all the

Accord Nears in Congress on TVA Bonds

Washington, D. C., July 10.—(AP)—Completion of the $78,600,000 contract for acquisition of Tennessee Electric Power company properties by the Tennessee Valley authority and associated municipalities approached realization today. Opposing congressional factions neared agreement on enabling legislation.

A compromise proposal by Chairman May [D., Ky.] of the house conferees, long a foe of TVA, brought expressions of approval from TVA supporters. The possibility of a full agreement by Wednesday was conceded by both sides. Under the proposal, TVA would be allowed to issue $61,500,000 of new bonds, with restrictions definitly stating the purposes for which the money could be used.

How Money Would Be Used.

Up to $46,000,000 could be used to finance TVA's share of the $78,600,000 contract for the Tennessee Electric Power company properties. The rest would be paid by Chattanooga, Nashville, and other participating municipalities and coöperatives.

Another $2,000,000 would be used to lend municipalities and coöperatives funds with which to pay their part of the cost in advance of their own bond issues.

Another $3,500,000 would be used to rehabilitate properties acquired and a second $3,500,000 to connect the properties with the TVA's transmission lines.

A final $6,500,000 would be for TVA's share of the cost of acquiring Commonwealth and Southern corporation properties in twenty-seven northern Alabama and Mississippi counties.

Believes Compromise Likely.

Senator Norris [Ind., Neb.] spokesman for senate conferees, said he thought there was a possibility the conferees would accept the compromise. Earlier, Representative Sparkman [D., Ala.], a TVA supporter, described the proposal as "acceptable" to TVA.

In agreeing to recede from the provision limiting the TVA geographically, the house conferees said they asked the TVA to file with the house group a report of the uses it planned to make of its regular appropriations for the current fiscal year. This report showed no allotments for construction of transmission lines outside the area to be acquired.

"Since all the TVA's appropriations for the current year have been made and the bond authorizations would be ear-marked, the effect of the proposal would be to make the TVA dependent on congress in regard to any suggested expansion in the future, outside the Tennessee valley," a house conferee said.

RAIL TERMINAL ASKS COMPETING BIDS FOR BONDS

St. Louis, Mo., July 10.—(AP)—Directors of the Terminal Railroad Association of St. Louis voted today to ask competitive bids on a $7,000,000 refinancing bond issue.

The action followed a demand by Robert R. Young, president of Alleghany corporation, that the competitive method be followed, and an announcement by Morgan Stanley & Co., New York investment underwriting firm, that it and Kuhn, Loeb & Co. oppose competitive bidding.

Arrangements for the sale of the bonds will be handled by a special committee headed by P. J. Watson Jr., president of the Terminal association. The sale will be before Oct. 1, the date of maturity of the bonds which are to be replaced by the new issue. The maturing bonds bear 4½ per cent interest. The new issue will bear interest of not more than 3½ per cent and will mature July 1, 1974.

Gas Well at Carmi Rated Among Best in Illinois

Carmi, Ill., July 10.—(AP)—Angle-Eason's No. 1 Storms, a gas well producing from the McCloskey formation at about 3,100 feet, was metered today at 12,300,000 cubic feet daily, placing it with the largest gas producers of the state. Representatives of a commercial gas company were here dickering with W. M. Angle, co-owner, on a proposal to furnish gas to White county customers from the well.

UNITED STATES STEEL SHIPMENTS INCREASE; NATIONAL OUTPUT UP

Shipments of steel products by the United States Steel corporation in June totaled 744,433 tons, an increase of 10,268 tons over the 723,165 tons in May, and 255,376 tons over the 478,057 tons shipped in June, 1938. Shipments in June averaged 28,209 tons a day, the best daily rate since March and the third best for the year.

Although current steel business of the steel corporation is reported affected by the curtailment of General Motors orders, due to the strike, shipments of miscellaneous items are said to be holding up to the delivery rate of last June. The building industry also is taking much steel.

The American Iron and Steel institute reported that steel operations this week will rise 11.2 points to 49.7 per cent of theoretical capacity of the steel plants. The upturn will not bring the operating rate to the level of the week preceding July 4 when operations were at 54.3 per cent. A month ago the rate was 47 per cent and a year ago it was 32.3 per cent.

ASSOCIATED GAS SELLS SEVERAL OPERATING UNITS

New York, July 10.—(AP)—Associated Gas and Electric company today announced that in furtherance of its plan to integrate its operations it had sold several operating companies.

The Associated Gas interest in Southern Ice Company, Inc., the announcement said, was sold April 24 to interests in Atlanta, Ga. The company supplies ice in 113 communities in Texas, Arkansas, and Oklahoma. The properties of Tucumcari Light and Power company were sold Jan. 31 to the city of Tucumcari, N. M.

Loogootee Water company's properties were sold to the municipality of Loogootee, Ind., on Dec. 10, 1938. Rising Sun Water and Light company was sold to the city of Rising Sun, Ind., on June 30.

"Most of the Tennessee properties of the Kentucky-Tennessee Light and Power company have been sold in the last several months to the Tennessee Valley authority or to the communities they served," the announcement said.

USE OF CHECKS SHOWS DROP IN HOLIDAY WEEK

Checks written against individual deposit accounts in banks in the seventh federal reserve district [Chicago] totaled $1,118,931,000 in the week ended July 5, which contained a holiday decrease of 24.1 per cent from the $1,473,310,000 reported from the preceding week.

This was disclosed yesterday by the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago in its weekly report on bank debits [checks written] at 159 banks in forty-one clearing house cities.

As compared with the corresponding 1938 week, when the total was $1,062,332,000, there was an increase of 5.3 per cent. For the Chicago banks alone checks written totaled $651,289,000 compared with $650,506,000 in the corresponding 1938 week.

STOCK EXCHANGE HOLDS 'EXAM' ON WIDOW'S MITE

New York, July 10.—(AP)—The New York Stock exchange examined 2,800 securities salesmen and traders employed by member firms in a two hour written test today.

The test, designed to determine the qualifications of employés, contained one hypothetical question concerning a Mrs. Smith, widow with $100,000, who seeks advice on how to invest her money.

"What do you consider," asked the examiners, "the ten most important questions you should ask her in order to obtain sufficient background to advise her?"

Well, what would you say?

Foreign Currencies Gain Ground Against Dollar

Most of the leading European currencies moved higher in terms of the dollar yesterday in foreign exchange trading at New York. The British pound rose ⅛ cent to $4.68¼. The Belgian belga, Dutch guilder and Swiss franc were slightly higher also, but the French franc was unchanged. The New York Federal Reserve bank said $6,073,000 of gold was engaged in England for shipment to America.

Chicago May Lead Synthetic Rubber Field

Chicago may be offered an opportunity to establish a new industry—the manufacture of synthetic rubber—as a result of the development of a new low cost process, Dr. Gustav Egloff, director of research for the Universal Oil Products company, said yesterday.

Dr. Gustav Egloff.

Dr. Egloff recently announced that five years of laboratory work by Universal Oil Products had resulted in development of a process whereby synthetic rubber may be produced at low cost from butane gas. This gas is a by-product of the refining of gasoline from crude oil and it is present in almost unlimited quantities in natural gas.

Chicago Is Logical Center.

The Chicago region is one of the most important refining centers in the country and natural gas is brought to the Chicago area by pipe line from the great petroleum fields of the nation.

"Commercial production of synthetic rubber from butane will probably be undertaken by some of the chemical companies," Dr. Egloff said. "The petroleum companies have their hands full selling their own products and it is hardly likely they would venture into the rubber business.

"Chicago possesses a virtually unlimited supply of the raw material from which butane snythetic rubber is made. There are big refineries in the Chicago area and without considering the natural gas brought here from the Texas fields we have the newly developed Illinois fields."

Large Refining Capacity.

Included among the refining companies in the Chicago area and the daily capacity of their plants are the following: Standard Oil Company of Indiana, Whiting, 110,000 gallons; Sinclair, East Chicago, 40,000 gallons; Cities Service, East Chicago, 25,000; Wadhams, East Chicago, 12,000; Calumet Refining, Burnham, 1,200; Globe Oil and Refining, Lemont, 16,500, and Texas corporation, Lockport, 25,000.

Dr. Egloff said some chemical companies already have shown interest in the new process, although none is committed yet to manufacturing the synthetic rubber developed by Universal Oil Products.

New Rubber Process Described.

Under the Universal Oil Products method butane gas is passed over a catalyst at a temperature of about 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit. [A catalyst is an agent that causes or speeds up a chemical process without entering into the process itself.] Under the Universal Oil Products process the catalyst causes the butane gas to break up into two gases, one of which is butadiene. The butadiene is compressed into liquid form and passed over another catalyst, which ties the butadiene molecules together in such a way that the liquid becomes a solid, with the properties of natural raw rubber.

Department Stores' Sales in June Exceed 1938 Level

Department store sales throughout the nation in June averaged 5 per cent larger than in June, 1938, the federal reserve board reported yesterday. The largest gain was made by the Atlanta district, where sales increased 13 per cent. The Chicago and Cleveland districts, the gain for each of which was 9 per cent, showed the next largest increase.

TREASURY CUTS FOREIGN SILVER PRICE FURTHER

Metal Falls Faster in London Market.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 10.—The treasury today reduced its price for foreign silver by another 1¾ cents to 35 cents an ounce, a new low since the administration began its silver purchase program.

Today's price, established at noon, failed to hang as closely to the London open market price as it had since price cutting began two weeks ago. In that time 8 cents have been lopped off the treasury's price for purchases from foreign silver interests.

The price of 35 cents compares with a London price of 33.84 cents, which would still allow a profit after shipping costs on metal sent to the United States mints. The cost for shipping the metal is estimated at only one-half cent an ounce.

Foreigners Still Profit.

Since the United States has expressed a willingness to buy all offerings at its price foreign producers could still exact a sizeable profit on large scale dumping on the American treasury, regarded as "sugar daddy" since 1933 to domestic and foreign silver producers.

Allowance of this profit was viewed as a move by the treasury to stabilize the market price for the metal. It follows the policy in effect prior to the last two weeks. After the senate had temporarily voted to bar further purchases of foreign silver the London market slumped and the treasury pared its price to match the London level. Prior to that time the treasury had maintained the price at 43 cents an ounce, since early in 1938, and the open market held close to that level.

Morgenthau Won't Comment.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. today turned taciturn on the subject of silver. He said "I have no comment" when asked for the significance in the treasury price.

One explanation is that the White House and the state department are interested in seeing that the silver purchase program continues abroad. President Roosevelt has already defended it as part of his "good neighbor" policy and Secretary of State Cordell Hull is slated to testify before a senate banking subcommittee some time this week in opposition to a bill to prohibit foreign silver buying.

The bill was introduced by Senator John G. Townsend Jr. [R., Del.]. It had been voted as part of the senate money bill prior to its reversal in favor of a conference report which pegged domestic silver purchases at 71.11 cents and left the situation on foreign metal the same as before—namely, purchases of all offers at a price approximating that in the open market.

Hull Has Eye on Mexico.

Hull was reported today as believing that discontinuance of the treasury's foreign silver purchases might hamper negotiations over the Mexican seizure of American oil properties in Mexico. The southern neighbor of the United States has been one of the leading sources of foreign silver and has claimed serious economic effects since the drop in price.

Townsend isued a statement yesterday in which he pointed out that Mexico had sold 217 million dollars' worth of the 237 million dollars in silver which the treasury has bought from Latin American countries.

Mexican Peso Declines.

MEXICO CITY, July 10.—(AP)—The Mexican peso declined today in sympathy with the world price of silver, shrinking to a point where it was quoted at about 17 cents in United States currency in comparison with its old rate of 27.77 cents.

Gold Worth 100 Times Price Offered for Foreign Silver

New York, July 10.—(AP)—An ounce of gold in terms of dollars became worth today 100 times as much as an ounce of silver on basis of the United States treasury's buying price for imported silver. The treasury, following a further decline in the world market price at London, cut its quotation for foreign silver to 35 cents an ounce from 36¾. The government price for gold is $35 an ounce.

Statistical records running back to 1700 indicated it was the highest ratio of gold to silver in modern times. Old timers in Wall Street were moved to reminisce on the years, in the Bryan presidential campaigns of '90's, when 16 to 1 silver was a political battle cry which stirred the nation to its emotional depths.

Ratio Long 16 to 1.

The 16 to 1 ratio was the historic relationship between gold and silver. Records show the two metals remained in approximately that ratio in metal markets at least from 1700 until after the civil war. Then silver began a great decline which eventually catapulted it into politics. In 1932, it was down to nearly 24 cents an ounce, but the United States gold price then was $20.67 an ounce.

In London, the world price today fell below 34 cents an ounce, making the ratio more than 100 to one. The United States treasury, however, did not fully meet the foreign drop.

Imports Depend on Differential.

Mining circles waited for the world market to find a resting place before trying to appraise what effect the drop would have upon mining operations abroad, particularly in Mexico, the leading silver producer.

Although the treasury's price was more than a cent above the London equivalent, market followers said it was unlikely that any large quantities would be taken in the world market for United States account unless a differential is maintained.

The government price for newly-mined domestic silver—around 71 cents

The chart compares the relationship of gold and silver at the low time in 1932 and today. The ratio was close to 16 to 1 from about 1700 until the civil war. The current ratio is based on the American buying price for foreign silver.

an ounce—was more than double the quotation on imported silver. The statutory price, as fixed by law for monetary valuation purposes, is $1.29 an ounce.

GOVERNMENT TO SELL SECURITIES SEIZED IN WAR AND KEEP MONEY

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—The office of the United States attorney general is preparing to auction securities seized from 1,200 individuals from 1917 to 1920 under the "trading with the enemy" act, it became known today.

The securities, among which are issues of leading American corporations, will be sold at public auction by Adrian H. Muller & Co., in its Jersey City, N. J., sales room, July 19. The proceeds will belong to the government.

Justice department officials in Washington said no securities owned by Grover Cleveland Bergdoll—the recently imprisoned world war draft evader—are among those to be auctioned.

SHOE COMPANY TO REORGANIZE OR LIQUIDATE

The Fargo-Hallowell Shoe company, one of Chicago's oldest shoe manufacturing concerns, will either be liquidated or reorganized and moved to some other city, according to the Shoe and Leather Mercantile agency.

Assets of the company have been turned over to A. J. Thomson, an official of the Shoe and Leather Mercantile agency, as trustee. J. F. Cook, a member of the agency's staff, explained that every effort will be made to reorganize the company. If this cannot be done the assets will be liquidated for the benefit of its creditors.

If the company is reorganized it will be moved from Chicago to some small town. The company, whose plant is at 1701 North Damen avenue, employed from 100 to 125 persons.

SEC Adjourns Hearing in Transamerica Case

San Francisco, Cal., July 10.—[Special.]—The hearing in the Transamerica corporation case was reconvened by the Securities and Exchange commission here today but was adjourned immediately subject to call of the commission on ten days' notice.

Grain Prices Slump in All World Marts

World grain prices slumped yesterday. All deliveries of corn, and December wheat, rye and soy beans sold on the Chicago Board of Trade at new low levels for the season. All deliveries of wheat in the Winnipeg and Liverpool markets went into new low ground since the depression years.

Wheat prices on the Chicago Board of Trade were about 1½ cents lower at one time with the July delivery selling at 65¼ cents, a new low since last December. Short covering was responsible for a small rally and the close was 1 to 1⅛ cents a bushel lower.

Corn Market Lower.

Corn closed at declines of ⅝ to ¾ cent and oats were ⅛ to ¼ cent lower. Rye lost ½ to ⅝ cent and soy beans were ¼ to ½ cent lower.

Yesterday's decline in wheat futures carried prices in American markets about 10 to 15 cents a bushel under the government loan level. As a result, a large share of the carlots of cash grain received at Chicago were ordered placed in storage to secure loans.

Fears that the department of agriculture's July 1 estimate on American grain crops and the farm reserves to be issued later in the day, would show liberal yields and aggregate supplies well in excess of normal domestic requirements were a factor in depressing grain prices, brokers said:

Minneapolis Loses Most.

The Minneapolis market led the decline in wheat futures closing 1⅜ to 1⅞ cents lower. Winnipeg lost ⅞ to 1⅛ cent and Liverpool was 1½ to 1⅝ cents lower. Cargoes of cash wheat from various countries were said to have sold below 50 cents a bushel in the English market.

The visible supply of American grain showed the following changes from a week ago: Wheat increased 14,148,000 bushels, corn decreased 1,295,000; oats decreased 32,000; rye increased 89,000; barley increased 147,000.

The European demand for old and new crop soy beans has been largely responsible for maintaining a relatively high price for that commodity, brokers said.

SET 716 MILLION BUSHELS AS 1939 WHEAT HARVEST

Corn Crop to Be One of Biggest Since '32.

A 1939 wheat harvest in the United States totaling 716,655,000 bushels was forecast yesterday by the department of agriculture. Basing its figures on July 1 conditions, the government estimated the winter crop yield at more than 537 million bushels. A probable harvest of more than 178 million bushels of spring wheat was indicated.

The aggregate of the winter and spring crops, if the maximum indicated yield is realized, will be about 215 million bushels less than the 1938 harvest of 931 million bushels. Government statisticians raised by about 14 million bushels their earlier estimate of winter wheat production based on conditions at the beginning of June.

Winter Crop Average 560 Million.

The June 1 forecast was for a winter crop of 523 million bushels. Last year's big winter wheat harvest yielded 686 million bushels. Over the last decade production has averaged 560 million bushels annually, including three short crops from 1932-'35.

The indicated yield of spring wheat is based on the prospective plantings reported to the government earlier in the season by farmers. The 16,428,000 acres seeded to spring wheat promise a yield of 147 to 178 millions, judged on the basis of past returns and the conditions prevailing over the spring wheat belt. Even if the maximum return is obtained, the total yield will fall about 66 million bushels below the 244 million bushels harvested in 1938. The average yield has been 206 million bushels in the last 10 years.

Set Corn at 2,570,795,000.

Corn production was placed by the government experts at 2,570,795,000 bushels. This would be one of the largest crops since the near-record of 2,931,281,000 bushels in 1932. The ten year average for the corn crop is 2,309,674,000 bushels. Last year's crop was 2,542,238,000 bushels.

Farm reserves of corn on July 1 aggregated 837,000,000 bushels, including 257,000,000 bushels sealed in cribs as collateral for government loans. Reserves on July 1, 1938, were 643,000,000 bushels, of which 50,000,000 was pledged to the government for loans.

After eliminating the corn pledged to the government, the amount of free corn on farms on July 1 was 580,000,000 bushels, or about the same as a year earlier. The carryover of corn on Oct. 1, 1938, aggregated 407,000,000 bushels.

May Vote on Corn Quotas.

After the crop forecast was issued, officials indicated they might have to move to invoke strict marketing quota provisions of the farm law in the case of corn to cope with the surplus problem.

If quotas were approved by two-thirds of the corn belt farmers vot-

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 10.—The stock market nosed irregularly higher today, although volume was sharply curtailed. Public participation was negligible and professionals poked about cautiously.

The turnover of 282,800 shares compared with the seventeen year low of 235,146 shares last Monday.

Foreign news was said to have had little influence on prices, observers attributing the underlying firmness to a budget of constructive business news.

The upturn in steel operations from the holiday week; improvement in the United States Steel corporation's shipments in June over May; the increase in retail trade last month and predictions of better second quarter earnings for the automobile industry were among the items viewed favorably in Wall street.

On the other hand union labor unrest throughout the country tended to temper enthusiasm with caution.

Chrysler and American Telephone were among the brightest features, rising 1¼ and 1⅜ points, respectively. United States Steel, Bethlehem, United States Rubber, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Kennecott, Sears-Roebuck, International Nickel, and Montgomery Ward were among pivotal issues to work higher.

Low priced motors ruled firm in better trading. Rails showed some life in early dealings and made moderate gains, most of which were retained.

Power and light shares also gave a relatively steady performance Commonwealth Edison took volume honors for the list and closed unchanged. Most aviation issues gave small ground.

New York Bonds.

New York, July 10.—(AP)—United States government loans under heavier demand gained sharply in an otherwise quiet bond market today.

Gains running as high as 20-32 of a point were registered for the treasury issues while, on a basis of volume, the average for this type of bond ranged around 8-32 point. Traders said the rise was due to a shortage of offerings at the present time.

Corporate loans were traded at a far slower pace, with advances and declines practically even in number.

South American issues were among the few to gain in the foreign government list, although a jump of 10 points to 113 was registered by Irish Free State 5s in the first recorded sale since April. Polish government bonds gained again.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks were moderately strong yesterday, with volume totaling 22,000. Of the 78 issues traded, 28 advanced, 20 declined, and 30 were unchanged. Chicago corporation common was the most active stock. On a turnover of 5,600 shares it closed unchanged at 1¼. Among the other leaders, Commonwealth Edison, Middle West, W. B. Jarvis, and Aviation corporation were unchanged at 4. Hupp Motor and Marshall Field gained minor fractions.

Bank Stocks.

CANADIAN BANK REPORTS UPTURN IN TRADE TREND

Canadian business improved slightly from April to May, the Bank of Nova Scotia reported yesterday. The bank's cumulative index of business gained from 91.9 per cent of the 1925-'29 average in April to 93.4 per cent in May.

The index is based on general industrial employment, wholesale prices, revenue car loadings, industrial production, and turnover of bank deposits obtained by the dominion bureau of statistics.

"It is, of course, too early to say whether this gain represents the beginning of a general upward movement or merely a variation of the indecisive trend of the last twelve months," the bank said. "The improvement was broad in character, however, occurring in some degree in every one of the five component series."

Industrial production and freight trafic gained substantially, the report showed.

Ickes Continues Orders of Soft Coal Commission

Washington, D. C., July 10.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Interior Ickes has signed an order effective July 1 continuing in effect all regulations, orders, instruction notices, and notices adopted by the National Bituminous Coal commission. Administration of bituminous coal act was transferred from the commission which was abolished to the secretary of the interior by a Presidential order, effective on July 1, to be administered by such agency as the secretary might determine. The secretary has created the bituminous coal division as the agency for administering the law.

November Butter Eases; October Eggs Unchanged

Cash selling and more favorable production weather caused a decline of ¼ cent a pound in November butter futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. Prices improved later, however, and closed ¼ cent lower at 23¾ cents. October eggs finished unchanged at 19⅝ cents a dozen. Liberal hedge selling and profit taking were offset by buying on the stronger cash market.

Wallace Urges Federal Insurance on Cotton Crop

Washington, D. C., July 10.—(AP)—Secretary Wallace told congress today that it might well extend federal crop insurance to cotton "in view of the many hazards that affect the production of cotton and the large number of farmers who must face these hazards."

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

A generous increase in supplies of hogs at all leading packing centers resulted in a break in prices at the Chicago stock yards and elsewhere yesterday. Prices in Chicago fell 10 to 25 cents.

Although the spread is hog prices reached a new wide point for the year, there was a tendency toward a smaller range in the cattle trade yesterday. Prices were irregular.

A sharp decline swept the lamb trade. Natives slumped 25 to 50 cents, and westerns sold off 25 to 50 cents, and westerns sold off 25 cents.

BAY STATE SELLS BONDS.

The National Shawmut bank and the Boston Safe Deposit and Trust company, both of Boston, were awarded $6,000,000 of Commonwealth of Massachusetts notes at a record low interest rate 0.035 per cent. The notes, dated July 20, will fall due on July 18, 1940.

MAY POWER USE GAINS.

Production of electric energy for public use in May totaled 10,170,781,000 kilowatt hours, an increase of 4 per cent from the previous month and 14 per cent more than in the same month last year.

SET 716 MILLION BUSHELS AS 1939 WHEAT HARVEST

Corn Crop to Be One of Biggest Since 1932.

A decision as to whether to hold a referendum will not be made until after the Aug. 10 crop report. Officials emphasized that crop prospects might deteriorate by that time, and reduce the prospective supply below the level which would require a poll.

Private forecasts earlier had placed the corn crop at about 2,640,000,000 bushels, or about 100,000,000 bushels above last year's crop.

Oats production was estimated by the government experts at 872,823,000 bushels, compared with 930,200,000 a month earlier. Last year's oats crop was 1,053,839,000 bushels, and the ten year average 1,049,300,000.

More Rye Predicted.

Rye production was forecast at 41,486,000 bushels. This was an increase of 6 million bushels over the estimate of June 1, and compares with a ten year average yield of 36 million bushels and a 1938 yield of 55 million bushels.

Although the prospective wheat harvest this season is smaller, the United States will begin the new season with an ample supply of grain because of the large surplus carried over from the 1938 crop. It is estimated that the supply on hand from last year amounts to between 250 and 275 million bushels. This means a total available supply in excess of 900 million bushels for the coming season. Domestic consumption fluctuates between 600 and 700 million bushels.

Estimates by States.

The government estimate on winter wheat in the principal producing states, with comparisons on the June 1 estimates and the actual 1938 yields follows [in bushels, 000 omitted]:

Federal and state departments of agriculture reported at Springfield, Ill., that this season "is one of the best on record for advanced growth of corn and soy beans."

The weekly crop review of A. J. Surratt, senior agricultural statistician, said both crops continued to make exceptional progress in the last week. Many early fields in central and southern Illinois are tasseling and shooting ears.

The federal crop reporting board said this year's plantings of soy beans for the nation totaled 8,119,000 acres, the largest on record. The 1938 soy bean area was 6,858,000 acres.

World Crop to be Smaller.

ROME, July 10.—(AP)—The wheat production forecast of the International Institute of Agriculture indicated today that the world's crop will be slightly less than last year's bumper yield but still a big one.

The European forecast was for 1,640,000,000 bushels, against 1,841,000,000 last year.

The institute also reported prospects for large crops in soviet Russia, Corea, Palestine, Japan, and the near east and a 40 per cent increase in the French zone of North Africa.

World Group Considers Wheat Quotas, Price Peg

LONDON, July 10—(AP)—The preparatory committee of the wheat advisory committee met today to discuss quotas which would be used as a basis for drafting the program for the proposed world wheat conference. Minimum price proposals also were understood to have been discussed. The meeting will be resumed tomorrow. The preparatory committee consists of representatives of the "big four" countries—Argentina, Australia, the United States and Canada.

Lower Rates on Loans to Home Buyers Sought

Washington, D. C., July 10.—[Special.]—Projected legislation to provide lower interest rates for home purchasers in urban areas was announced today by Senator Warren Barbour [R., N. J.]. He praised the action of the senate in approving last week a bill to grant farmers 3 per cent loans to buy or refinance farms, but said this program should be extended to home owners.

COTTON

Cotton prices on American exchanges advanced 10 to 20 cent a pound to a new high for the season on the deferred delivery prices. Closing trades were at the top. Persistent buying attributed to Liverpool and Bombay featured the trading. Toward the close short covering helped the advance. Offerings were light on the way up. Relative weakness in the Liverpool market was ignored.

Details of the cotton export subsidy plan are expected to be announced on July 13 following a conference between Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and representatives of spot cotton firms and textile interests.

Spot cotton closed .05 to .15 cent a pound higher with New York 10.02 cents; New Orleans, 9.55 cents; Galveston, 9.47 cents, and Houston, 9.45 cents a pound. Prices follow:
